DEAR Editors:

We the members of PsyETA, Psychologists for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, an organization of psychologists interested in animal welfare, believe that most animal research scientists are concerned about increasing the welfare of their animal subjects.

Therefore, we are providing a vehicle to help coordinate efforts to that end and are excited about the prospects of widespread use in the scientific community of our new bimonthly publication, Humane Innovations and Alternatives in Animal Experimentation: A Notebook. The target date for the first issue is late spring of 1987. We envision the publication evolving into a practical, constructive compendium that would be continually updated for practical use in a wide variety of animal laboratories.

We now invite short papers describing specific ways to minimize suffering and harm for laboratory animals. Areas of particular interest include:

1. Husbandry and housing environments
2. Experimental design
3. Experimental procedures
4. Teaching methods.

We are also interested in any other humane innovations or alternatives. For more information and guidelines, write to: Emmanuel Bernstein, Ph.D., PsyETA, Glenwood Estates, Saranac Lake, NY 12983, or telephone (518) 891-4140.

Sincerely,

Emmanuel M. Bernstein, President
Psychologists for the Ethical Treatment of Animals
