Cal Poly Construction Management Professor Wins 'Outstanding Educator Award'

SAN LUIS OBISPO - Cal Poly professor Barbara Jackson recently received the Associated Schools of Construction "Outstanding Educator Award" at the 42nd Annual ASC International Conference in Fort Collins, Colo.

The annual award is presented to a faculty member of a four-year ASC member school. It recognizes the winning faculty member's contribution to construction education, excellence in teaching, service to the ASC and dedication to the construction profession.

Candidates are nominated by their peers, students and others. The winners are selected by the national board of the ASC.

For more information about Cal Poly's Construction Management Department in the College of Architecture and Environmental Design, visit http://construction.calpoly.edu/.

About the ASC
The Associated Schools of Construction is the professional association for the development and advancement of construction education, where the sharing of ideas and knowledge inspires, guides and promotes excellence in curricula, teaching, research and service. www.ascweb.org

###