Professor Suhr's husband honors her with donation

Paul Suhr, husband of longtime Dance Professor Moon Ja Minn Suhr, in honor of her wife's dedication and commitment to the university, has donated $15,000 to the College of Liberal Arts' dance program.

Moon Ja Minn Suhr is a 30-year veteran of the Theatre and Dance Department, founding director of the university's Orchesis Dance Company and dance program, and founder of the Ballroom Dance Club.

The gift will be used to install an air conditioning system in the Crandall Dance Studio.

The project is expected to be completed before the beginning of fall quarter. At that time, the studio will be renamed in honor of Suhr.

"All her students attested to her personal care for them and their dedication to the arts. Again, many, many, she has labored to expose as many as possible to the pleasures of dance. This has been no small accomplishment because the university began offering the dance minor only in the past decade," said College of Liberal Arts Dean Harry Hellenbrand.

Coley concert rescheduled

An Evening with Natalie Cole, originally set for tonight (Aug. 16), has been rescheduled to 8 p.m. Oct. 6 in Harman Hall. Cole was unable to fulfill her original commitment because she is filming a movie, according to Ralph Hoskins, Cal Poly Arts director.

Tickets for this Aug. 16 date will be honored at the Oct. 6 concert. If the new concert date poses an inconvenience to those who have tickets, refunds will be given upon request. Call the Performing Arts Ticket Office at ext. 6-2787 for a refund.

Tickets to this Cal Poly Arts' Center Stage event cost from $38 to $54 and may be bought at the Performing Arts Ticket Office, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays. To order by phone, call 6-2787, to order by fax, call ext. 6-6088.

of the Department of Athletics' business division, and overseeing administrative operations related to the construction and operation of a new campus conference center.

Since earning his B.S. in business administration from Illinois University in 1976, Mumford has held a number of other responsible management positions with universities and private sector firms. Mumford said he will immediately seek to engage the student, faculty and administrative leadership of the university — and the Foundation Board of Directors — in conversations about the Foundation and its service to the university.

Mumford will succeed Al Amaral, who is retiring after nearly 29 years as Foundation executive director.

"I am delighted with Frank's selection," Amaral said. "I believe he has the background and experience to provide the Foundation with the effective leadership it needs to continue in its critical support role for the university."

Amaral will remain at the Foundation until the end of September to advise the new executive director.

"The strong commitment of the consultative committee, the Foundation Board of Directors and others contributed to the success of this search," Howard-Greene said. "President Baker and I extend our sincere thanks to all who took an interest in the search and who took time to share their views, observations and suggestions."

Crop Science alumni to host golf tourney

The Cal Poly Crop Science Alumni Association will be hosting the 13th Annual Alumni Golf Tournament on Sept. 23 at the Avila Beach Golf Resort as a benefit for the Crop Science Department.

Golfers can team up with three or four friends or local "sandbox" group, or can come alone and be placed on a team. The tournament will be limited to the first 60 who sign up.

The tourney will be a back-9 shotgun beginning at 9 a.m. Lunch and an awards ceremony will be held at Mulligan's Bar and Grill after the tournament.

Over the past 12 years, the tournament has raised $44,000 to support student activities and educational programs in the Crop Science Department.

The fee to play is $10 per person, which includes green fees, cart, lunch, tournament, program and awards. For an entry form, contact Yvonne Toma in the Crop Science Department at ext. 6-1237.

Checks, made payable to Crop Science Alumni Golf, should be mailed with entry form to Bill Nunziati, 45 Santa Lucia Ave., Salinas, CA 93901.

For more information, call Nunziati at (831) 758-4575 or (831) 424-1167 or fax him at (831) 624-1144.

Fund created to benefit Music Department

Grace Tevis of Los Osos donated real estate valued at approximately $170,000 to the recently established Tevis Fund for Visiting Artists in Music in the College of Liberal Arts.

"The fund will enrich greatly the opportunities that Cal Poly students have to listen to and learn from the best performers," said Harry Hellenbrand, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

"This is a landmark day for the Music Department," said Chic Swanson. "Mrs. Tevis has been very supportive of the Music Department, and founder of the Ballroom Dance Club.

The gift will be used to install an air conditioning system in the Crandall Dance Studio.

The project is expected to be completed before the beginning of fall quarter. At that time, the studio will be renamed in honor of Suhr.

"All her students attest to her personal care for them and their dedication to the arts. Again many, many, she has labored to expose as many as possible to the pleasures of dance. Wilson was a committed Cal Poly employee at both the San Luis Obispo campus and the Von Arx campus at San Dimas, now known as Cal Poly Pomona, for nearly 40 years.

To find out where the celebration will be held, call Diane Hull at 543-5434, Linda Wilson, 543-2347, Bruce Wilson in Monterey at (831) 375-9593 or Lynn Wilson in Riverside, (909) 359-1085.

Rambling Antics in Horticultural contest

A team of agriculture students took top honors in a competition held during the meetings of the American Society for Horticultural Science in Orlando, Fla.

They placed first in the floral and interior plants category, second in vegetables, second in woody nursery plants and third in fruits and nuts.

Team members included Sheila Stephens, Christin Aiyan, William Hill, all environmental horticultural science seniors; Orlando Velazquez, crop science sophomore; and Carlos Zavala, crop science senior.

Individually, Adams took first place in fruits and nuts and Stephane came second in interior plants.

The tea was coached by Robert Rice, professor of environmental horticulture science, and Wyat Brown, professor of crop science.

Leadership training clinic to be given on campus

“Utilizing Experiential Techniques in Leadership Training” is the title of a two-day workshop to be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 24-25 at 1132 on campus.

