Student Lamb Project Tops Grand National

The Intercollegiate Livestock Judging Team of the California Polytechnic State College at San Luis Obispo, California, recently participated in the National Intercollegiate Livestock Judging Contest held at the University of California at Davis. The Poly team placed second in the overall competition, earning them the title of "Grand Champion." The team was led by Engineers and Agricultural students, who demonstrated their expertise in evaluating livestock. This recognition highlights the strong commitment of Poly's students to the livestock industry.
Biological Instructor Assist Hooper Foundation In Encephalomyelitis Research

By Jerry Weina

Experiments which have been conducted by the George William Hooper Foundation at Berkeley, Calif., have offered conclusive proof that the northern feather mite, known as Lycellllomyia elytraeum is one of the causes of the western equine encephalomyelitis virus which causes sleeping sickness in horses.

Research scientists were successful in producing encephalomyelitis in 81 day old mites. This was accepted by grinding up the bodies of the mites and mixing them with rabbit serum which was then vaccinated and the experimental frog swallowed the mite bodies into the body of the frog. It took from three to six days for the disease to manifest itself in the frog. They were then able to isolate the encephalomyelitis virus from the frog's brain.

L. elytraeum has been found both at blackbirds of the Bakereffeld, and on chickens of the Han chicago area. According to Henry E. Gray, of Poly's biological science department, there is no tem-oinuous difference between the mites which have been found on the blackbirds, and those which have been on the chickens. However, ne has been shown that the songs of these two seemingly identiical mites are different.

The mites which infect the blackbirds are pathogenic, they are Parasites of an adult host, and are notoriously dangerous vectors of the western equine encephalomyelitis virus.

Dr. William S. Doetschman, of the Hooper Foundation, has been faced with the problem of maintaining living cultures of L. elytraeum for further research and animal study.

Previous to this time, Doetschman has been unable to maintain these mites from the Bakerefeld area.

Because of the fact that these mites infect only the eastings of the blackbirds, it has been impossible for Doetchman to continue year around experiments with these mites.

For this reason, Gray and Dr.
Howard Batch of the biology department are assisting Doetschman in overcoming hurdles which have hitherto made it impossible for Doetschman to continue year around experiments with these mites.

Dr. Allen Douglas

By Henry Melon

Dr. Allen O. Douglas, native of Utah, received his degrees from Colorado University. He is now instructor of bacteriology in the CR 20, and he has found a very satisfactory reason for singing the praises of Poly for this fall.

Having probed through the ag-motives courses, Dr. Douglas has found that, as a result, a pro-motor can see the reasons of his studies compared to previous his students are still undergoing

"There's a genuine satisfaction in seeing students realizing that the bacteria can be useful as well as harmful," Dr. Douglas stated.

"The bacteriologist in particular is given an opportunity of learning just what the presence of these organisms may mean.

Utah State college is the doctor's alma mater. He entered the Army Medical corps shortly after finishing graduate work at Cal, and was engaged in laboratory work through the war. He was stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, and after the war moved to the University of Utah, and after the war moved 1001 student to continue year around work.

Dr. Douglas hopes to one day find a possible way to control the bacteria in a certain manner, which is written in clear, concise, non-technical language. He wants his students to learn this business of writing, he may have to abandon his work and become a writer himself.

FINISH EXAM SCHEDULE

Final examinations for the Fall Quarter 1948-49 will follow a dif-mart pattern from that used during the previous two years. An EXAM-INATIONS SCHEDULE SPECIFICALLY INDICATED WILL BE HELD IN THEIR REGULAR CLASSROOMS AT THE TIMES SPECIFIED.

It is requested that students take their places at least one hour prior to the beginning of the examinations, and that they not leave the rooms until the last student has left the class. Students are requested to remain in the classroom until the following day at 11 a.m.

It is not necessary to appear for examinations on the dates specified above except where specifically indicated. Students who have been absent from classes during the quarter are required to make up examinations at a time agreed upon by the instructor and the student.

