Poultry Plant Outlines

By Herb Bodeen

The replacement program at the Poly poultry plant is now in full operation. Besides replacing birds lost last year due to cold and death, and replacing old hens, the plant intends to raise up to 500 birds. Leghorn chickens being raised are from Poly's own pedigree flocks, and each bird is carefully wing-banded as it is taken from the incubator.

Records are kept of the birds born, died, and of its entire life. The plant has recently re-ceived eggs purchased from Pack's Breeding Farm, in Pennsylvania, which will be hatched here. New Hen-purposes should also be purchased from Ohio's best breeders.

One hundred and fifty Beltsville White turkeys will also be raised.

Mustang Pugilists Set to Upset Santa Barbara Team

The Mustang boxing team will attempt to win glory for Poly by defeating the Gauchos from Santa Barbara tonight in the Poly gym.

Earlier in the year the Gauchos defeated the Mustangs, but tonight the Poly team has added power to their side to make the fight more of a contest.

Cal Poly's "off-beaten", but never out-fought basketball ball team will be host to the Fresno State of President McPhee on Saturday night in the Poly gym. Friday evening, and wind up their season in a finale with the total contests will be 2C2A Conference games. The starting title for the games will be at 4:30 p.m.

Fresno State with a 6-2-0 victory over the Mustangs in an early season game improved out, but a bold man will win over San Jose State and another slightly favored Friday evening.

Leading the building will be John Toomasian, tall center, and high point for the team this year. John, a dangerous man in the pix of play, shot is a dead shot with either hand. Thomanian's two fast running mates, George Barkwell and Paul Koerter, are both accurate shots, and are very effective underneath the back boards (both backboards, that is). San Diego holds two decisive wins over Poly and has up-set both Sunk Bartera and San Jose in recent conference competition. The Mustangs are in second place in conference standings, and interest tremends thereon Saturday night.

Ken Dollar, Bob Nettall and Big Bill Hutchison, are chiefly responsible for the Aztecs recent return to form and will be among the starters against Poly.

Ken, a former Mustang, is a "All-American" forward, and a very shifty man. Tall center, Bob Dollar has high score for the Aztecs in many games this season, and is definitely a threat in every game he plays. "Big" Bill Hutchinson is the rebound expert on the squad.

Among the San Diego players is a fact that will be of folklore for the future. He is a former Cal Poly student and played basketball here under Coach Howie O'Daniels. Goodboy, who was the third man on the scoring record at Poly, having garnered 24 points, is tall center. "Beres" may be here to see his former coach, as he is a set shot artist and is capable of hitting the hoop from all angles. There balls from Champagne.

ROLLAND TITRA - 1st and shiftly guard on the Mustang hoop team. "Whizzy" as he is known to his friends, is a set shot artist and is capable of hitting the hoop from all angles. There balls from Champagne.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By JOE GRIPPIN

Everyplace you go someone has a smile or a good word and that always brightens things up. The old double spot on the campus, or should I say bloomy spot, seems to be around Condall Gymnasium. Dr. Votier has a barred look; you don't see much of O'Daniels Popodon smile; Chuck Pavelko has that distant look in his eye, and John Toomasian is the most preoccupied.

I wondered what caused these bloomy reactions, so I did a little investigating. From what I gathered, the reasons were financial. I'm guessing it for granted that you are all familiar with the fact that the State of California and our athletic department have nothing in common, financially, speaking, as far as intercollegiate competition goes as far as the future is concerned, the pie is being cut seven ways from Sunday with all departments getting in on the share of the income here, and the department heads are not coming in on any of the action. This is a subject with which everyone from President McPhee on down through the chain of command is concerned.

An attempt was made to arrive at something definite to work on at a meeting held last February 4, but people became just a little more confused. President McPhee contributed the only definite statement of the evening, when he summarized his views by plainly stating that the college is not going to subsidize the conference members because of financial reasons.

The future prestige of our college depends partially on how we shape up in the field of athletics and gentlemen, this requires much more action than using a slide rule and making a lot of wishful thinking. It requires that every member of the student body be given their just share of attention. Since the start for a successful future in the athletic program we have undertaken, we must have a source of revenue. All of the athletic department problems seem easy to solve until the question of money is brought into the picture. Our check book is full of blank checks but the balance on hand doesn't allow for any action. This is a subject with which everyone from President McPhee on down through the chain of command is concerned.

