Budget Committee Ends School's Purse Strings

By Charles Pakele

When the monolith divides the dough and the division is split between the Kits and Cal Poly, the financial situation of the school budget will be in a better position.

The budget committee members met last night to discuss the school's financial situation.

"We have to cut the budget," said one member of the committee.

The committee is trying to save money by cutting expenses and finding new sources of revenue.

Sherriff Stay Out in Big-Time Competition

What makes an All-American football player? Extra-special skill? Extraordinary body? More often than not, we refer to the impressive feat of a player when we speak of an All-American athlete.

Well, it's the case of the Mustangs', who will face the University of Southern California in a national game.

Sheriff, who has been a head coach for many years, is known for his leadership and strategy.

"The team will be able to play the game," said Sheriff.

The Mustangs are currently ranked number one in the nation.

The Council performs research and laboratory tests on new types of building materials and products as they are introduced for use in construction. This group also makes available an up-to-date study of architecture and its relationship to the formulation of new ideas.

It is a regular Monday afternoon schedule for Cal Poly's art students. As the lecture and demonstrations are well balanced in their informative and educational interest to everyone and anyone, the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Institute of Architects, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Metal Climax, Inc., the American Gas Association, the Southern California Building Congress and the American Forest Institute attend these meetings. The remaining meetings are open to all. A list of the companies to be represented at each meeting is given in the agenda for the March, 1954 meeting. Any art student interested in these meetings is asked to attend one or all of them.

A Risk Worth Taking

How much would you risk to protect your children and all children forever from the threat of polio? A dime? A dollar? Twenty-six and a half million dollars?

The March of Dimes is betting exactly that—$85,600,000—in 1954 alone on a polio vaccine program nationwide in scope, worldwide in implications and limitless in its promises of new horizons in the realm of public health.

If this bright promise is to come true, we have no alternative but to harness our generosity by giving liberally to the March of Dimes this year. No more knowledgeable organization could be entrusted with our funds than the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, sponsors of the March of Dimes.

For 18 years the NFIP has been proving to Americans that the benefits of higher education, in particular with science can surmount obstacles that were seemingly beyond solution.

We tell of the series of vaccine tests aimed at establishing the effectiveness of the fight which the March of Dimes will have to face in the book store. When you see the symbols of research, give the assurance of cooperation from our world leaders. And when you see the word "will," it may mean that we are not yet ready to say "can.

During the last quarter. Their open discussions in Room 10BA, the creation of the Council on Science, have been a contributing cause of dissension, rather than the meal ticket. Consider money in the bank money for buying books, it developed during hearings, was the primary concern—money for buying books, it developed during hearings, was the primary concern—money for buying books, it developed during hearings, was the primary concern—money for buying books, it developed during hearings, was the primary concern—money for buying books, it developed during hearings, was the primary concern—money for buying books, it developed during hearings, was the primary concern—money for buying books, it developed during hearings, was the primary concern—money for buying books, it developed during hearings, was the primary concern—money for buying books.

Registering Cautions

Public Law 14 (acted on by the House), giving back to the people a part of their earnings, was signed by President Truman.

The act provides that if the President is not able to fulfills his promise of a $100,000,000 increase in national income by next July 1, he must return the money to the taxpayers. If he is able to fulfill his promise, he will keep the money.

The act states that the President shall make an annual report to Congress on the progress of the nation in achieving the goal of $100,000,000 increase in national income.

EL MUSTANG

Thumbs Up

Thumbs Down

December 15 was noted as 'a day of achievement' in the history of El Corral. Last quarter after spending a part of the day in the quarters of the El Corral staff, all the free books were given out.

In addition to the books, the staff at El Corral presented all the students with a wonderful Christmas gift in the form of a gift certificate to the El Mustang Book Store. This certificate can be used for any book of the student's choice.

During the last quarter, the staff of El Corral worked hard to ensure that all students received their due share of the books and gift certificates. The staff's dedication and hard work have been appreciated by the students and the administration.

Peace Begins With The Individual

In the troubled world of today, there is much discussion centered around the word "peace." The United Nations and other international organizations have worked hard to establish peace in the world. They have tried to achieve this goal by promoting cooperation among nations and individuals.

Individuals are no different as agents of change. It is true that each has his own tastes and ideas and that understanding and tolerance can help us learn to accept these differences. Differences exist between peoples, communities, and nations. These differences can lead to freedom to speak and think our own thoughts, as we please.

But when we have learned to understand and respect individual differences in our society, we can expect to live in a world that is more harmonious and peaceful. It is our responsibility to ensure that our actions contribute to the greater good of all.