No make-up examinations will be held from 10-12, Tuesday, November 12, in your regular classroom.

If you have a course whose last lecture is W 8, your exam will be held from 8 to 10, Monday, November 12, in your regular classroom.

Professor Bob Nelson

Note: Uber Department

The following courses will have one hour finals, except where indicated otherwise. The time and place of examinations are indicated during the quarter, according to the following table.

THE COURSES WHICH HAVE ONLY ONE UNIT OF LECTURE CREDITS WILL BE HELD FROM 8-10 P.M.

May—Prof. Allen

Attendance on Tuesday, November 12, of all students appearing in this examination is requested.

By the authority of the Cal Poly administration, all faculty should turn their catalogues for the next fall.

On no other working days around the campus do the faculty and staff of the Poly have the right to make off the schedule.

All students who knock the "L" out of the Classes will be kicked out of the Poly catalogue.

A field trip to Oceano, Saturday, Nov. 18, will be sponsored by the Natural History club. The topic of the trip will be "Ecology." Anyone interested in natural history may make the trip. Lunch will not be furnished; trails will be provided.

"Snakes I Have Known" and "The Electron Microscope" are topics scheduled for near future meetings.

N. H. Club Sponsors Color Slide Contest

The first annual color slide show and contest, sponsored by the Natural History club, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 10, announced David H. Thomson, club advisor.

Judges for this event are James R. Smith, English and art instructor; Bridge Wilson, San Luis Obispo photographer; and Charles O. Smith, Biology instructor.

The show will be held in the Engineering auditorium, Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 7:45 p.m. Admission is ten cents; children under 18 are admitted free.

Women's Club Meeting To Feature Hobbies

Members of the Cal Poly Women's club will feature an exhibition of hobbies of club members. Members are requested to arrange for exhibit space with the committee in charge.

Gamma Pi Delta Forums To Be Regular

Because of the good reception of the recent Gamma Pi Delta forum, a discussion of smoking problems by Peter Andrews, the fraternity plans on sponsoring similar events in the future. Anyone interested shall be invited to attend.

Improper Identification Delays Subsistence Checks

A large number of veterans are not receiving their checks because they fail to properly identify themselves when filling out forms and writing to the Veterans Administration, VA. This also delays processing and answering of correspondence. Veterans are urged to place their full name, address, and claim number on all papers submitted to the VA.

Veterans Hospitalization

There is no deadline for medical, hospitalization, disability claims, or pensions.

Press Club Will Meet And Elect Officers

There will be a meeting of the Press club on Monday, Nov. 8, at 4 p.m. in Admin. 20, reported Don Miller, club president.

All men having any connection with the publications department or anyone interested in working on any school publication are invited to attend.

An election of officers will be conducted.

Poet's Magic Too Strong
For Slew-Foot Mustang

By "Spook" Barto

Last Saturday night was the eve of Haloween. Onto the turf of Poly stadium thundered eleven "ghastly" clad in the hair raising colors of Green and Gold. Their ultimate goal was to terrify their victims into utter holiness and then carry out a macabre slaughter of the supposedly inferior foe. The large crowd which had gathered to view this ghastly encounter dully observed the façade of the courageous invaders from the south.

The sharp report of a gun pierced the twilight air at night; with a cry of "thicker Your bones, old rascal, for tonight in the eve of Haloween!" the stalwart Mustangs charged into the vanguard of terribf Posti. To the dismay of the spectators, the outnumbered Parks hurled back the charge. A second and final assault by the Mustangs was turned sounder and the bewildered Mustangs retreated to the shadow of their goal post.

Huntsman, Half Fortioni and the horde. Nobody knows where he struck a mighty blow which in turn hurled the Post into a corner of its own. The crowd sighed heavily, their eyes full of mirth, as the contest was then processed as expected. But not the Mustangs struck two more mighty blows while the Mustang could find no answer but to retreat to its den.