The swimming team didn't do so well against San Jose State last Friday, and12.000 spectators saw the College of Pacific Annex the California College Athletic Association, 2d Place, as they downed the Mustangs at Stockton last Friday night. Dropped quite a few points but two in a row as they switched 21 free throws through the cords.

After losing to the College of Pacific the night before, Cal Poly played an outstanding play of little Lee Rosa, who took scoring more than one point and 18 tallies through the basket. Runner-up for the Mustangs was Hank Moroski, who hit for 17 points. San Jose placed the cross as a desperate game.

The greatest Polymen, up to desperately to stop the champions, couldn't break the lead, but the "champs" just couldn't be stopped as they switched 21 free throws through the cords.

After winning the conference title, the Mustangs go to the 2d Place as Hank Moroski won over San Jose last Saturday. The Mustangs improve their record all the way, but came out on the short end end of a 69-47 score.

Hank Moroski, who hit for 14 points, received a tremendous ovation as he entered the floor and defensive game.

Robinson scored 16 points. Following him out shortly afterwards, was San Jose scored 16 points.

They only trailed by one point; the underdog as they switched 21 free throws through the cords.

The"champs" just couldn't be stopped as they switched 21 free throws through the cords.

Press Club Meets Monday to Hear Edward Kennedy

By R. W. Sanders

An internationally famed journalist, Edward Kennedy, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Cal Poly Press Club to be held at the Geonza Tea Room, Monday night. Kennedyn, who is now managing editor of the Santa Barbara Press, was the European bureau chief for the Associated Press during the war and received considerable notority when he was alleged by army intelligence to have released the VE Day news prior to official authorisation. Subsequent information has corroborated his stand that he was victimizing to newsroom rules rather than any ethical standards of journalists when he released his story to the American people.

Other guests who will attend the banquet will include President J. A. McPherson.

John Patterson, temporary president of the Press club, announces that a short business session will precede Kennedy's address. According to Patterson, the main item of business will be to adopt a constitution for the club.

The Poly Press club was reorganized in January to set up a service group on the Poly campus. The membership of the organization comprises students who are at present working on student publications, including both the editorial staffs of El Mustang and El Rodeo, and students working in the college printing shop. E. E. Kennedy, journalist instructor, and "Bert" Fellows, director of printing, are acting as club advisers.

Howard Vaughn Addresses Boots and Spurs Meeting

By T. T. Brannum

Howard Vaughn was the speaker at the February mee

ing of the Boots and Spurs meeting held last Thursday.

Spelman Collins, who introduced him, described him as one of the top men in the United States sheep industry. Vaughn is president of the Western Wool Growers' Association and operates a flock of pure bred Suffolk sheep as well as feeding lamb and steers on landin g clover pastures.

Speaking as a sheepman of 25 years experience, he urged prospective sheepman and livestock men in general to get a thorough education with emphasis on chemistry and biology first, and second to take advantage of acquaintance with successful livestock men. Vaughn also recommended that no one enter the sheep business unless he has a genuine interest in sheep; that the future se p the present period of high prices makes it impractical to enter any form of livestock business without a genuine interest. As an example of things not to do, Mr. Vaughn told of graduates of both Poly and the College of Agriculture at Davis that have failed to take full advantage of both Poly and the College of Agriculture facilities by not engaging in large enough enterprises to utilize all their resources.

The present period of high prices makes it impractical to enter any form of livestock business as a proprietor now, but Mr. Vaughn pointed out that working for an established stockman will give one much valuable knowledge if he does not maintain a critical attitude in the thinking of his employer.

Appointment of New Farm Supt. Announced

The appointment of Erie S. Campbell as general farm superintendent of the college was announced this week by the administration. Campbell, who has had more than 28 years practical experience as foreman and superintendent of a number of very large California farms and ranches, is expected to take over his new duties between March 18 and 25.

Campbell, who is also head of the agriculture engineering department, of his duties as farm superintendent. Merson has for several years ex cuted the duties of both positions.
