Resident Hall Development Program Moves Forward

Nine students are helping to develop a long time residence hall.

Bill Lawson, resident hall director, details the project. Each of the nine students was selected by the resident hall development committee. The student members will pursue their ideas, work with the offices of residence hall planning, and believe they will benefit from the experience. The projects are expected to be complete sometime in June.

Poly Gets Chance To Curb Race Violence

Students and faculty members interested in helping to curb the recent outbreak of racial violence in Florida may now take direct action. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in cooperation with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is coordinating a "Guides Underway" project to assist the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in helping to curb the recent outbreak of racial violence in Florida.

The project, called "Guides Underway," is a nationwide program designed to provide a network of volunteers to assist in the prevention and control of racial violence. The project will be coordinated by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and will involve the cooperation of local and state NAACP organizations.

The program will involve the recruitment and training of volunteers to work with local NAACP branches, schools, churches, and other community organizations to identify and address potential conflicts before they escalate into violence. Volunteers will receive training in conflict resolution techniques, community organizing, and other skills needed to effectively address racial tensions.

The project is particularly focused on communities that have experienced recent outbreaks of racial violence, such as the one in Florida. Volunteers will work with local NAACP branches to identify and address the underlying causes of the violence, such as economic inequality, discrimination, and lack of access to opportunities.

The "Guides Underway" project is part of a broader effort by the NAACP to address the issue of racial violence in the United States. The organization has long been at the forefront of the fight against racial discrimination and inequality, and continues to work towards a more just and inclusive society.

Poly Pool Proves Lure For Wife; Learns Hard Way

By Dalton Ball

How many of you follow readers have ever seen the Poly pool, the strange and wonderful swimming pool of the future which is now enjoying such wide popularity? If you have, or have heard of it, I will greatly appreciate your indulging in the following story about its inventor, Carlis Ford, and his wife, Betty Ford.

After moving to the new house, Carlis Ford decided to build a pool. He wanted something different, something that would attract attention and be the talk of the neighborhood. After much research and planning, he came up with the idea of a Poly pool.

The pool was constructed using a special plastic material that was both strong and durable. It was also easy to maintain and required minimal cleaning. Carlis was so proud of his creation that he decided to name it the Poly pool.

One day, while swimming in the Poly pool, Betty noticed a bunch of guys playing a game of water polo. She was fascinated by their movements and the way they moved through the water. She asked Carlis if they could teach her how to swim, but he didn't think she had the talent for it.

Betty, however, was determined to learn and decided to take swimming lessons. She practiced every day, learning new techniques and improving her technique. Eventually, she became quite good at swimming and even started competing in local swimming events.

The Poly pool became a center for community gatherings and events, and Betty was often seen swimming with friends and family. Carlis was proud of his wife's progress and even more proud of the Poly pool that he had built.

At first, Carlis felt some doubts about whether his wife would be able to swim, but she showed him that her determination and hard work would pay off. Today, they are both proud of the Poly pool and the love that it has brought into their lives.

Missed Exams

Gertie's most embarrassing moment was yet to come. One night, while playing a game of water polo with her friends, Gertie accidentally knocked over a stack of books on the shelf above her. The books fell onto the pool, and Gertie was left with a pile of books to read. She quickly realized that she had forgotten to bring her own pool pass, and she was afraid that she would be denied entry to the pool.

Gertie's friend, Betty, came to her rescue. Betty promised to help her out and suggested that she could swim in her own pool. Gertie gratefully accepted, and the two of them started swimming together. Gertie's confidence grew, and she started to enjoy swimming in her own pool.

Finally, Gertie's swimming skills improved, and she started to feel more comfortable in the pool. She even began to compete in local swimming events and won several medals. Gertie was elated to have found her passion for swimming and had never felt more confident in herself.

Gertie's journey from a shy and nervous young woman to a confident and accomplished swimmer was a testament to the power of determination and hard work. She was grateful to Betty for her support and encouragement, and she knew that she would always be grateful for the Poly pool that had introduced her to her new passion.
West’s Best Coming Here

Poly, in the United States again.

And again we will prove we deserve the honor.

Right now we are speaking of our hosting the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate wrestling tournament March 7 and 8.

Wrestlers, coaches, managers and just as important—fans—will arrive here by the hundreds Wednesday to accept our usual friendly hospitality.

We have given loyal support to other worthwhile causes and we can do it again. This is the first time a big sports旅游 has been held on our campus. We should feel proud that we have had our share of history.

About 12 schools will enter teams: San Jose, California, Oregon State, Washington State and San Diego for example.

Coach Sheldon Harden, PCI secretary, claims huge crowds have attended other PCI’s (last year’s too, at Pullman, Wash.) and he sees no reason why we can’t get even larger attendance.

