Baseball and basketball highlight the opening of Poly's fourth annual PE workshop Monday, August 6. The annual athletic conclave gets underway at 8 a.m. when John Wooden, UCLA basketball coach, begins explaining the do's and don'ts of the hardwood game. If anyone should be able to explain the game's finer points it's Wooden. The former Purdue All-American has established himself as one of the coaching greats. He and his Bruin squad have acquitted themselves in great fashion against all com-

Contrary to rumor, the Bashas' new $125,000 takes over the campus even though the rush of building is one of the famous naval construction battalions.

Daily progress on the new dorms, in common to most as the plant each moving operations on the hill is viewed. Surveyors, with level and transit, are engaged laying foundations, while carpenters are erecting a headquarters shack and preparing concrete forms, and George Maino is supervising operation.

Other projects are not so conspicuous, being carried on in re-terior enclosed parts of the campus. This week, for example, the new dorm's floor will go.

Garages And Porches May Stop Fall Room Shortage

With a survey of available housing on campus, both that already in use and some that has never before been used for housing, the Dean of Students office finds this to be lacking the biggest problem it has had for quite a spell.

Figuring every possibility from using Poly Field to putting beds in the vacant Garages, Dean Chandler is fairly certain the people who have to move will be able to find homes in the dormitories of the students who will arrive this fall.

There will be a hundred left for students who will decide to be at Poly this fall.

This will be about 220 more than were available last year, making more rooms for the students who will arrive this fall.

This means the college will now have to make available more rooms to the students.

Many college students and faculty members also, who own or rent homes nearby will fall.

The reason for this is that the Dean of Student's office has not been used for housing, the rope, as he said, his retirement was reported, "Sir Bess will receive the finest of food and care as long as he lives."

Sir Bess nears the end of his report of the Associated boards, as reported recently by the dairy depart- ment.

Why is Sir Bess in Poly View colours and not as usual in the Associated student's report?

"Sir Bess will receive the finest of food and care as long as he lives."

We'll see Sir Bess in the pastures across the street from Poly View, as usual every day. We can see the "best of food"—dairy pastures anyway, as it was cow nuts that give you a good turn by becoming landlords in the fall.

Sir Bess nears the end of his report of the Associated boards, as reported recently by the dairy department.

"Listen! was the last time called "the making season," is near. Many babies will be born before school year is over. With a little baby all the announcements will be read in this column.

The Newborns are all different. We will look for Sir Bess, our faithful bulb, to give us some news.

Benjamin Leon Jackson, Cal Poly's CCAA football star, in 1950 he started his scholastic years at San Jose high school. Leon lettered in football in his sophomore, junior and senior years. As a senior he was a coveted berth on the All Pacific-Interna­tional League at fullback position where he received his nickname "Stonewall Jackson".

Leon, although having various scholarships luring him elsewhere, came to Cal Poly because many friends were attending here.

Enrolling in Cal Poly in 1949 he was chosen captain of the freshman football team. He also was selected on the all-opponent teams of Fresno and San Francisco city colleges.

Also a Besse

He begins his Cal Poly career in 1949 where he made first string at the weight of 175 pounds. Besseplacing second in the inter­departmental tournament he also lained a very close third in the table tournament and had some of the stiffest competition on the Pacific Coast. Great things were expected of Leon Jackson his freshman season was cut short after two fights in which he did not acquire football. However, Leon has since been learning good trade and should turn out for fall practice in good shape.

Keeler Up For San Jose Main Event

Harry Keeler will for the third time this summer compete for amateur cycling honors when he rides the San Luis Cyclic's 450 class in the 450-mile program on the one-mile San Jose track.

Harry, proclaimed by many as the world's top professional, recently swept three first places in the amateur-events California State Championship on the Santa Barbara County fairground track in Santa Maria. Riding the Harley Davidson racing model Harry captured the trophy dash, the best race, in which he competed and the main event. Another dash was thrown out of the four fastest time triplers of the day and another dash Harry received a gold plated trophy, as a reward for winning the contest. He received a larger but similar award for his effort.

Harry also placed sixth in the National title for one mile tracks at Bay Meadows, Sunday, July 1, 1947.

John, Wooden (left), UCLA's head basketball coach, is seen talking to Captain Eddie Sheldrake of the 1950-51 Bruin varsity. Wooden, who has piloted the Bruins to three Pacific Coast Conference-Southern Division championships in the past three seasons, will instruct basketball forums in the PE Workshop getting under way next week.

- Study of animal anatomy and physiology will also feature in the use of the completed unit.
- The beef feeding unit, located near the feed mill, will be well on its way to completion. Yard Sbegis, dean of agriculture, reports that the unit will have a capacity of 150 to 175 of the school's herd of beefsteaks, Angus, and Herefords.
- The livestock judging-pavilion, the large, well-colored and moving completion by the beef unit, along with slaughter house and feeding unit will provide the missing link in the cycle of meat production from slaughtering through pasturing, feeding, feed lot, selection, slaughtering, processing and storage, says Lyman Station, animal husbandry chief.
- Preparation of the dairy unit is in full swing as evidenced by the large scale earth moving operations on the site on the back road.
