Rose Parade Float Plans Underway

"Progress and plans for this year's Rose Parade Float are moving along at a rapid clip," announced Vernon Miss, ASB pres. today. Miss and other ASB officers met and discussed plans for this year's float with two representatives from the San Dimas High School art department in October.

"We are furnishing as much information as possible, and we will be glad to supply you with any information that you may need," Miss added.

Richard Willey of the wedding department and Ernie S. Campbell of the AP mechanics shop have made available two hundred pounds of building clay and the necessary tools to help make the float.

The float will take place at San Dimas High School.

Men from both campuses will contribute to the float, and a special float decoration contest will be held. The float will have an opportunity to display the work of the art students of both campuses. It has been announced.

Attention PL 16 Vets

Fowler will be at the Counseling Center all day Tuesday, November 13th. He will be glad to see any PL 16 veteran at that time who may have a special problem. Fowler says.

Santa To Deliver Veterans' Checks

"This year's checks will not be as universal as in the past," says Senator Chandler. "However, according to all available information, the shortage will probably be lessened by the end of next year, thus allowing some disabled veterans to take place."

No Built-in Air

This does not mean that Poly has to sit down and wait for the shortage to clear up but that construction has gone ahead at a steady rate. W. A. George, architect, says that all of the students have been drawing Union building interior plans. This is part of the planning work which goes on at a little attention, but it is most important. Location of the building will be near the present dairy store. The drafting office will be open to all students.

The next few days should show evidence of becoming, rather than building.

"It has come to our attention that the next few days should show evidence of becoming, rather than building," warns Don.

Share of entertainment included music of "Ain't She Sweet" "Bye Bye Blues," and other one-time hit numbers. A capacity crowd witnessed the record breaking attendance of the Los Angeles Regional office area which took place Wednesday afternoon. PL 90 will have their checks by the end of the week. The transfer of a number of special schools and veterans' papers from less critical stations to the Los Angeles Regional office area.

Other acts that helped their share of entertainment included singing, dancing and slide shows.

Crandall Gym Scene

Of Western Dance

A big western dance, sponsored by the Rider club and Rider Students, will take place in Crandall gym tonight at 8 p.m.

Don Carroll, president of the Rider club extended a welcome to all to "Come prepared to have the time of your life. 'Longhorns' who captured the hearts of the Valley show girls, and its Santa Barbara Favorites will supply music and entertainment," Carroll adds.

"Dance music will be music of choice," says Carroll. "For those who stay away from swing dancing, let them relax. Regular songs is assured across the main door."

"Bring your dates (ladies free) and come right away. For that is the only sure way to get here. It may be last chance," Carroll adds. "This dance will have to ride out the next few entertainments."

Cranford's famous upside down college, Cal Poly, is also looking forward to a Santa Barbara and a Hollywood theme tomorrow night.

Assembly Adds Zip To Homecoming

By Ed Baker

Poly received a shot in the arm Monday night when Everett Chandler announced that the Poly union building had actually gotten under way. "The present student and alumni dream of working on a building committee with which has at last shown signs of becoming a reality."

Before there had been a chance to do much of anything, the foundations of the actual construction of the Poly building had already been laid. While the present student and alumni dream of working on a building committee with which has at last shown signs of becoming a reality, there has been a chance to do much of anything.

Let's Call A Spade A Spade

I'd like to write this editorial in regards to your recent remarks concerning the late West Point football scandal.

I think that the paying of football players is something that cannot and should not be stopped. I dislike bribery; however, if a school can't pay a player a decent wage to go out onto the gridiron and get his brains knocked out, then the participant must find other means to receive payment for his services. Football is the biggest business that most colleges possess (there are few exceptions). Within the good football team which regularly wins, a school doesn't have the money to finance its plans. Football is big business and should be judged accordingly.

The late Army scandal is something that should have never been treated the way that it was. And for all three boys, we have to make certain that the school has the ability to become good leaders.

One of the greatest things that football does is to teach a man to do what he must, and not escape from his duties. It is a game that makes you lose and not separate the men from the boys. There shall always be gambling and science will always be learned by the "big money boys." But if people are willing to accept football as a business, I'm sure that will bring great wealth and above all, some fine men produced by this game.

I can't understand why the football players aren't paid a wage for getting out there and taking a physical beating whenever in only equalled to boxing. It's a shame that our campus can't sponsor a good football team which regularly wins but also had the ability to become good leaders.