A short time later the sides resumed their normal battle. But here in the first quarter of the second half the Mustangs seemed to establish a formidable attack on their northern neighbors. With a final, desperate effort the Mustangs broke through the Post lines and scored the winning goal. In the end both were on the verge of collapse. With a final, desperate effort the Mustangs broke through the Post lines and scored the winning goal.

For those who remain, the game was not a pretty sight. The crowd was composed of three main groups: thePost fans, the Mustang fans, and the neutral onlookers. Then there were those who remained in the comfort of their homes, watching the game on television...

Ladd by Bob Fyra and Harry Rucker, with three goals against, the Mustangs had a 3-3 tie in the first half time, and a lead of 4-3 at the end of the third period. The score at the end of the game was 5-5. Neither team could hold any lead, and the Oxy Tigers tied with the Mustangs 5-5.

Poly Road-runners overpowered the Mustangs in a 3-2 win, and the Mustangs are still lacking in capital to face their opponents. The Mustangs have not been able to get their revenge on the Fresno Junior College team.

The Press-The People

Now that we've all sweated out a long Tuesday night awaiting election results plus devoting most of Wednesday to rehashing the reasons for this major upset of the season, let's take a look at the present status of this political race.

Every paper on the west coast, with the exception of one about every Bay State paper, has carried a report of the election, with mention of the newspapers and magazines across the nation, were backing Democratic candidates and public opinion polls were all positive that Dewey would win.

In spite of all the guesses brought against him, Mr. Truman may win.

Right now we aren't interested in the reasons behind the present Democratic recovery. We are only interested in the fact that the Democratic campaign did not, and does not, involve the same sort of dishonesty, speeches, demagoguery, etc., that has characterized the Republican campaign. The Democrats did not exaggerate the good things that have happened under the present administration, nor did they lie about the bad things that have been done.

This sort of editorial is rather futile. But there's hope, and hope means something.

Special Notice—On Sunday evening, Oct. 31, between the hours of 8 and 9 p.m., some masked hunter or hunters shot a dog in the face at a hunting club west of the city. This dog lived on Cal Poly's Ranch Berreno, and is known well by all the students who have attended that hunting hide away. This dog was undergoing treatment for a broken foot, and is considered valuable. She never wandered from the immediate vicinity of her home at night.

The hunter or hunters who committed this " deed " did so when it was dark and after the dog had passed into a sleeping state. They were easily mistaken for any type of small animal, as they were holding their rifles in a colored siloring. After the shot was made the gun party shot their friend, they could not have mistaken what they had shot, they commented on the crime of "getting the hell out of there" when the dog was killed to correct their mis-doing.

The dog was shot at very close range, when the student mistook the hunter for her returning owner. The dog in all of that range was estimated at 40 feet, or less. She appears to be doing well now. The student appearing to take care of the dog immediately after the shooting.

State Entitlement Available For Veteran Students

Notice of expired entitlement under public law 340 has been received, in the Recruiter's office, from the Veterans Administration. Each student who is enrolled at Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, does not have his record checked before registering for the fall quarter. The mistakes are made for any future quarters.

A veteran student, has remaining years of entitlement under public law 340. This student should have his record checked before registering for the fall quarter. He will be entitled to all books, and supplies, at the time of registration.

Any refunds for fees and subsequent payments made would be based upon the number of days of remaining entitlement.

It is, of course, possible that the veteran student will want to enroll for any future quarter at another college under Public Law 340. but not enough days to meet the standard of entitlement under public law 340 are being received, in the Recorder's office, from the Veterans Administration.

Stolen SAC Cards To Be Replaced

The Student Affairs Council in a special meeting Wednesday noon unanimously came out in favor of assuming the burden of the expense in Student Body card search and replacement for the men who suffered the loss of their cards in the locker-room burglary Saturday night.

Earlier in the school year it had been decided that the student losing his card would have to pay $5.00 to defray the expense of a card-search and check at all the gates, etc. plus the replacement of the card and contingent bookkeeping expense.

In an effort to alleviate the burden on the football players whose cards were stolen, the SAC voted to expend their own funds in this cause.

The SAC further voted a $50 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who robbed the men.