Sponsored by ASI’s Chumash Challenge, this fast-paced, hands-on “training by observation, workshop type of training” is intended to teach and give participants the tools for designing and facilitating more-powerful and effective presentations.

The workshop will draw on information from National Training Laboratories, Quaker Learning, Multiple Intelligence and Experiential Learning Theory.

Participants will learn:

• Group exercises designed to reinforce lesson plans dealing with communication, leadership, planning, roles and sensitivity to the audience.

• The tools to help groups get comfortable with each other.

• A method of “What, so what, now what?” to maximize impact.

• How to maximize learning in groups with different learning styles.

• Steps for transforming groups into cohesive teams.

• How to design workshops for any organization.

The cost for the workshop, including handouts and information packets, is $125 per person for members of the California Association of Leadership Programs and $150 for non-members.

The workshop may expand on a workshop presented at the March 2004 California Association of Leadership Programs Conference in Oxnard.

For more information and reservations, contact Rod Neubert, director of experiential education, ext. 6-5873, mendenhall@calpoly.edu or write him at Chumash Challenge, UU 212-L.

Alumni database conversion nearing completion

In preparation for Cal Poly’s Centennial Campaign, University Advancement has been working to replace its 10-year-old Alumni Development System (ADS) with the more powerful and sophisticated Business Systems Resources (BSR) Advanc database software.

Advance will provide greater storage capacity for alumni and donor information as well as greatly improve data management for staff members.

The conversion is taking place in four phases:

Phase I, the prospect tracking module, was launched in October 1999.

Phase II, the biographical and gift modules, is expected to be active by the end of summer. Phase III, the Web modules, is expected to be launched in the fall, and Phase IV, the membership module, should be completed by December.

With the Advance “go-live” deadlines rapidly approaching, regularly scheduled training classes for all current ADS users will begin in late August. For information about the training sessions, contact John Rau, training and support specialist, at ext. 6-7331 or by e-mail.

Donations sought to print Mendenhall catalog

Art and memorabilia from the studio of John Mendenhall, an art professor who died unexpectedly last year, will be on display in the fall in the University Art Gallery, and donations are being sought to help pay for printing the exhibit catalog.

“John Lives On,” a Mendenhall retrospective, is planned as the Art and Design Department’s first exhibit of the school year.

“Part of this final tribute to John is memorializing him with a color catalog featuring his last works — the robots,” said Mary LaPorte, Mendenhall’s colleague in the Art and Design Department.

“John was an avid collector of toy robots, which surely inspired him to create his own, more whimsical versions,” LaPorte said. “His robots are one-of-a-kind, kinetic pieces. All are electrical, constructed of found materials such as antique kitchen utensils, cigar boxes, or toy train engines. He began building these during the last three years of his life.”

Additional pieces in the exhibit will include Marti’s book of watercolors, drawings, collages and studio memoirs. Visitors to the gallery will have an opportunity to place silent bids on all the pieces in the exhibit, including the studio contents.

‘Open University’ grade rosters to be mailed

General Education students can expect to mail grade rosters Friday (Aug. 18) to teachers who have students enrolled in classes through the Open University (formerly known as Concurrent Enrollment program).

Completed grade rosters need to be returned to Extended Education by Sept. 5.

The Open University program through Extended Education enables people who are not Cal Poly students to enroll in most university course offerings.

For more information, call Viviane Steele, Extended Education, at ext. 6-7003.

"We are seeking deductible donations to help defray the printing costs of the exhibit catalog," said LaPorte.
"The catalog will help expand your horizons, learn more about the artist, and bring more people to the gallery to see the art of a great champion, and this weekend is hosted by Cal Poly Rodeo Alumni and Friends Ever" at the Rody Ranch and Golf Club in Atwood (about 60 miles east of San Francisco near Antioch)." College of Ag plans rodeo fund-raiser
Dust off your saddles, dig out your spurs, bag your golf clubs and mark your calendars for Sept. 9-10 for the "Greatest. Gathering of Cal Poly Rodeo Alumni and Friends Ever" at the Rody Ranch and Golf Club in Atwood (about 60 miles east of San Francisco near Antioch). Cal Poly Rodeo Jan produced its share of great champions, and this weekend is hosted by one of them — two-time collegiate, pro and Senior World Champion Steer Wrestler Jack Roddy and his wife, Donna.
Saturday will start with an open­draw team roping. Participants who sign up individually as a header or heeler will be paired up.
Saturday will also feature a wine tast­ing, a horse auction and a Western art and collectibles auction. A gourmet barbecue dinner, live music and dancing.
"This year's golfers will have a chance to be one of the first to play on the newly created 18-hole championship links-style Golf Club at the Rody Ranch. Join us in this shotgun start/scramble four ball tourn­ament. Sign up individually and we'll pair you up, or bring your own team."
All proceeds will benefit the Cal Poly Rodeo Program, help build a top­notch arena for the team, and also enrich scholarships to continue Cal Poly's great rodeo tradition.
A variety of levels of participation and packages are available.

Fund created to benefit Music Department

Grace Tevis of Los Osos donated real estate valued at approximately $70,000 to the recently established Tevis Fund for Visiting Artists in Music in the College of Liberal Arts.

“The fund will enrich greatly the opportunity that Cal Poly students have to listen to and learn from the best performers,” said Harry Hellenbrand, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

“The Tevis Fund will allow us to bring new resources to the department that will enhance the program and benefit students directly,” said Music Department Chair Clif Swanarson. “Mrs. Tevis has been very supportive of the Music Department for the past 10 years.”

After her husband, Lloyd Tevis, retired, he became a familiar sight in music classes. Swanarson remembers him as a "tremendously perceptive student who enjoyed taking our classes and made them a pleasure to teach."