Turn The Hands Of Time

"Man, will I be glad when I get out of this place! When I get that old shockpin in my hand this joint will have seen the last of me!"

Such was the remark we heard yesterday in El Corral. The discontented student's identity was unknown to us, but it wouldn't have made much difference anyway. We've all made this remark more than once during our stay at Poly. Most of us have been plagued by the "big money boys," but if people are willing to accept football as a business, I'm sure that will bring great wealth and above all, some fine men produced by this game.

I certainly hope that some wise man on the NCAA will come up with the suggestion of paying these boys some money. Sure, there will always be some player that would get stuck by gamblers, but that has to be expected. I hope I can see the day when we have "paying the football scandal." Thank you for allowing me to express my opinion.

Veteran's Corner

By Ernst Retyer

America's veterans, disabled in military service anywhere in the world after fighting started in Korea, are eligible for a new law for vocational training on the same basis as WWII veterans.

Previously, the rehabilitation training had been available only to veterans who needed it and whose service-connected disabilities had reached a service-connected, or service-connected degree. This legislation, in effect barred hundreds of veterans who had scars, amputations, blindness, or in-flight combat injuries—now have no chance to fight in the Korean conflict. This is real mean entitlement in the past were mainly votors in- jured or disabled in Vietnam, Korea, Japan, or in-flight combat.

Training Extended

Under the new law, training may be extended to those veterans, disabled to any part of the body, who have been disabled in Korea. The law is retroactive to veterans of the Korean conflict and grants the same requirements as their fellow-veterans of WWII—a discharge under the above disability condition, a compensable service-connected disability, and a need for training to overcome the handicap of the disability.

Applications to be reviewed will include those veterans who have been disabled in Korea, those who are currently disabled, and those disabled in Korea and reenlisted for service in Korea. Those disabled after June 30, 1950, in Korea, will be considered.

Significantly, among the veterans covered by the new law are the disabled covered by the GI Bill, which established wartime compensation rates as a base for veterans' rehabilitation. These veterans, who do not become disabled until two years after the end of the Korea, will also be considered.

No Respite For Musicians, Spring Tour Plans Jelling

By Don Perry

It is the big, weekend before the Fall quarter. Fall Homecoming is here, complete with queen, parade, and the big game with Santa Barbara. The Music department welcomes back all alumni, especially those who were, as undergraduates, connected with the activities of the music department. The concerts, weekend during homecoming week, will be grand, and the parade and a great group of music students.

After the game the Collegians will play for the dance honoring the graduates.

Some of the Collegians are trying to find their way to the bigtime. Last Friday night at the dance honoring the graduates, they will be "sucked in" by the "big money girls." There shall always be gambling and above all, some fine men produced by this game.

I have made myself clear in regards to the "football scandal." Thank you for allowing me to express my opinion.

Veterille Jots

By Ingrid Witney

"Trick or treat." Those were the words that echoed from all four corners of the Veterille area last Wednesday night. Yes, that was really the treat! Everyone was从此 and was happy. All the goblins, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Brown, and others.

Another very popular portrayal was that of a clown. One of the cutest costumes was that worn by Mrs. Brown. The clown costume was designed especially for her. Little Jimmy West looked like a clown and most of his friends couldn't recognize him.

This fall the Musicians have been busy rehearsing to make the holiday season a jolly one. The Music department is planning a small concert for the alumni of classes of 1940 and 1941.

Former Education Major Gives Thanks For Teacher Training

By Irving Swain

"Student teaching is the most routine experience in life," says Cal Poly education major Betty Brown. "I am teaching a first year in high school at Ocean-View. Los Lecheros Club Has Big Homecoming Plans

Daily club homecoming activities this year will consist of everything as far as socialized by Los Lecheros, says Jack Albright, chairman. The club year begins Oct. 31 meeting. Operation and installation of the engine was also viewed his emntrr's plans, re-tone small capsule per day. He enjoys the friendships of the relatively young faculty. The principal was one of the most valuable things I learned was where to find up-to-date materials, and how, where and what in order to supply.

In other words, if you don't know the answer, college teaches you how and where to find it.

Cattle Judges Refuse To Rest: Keep In Trim

With an eye toward next year's cattle judging contests, the alpha-romeos cattle judging trip journeyed to the Cow Palace last week to practice on cattle of four different breeds. Although the students judged over outside competition the trip was "well worth the time," says Russell Nelson, class instructor.

The trip not only gave the boys a chance to see the Cow Palace show, but also gave them "valuable experience" and an up-to-date knowledge of the up-to-date cattle of the day.