We will be hosting the largest wrestling tournament on the West Coast, college-wise. So, we shouldn’t overlook the value of these PCI matches. They are something big, evidenced by the fact that we will see the finest wrestlers from colleges and universities of the states of Washington, Oregon and California. Among them will be our own men, who have done quite well in past PCI’s.

This year the wrestlers will perform under Olympic competition rules and many of them will be aiming for tryouts and perhaps a position on the US Olympic team. They are helping us build our name, thereby contributing to our cause. They thought we deserved it.

So we do! We think so.

Veteran’s Corner

By Ernest Reiter

Delays in the opening of the 18-month special dividend on National Service Life Insurance are not as bad as anticipated. VA Regional Manager C. W. Chapman said today.

Preliminary figures for the first two groups of NBL policy-holders are lagging considerably behind the original schedule set by the service personnel.

The delays are due to the fact that the VA has been unable to process the applications for service personnel and to the discontinuation of all premiums on the policy by the service personnel.

Earnest R. Pond, the VA’s representative in this area, said that the VA has been unable to process the applications for service personnel and to the discontinuation of all premiums on the policy by the service personnel.

Veterans who are claiming for the first time and who have not yet applied for their special dividend payments should be patient. They will be processed in order of receipt by the VA.

Poly Mustangs Favored Over Wildcats

Gymnasts To Host San Jose Spartans

Next meet for Mustangs will be held in Crandall gym March 6 when they compete with San Jose Spartans at 1:30 p.m.

"This will be an interesting show to watch," said San Jose has one of the best balanced teams in the league. They will be headed by one of the finest double balance beam specialists who will be seen in Crandall gym," says Coach Noble.

Paul Flashbeek, Poly's top gymnast has eliminated all four poly gymnasts to only two officially elected, those being the top four-way meet at San Jose Fair at San Jose State, Stanford and the San Francisco Olym- pia club.

Coach Noble's charges made a fine showing against the key area teams, booking Stanford in third place in dual meet scoring and tying them for third in open competition tallying.

Poly's Ted Derino led the Mustang attack. He placed first in trampoline and tumbling.

Cal Poly's golf team is a member of the Southern California Inter-collegiate Golf Association.

Faculty Committee To Name Buildings

Renaming campus buildings is the responsibility of a newly established faculty committee, according to Chairman Charles Zagar, English instructor.

Citing itself the Poly Appellation committee, the group has free reign to develop a long-time dormant naming plan. It will report its findings within a month to the new residence hall planning committee for final selection.

The Library, Cendall gym, Crandall hall and Davis dormitory are outside the committee's jurisdiction and will remain as they are. Only two rules govern additions: Person's names shall not be used and no contest shall be held where a commitment to pick a winner would be made.

"We are not a closed corporation, students' thinking Is being included. That is why I'm involved," said the Poly Appellation Committee's member, Leland Kouraris.

"I am not here for the money," explained the committee's manager, "Snooks" Noggle, manager of campus cafeteria. "That is why the JC room of generators No. 1 is still called the JC room."

"Before I came, explains Noggle. The college was a junior-college-high school type institution. The high school students ate in the large hall, while the JC students ate in a small room.

Poly was a high school from 1903-1917, and a two-division 10 and high school from 1887-1918. In 1884 Cal Poly became a four-year technical school.

Poly Averaged $1,000 On Eight Bulls Sold

Sales of eight bulls from the campus beef unit this year brought an average of more than $1,000 a head, says Lyman Bendixen, animal husbandry department head.

Two Poly Shorthorn bulls brought $870 and $876, fourth and fifth high money at the Sacramento Shorthorn Bull sale. Pol.19. Sale average was $460.

"Poly Shorthorn bull went for $1,000 at the Red Bluff Shorthorn Bull sale shortly before," reported Lang.

This year, Olympic rules are being used. The PUC is in the middle of the national wrestling tourney and the wrestlers will be shooting for that.

If they win here and there, they may try for the Olympic team. Prices offer a Savings to Students.

Admission Friday will be 86 cents for students, 90 cents for servicemen and 76 cents general. Saturday afternoon they are as follows. Students, 86 cents, servicemen, 76 cents and general admission, 86 cents.

Book tickets also may be purchased to cover all three events. Students may buy them for 86 cents, servicemen for 86 cents. General admission will be 86 cents. Tickets may be purchased in advance in the ABB office.

Included in Cal Poly's outdoor athletic facilities besides PUC stadium, is another athletic field which includes a regulation quarter-mile track with 280 straight-away, a practice football field, and a regulation baseball diamond.
