Our Manners Are Showing

It was recently called to my attention by an older and wiser member of the Mustang family that while our "upside down, eari^while learning, learn while doing" educational philosophy may be realistic, its effective implementation is not. He further pointed out that we need a reasonable facsimile. Our manners are showing.

With that in mind, we have decided to focus on the ways and means of improving our manners. We are beginning with a discussion of the importance of good manners and how they can be improved.

We will be covering a variety of topics, including:

- The importance of good manners
- How to improve manners
- Examples of good manners

We hope that you will join us in this important discussion and that we will all work together to improve our manners and create a more pleasant environment for everyone.
Here's How Visiting PE Teacher Regards Poly And You Students

"Call Poly's boys are no typical college boys; they are more mature than male students on other college campuses," was the pronouncement made by special education teacher, Jewel, the visiting teacher from Cal Poly earlier this week. Jewel is now teaching at Brandeis High School near Long Beach.

Incidentally, man, her phone number is --- oh! I promised not to tell! However, whatever the statement is entirely true or not, I wouldn't venture to say. However, at this I am sure, if Jewel just perused our cards, her secret ambition. That inner cell counts for her wanting to know something about cattle. I learned that from Jewel's pets. I believe it or not, Jewel is from Texas, and she was just brought here. She was graduated from North Texas State. Teacher's college. She received her master's degree from the same institution in 1960.

Leach explained, is the unique project system which enables a student to raise his own birds, benefiting the student financially while it is used on a wide variety of flock sizes. Twenty graduates proved this in their first year as they sold 20,000 birds for a profit of $5,000.

Carl Winterbourne, Ag Ed student, a year ago had a choice of jobs waiting for him. Actually, Bob has even gone beyond that. He's in college and has already accepted his job. At the end of the spring quarter, Bob found himself a job teaching agriculture and operating his own farm in Salinas. He began this new career on July 1.

A professional improvement leave until August 1, is finishing up his last six units for a special secondary credential in vocational agriculture. Then he goes back to where he has already worked.

He says, although there is an oversupply of teachers and vocational ag teachers, he is not finding one job he is going to have to give up with this degree.

Bob has a major in citrus production. His major is electric production. Some of the students I have met are very friendly. I have been doing anything that I can to brush up on teaching techniques.

When Jewell was asked if she approved of the way Poly students dressed, she said, "I don't like the type of dress or the things they wear. I, too, would like to see some things that are in keeping with the college's philosophy." - Learning By Doing - But I do approve of the system.
