"Ape" Whitehill, the master mind of Daniel Duren, has been meeting mysterious visitors from the coast of Pennsylvania to name the best half of the time.

Tell me not in mournful numbers that I heard it in a dream that I saw it in sleep of the half-mad, nor as if the eye of the half-sane could see or see in the dimness of circumstance. That I heard it as a tumult in the earth, but not as that which is heard in sleep—tale me not in numbers that the half-wit dreamt it as he stumbled in the dark. Vanishing Herd Down Opponents

Before a crowd of 13,000 fans yesterday, Captain M. J. Crandall's Conquering Hornets defeated the Vanishing Herd, 11-0, in the thrilling victory over the first team in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Captain Crandall, who himself played full-back for the Vanishing Herd, was easily the outstanding full-back player of the game. While the sun was shining through the few clouds which were lasting in the sky, Captain Crandall would continue to lead the Conquering Hornet players.

The Conquering Hornets took a great lead in the early moments of the game when the zakewild Captain Crandall broke through the Vanishing Herd's line and scored a touchdown. The Conquering Hornets were leading 11-0 at the half-time whistle.

In the second quarter, the Conquering Hornets took full advantage of their lead and scored two more touchdowns, increasing their lead to 17-0. The Conquering Hornets won the game 17-0.

Up In The Air!

The Poly Press Staff was well represented at the California Polytechnic Press Conference, held at San Marcos, by Mr. McLean and by Mr. Hughes. The Poly Press Staff also had representatives at the Pacific Coast Press Conference held in San Francisco.

Perhaps one of the miracles of the Poly Press is that the staff were able to come and go without a hitch.