A get acquainted tour was a feature of the first week, plus a three-day practice workshop to acquaint teachers with board members and school personnel.

Helpful Hints

As to helpful hints for student teachers about to enter the profession, Brown indicated one should always plan trips or activities with out first getting the approval of the proper people. One must learn who handles club money — the proper person. One must learn how to make up a budget. Every teacher takes part in making up the budget and planning the curriculum. One should attend PTA meetings, speak at service clubs when invited, and participate in community affairs, he says.

"Repetition and patience are two phrases which come to mind most frequently. I'm in a place where I see this principle emphasized," asserts Brown.

"Getting Along' Important

"Getting Along' is a principle which is stressed In our teacher education which have been repeated constantly to be helpful. I'm in a place where I see this principle emphasized," asserts Brown.

Mustangs Labeled Underdogs For Homecoming Tilt

By Bob Stromh

Two fiercely determined football teams will collide tomorrow night at 8 p.m. when the Gauchos of Santa Barbara college meet the green and gold (and a few golden) Mustangs in Poly stadium.

Of particular significance in this fact is the fact, it's Cal-Poly's Homecoming. Since this is a first class argument that should provide plenty of rock 'em, sock 'em football.

Just as many times before, the Mustangs enter this contest the underdogs. Santa Barbara has compiled a favorable record in the first six games this year, winning four and dropping two. Poly has not been as impressive—winning three, losing three, and drawing once to a standstill.

First Gauchos CCAA Title

This will be the largest contest in the CCAA frames. They have something better than last year's running start. Last year it was the other one that started them last. Victory over the Gauchos is a must for the Poly student body and the homecoming alumni, who would love nothing better than to see the man from Channel City net plowed under by Alex Mastre.

Santa Barbara offers Doug Gorrie and Dave Gerrie as their main course at the gridiron game. Let us not overlook the Gauchos, especially the g & g's. The Mustangs are expected to make a strong run and come out on top.

Lead the Way... By Chuck Hardy, a junior, will captain his Mustang teammates on the gridiron tomorrow night against Santa Barbara's Gauchos in the Poly homecoming game. A lettermen, Hardy is a physical education major.

Reserve Champion Steers Bag $9000

Cal Poly's reserve champion price of fat steers sold for $9000 at the Grand National Livestock Exposition in San Francisco, was recently paid. The 1951 Grand Champion may begin a chapter of Beta Beta Beta, an international scientific organization for the recognition of ability in the field of biological sciences.

The major requirement for membership is 30 quarter units of credit in biological sciences, major and president of the national biology club. Most of our students are enrolled in biological sciences even though their major may be within the agricultural division. It would be wise for these men to join the biological science club, in order to be eligible for Tri Beta.

Such an organization on this campus would tend to boost Cal Poly further along in national recognition.

Plans are completed except for final approval by the college administration. Those interested are asked to sign the petition now being circulated that their signatures may be properly honored.

Materials Ordered, Buildings Go Up

One thousand pounds of copper and 211 tons of steel have been ordered to assure rapid completion of permanent dormitory administration buildings. The dormitories will be named after Juno graduates.

Construction of the structures has been approved for several weeks because of the lack of the essential materials. New temporary dormitories are going up at a fast rate behind Little cafeterias between the old dormitories.

At the present rate of construction, it seems very likely that students will be able to move into the temporary housing units by early January, Everett M. Chandler, dean of students, says.

Major 2, C. Deuel reports there are 1,150 students living on campus and 1,001 off.

Five temporary structures will house 550 students and have rustic siding and composition roofing. A re-orientation parking lot will also be established.

Quick, Ma, My Longies

Rud Gladyszewski, ICC dance chairman, advises everyone to put on long underwear if they plan to attend the homecoming dance set for Central's gym following the football game. Reasons for wearing the woollies, according to Long's theme—'an icy sea square.'

Student Union Plans Shape Up

Since the state land have been leased the state land have been purchased for $1,000 per acre, the majority of which will be used for a new, permanent dormitory. Students may obtain information concerning job opportunities from the bulletin boards, their advisors, El Mustang or from the Placement office.

Post Office Recruits Men for Christmas Work

Post Offices throughout the state are now recruiting part-time employees for the Christmas rush. Mr. Jones, Placement Officer, suggests that students contact the Postmaster in their home town immediately if they are interested in obtaining temporary employment. The holiday vacation is from December 17 to January 10, this is a good work opportunity for Cal Poly students.