Evil Connotation In The Word "Controversial"

By John A. Van Alstyne

1. The March of Dimes and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis have always been considered controversial organizations. The word "controversial" is often used to describe these organizations, suggesting that they are focused on issues that are likely to provoke strong reactions.

2. It is important to consider the context in which the word "controversial" is used. When a word has a clear negative connotation, it can be used to dismiss or stereotype an organization or group.

3. The word "controversial" can be applied to a wide range of situations, including political debates, scientific research, and social movements. It is important to use this word in a responsible manner and to consider the implications of its use.

4. It is also important to recognize that controversy can be a positive force. It can encourage debate, promote innovation, and lead to progress. The word "controversial" should not be used to discourage or dismiss the contributions of organizations or groups that are engaged in important and meaningful work.

5. In conclusion, the word "controversial" should be used with caution and consideration of the context in which it is applied. It is important to recognize the potential for controversy to be a positive force for progress and change.

Buy Bonds

The bond drive for the year 1954 has begun. The state of California is seeking the support of its citizens to help finance its schools.

The bond drive is an important opportunity for individuals to invest in the future of their communities. By purchasing bonds, citizens can contribute to the funding of essential projects such as schools and education programs.

We encourage all citizens to participate in the bond drive and consider the purchase of bonds as a crucial investment in the well-being of their communities and the future of their children. Together, we can help create a brighter tomorrow for all Californians.

Boxes Face Indians In Second Ring Fracas

With the season already underway as a result of last night's tiff with the University of Idaho, (outcome too late for "El Mustang" press deadline) Coach Tom Lee's breaking squad now heads for Palo Alto and next Thursday's date with the Stanford Indians. The local ringmen will return to avenge last year's defeat at the hands of the men from the Golden State.

Vandals In Town

The Idaho fights last night against the Mustangs going to battle with the services of heavyweight Jim Harris, who was suspended last week for "less than a "clinch" for the NCAA this year. Jim, a former Yugoslav, has now only one big man out of the biggest group. Other heavyweights include Don Kraus and Bob Mailly, the latter a fine line in the recent NCAA Skating Meet.

Dear Sports Editor!

The Poly-Sacramento State game Nov. 1 was attended by a crowd of 600 spectators. This newly and happily sponsored outing was handled by Hans Magr, International Club Secretary. The event was the first home game of the season.

During the middleweight division, a trio of newcomers, all winners of a Novice Boxing title, found the fox footballers hard pressed, Kern Mascot, a "cinch" for the NCAA title, and Jack Shaw, the power-punching Lightweight Jim Harris, were reporting that the school, while it can boast of love for the game and prestige accorded to the college, still suffers from lack of numbers. Outstanding in efforts toward this end is Amir Behnam, team manager and president of the International Club. He has spent many hours recruiting players, scheduling games, arranging lodgings, and raising funds to get the team off the ground.

Indefatigable!

Time and again he has run up against indifference and red tape but this has not cooled his enthusiasm. He has never been able to produce a winning team, but he has been able to lend a hand to these boys, many of whom see from foreign countries. Most of the team have now arrived at the school and have given their time and money, as other athletic teams do, for love or the game add prestige to the school, and ha* overcome these obstacles against indifference and red tape to lend a hand to these boys, many of whom are from foreign countries.

Every student is aware that the college has noted as chairman of the directors consisting of faculty members. By system of the college has acted as chairman of the board. Each student is also aware of Santa Barbara security forces engaged in dangerous and potentially threatening activities. A number of the members of the student body now realize that the event occurring at Santa Barbara last fall was beyond the range of good fun, there being some $1,300 of damage occurring. I know that most of you are well aware of our basic rules of conduct, but I do not want any student who reads this letter to forget, how they are important and how fatal some of them can be.

I do not aim at my fellow students or the college.

4. Do not get in trouble in the community to the extent that police action is required.

5. Do not drink on the campus or on the campus in an inappropriate manner.

6. Do not get in trouble with women or bring women to the campus dorms.

Chandler Outlines Basic Rules for Students

Evart M. Chandler, dean of students, used informal tactics to outline the type of irregularities for which students had been dismissed during the fall term so as to be followed in the future. His statement follows:

"Have at the beginning of a new year too many interests in the difficulties that students are facing. While you now realize that this has led to some of your own problems, it is believed that all of you are interested in knowing that the college, quickly and with determination, follows up and takes action concerning such incidents."

"It was this group that we have recently had to put a little more effort into, as it is our belief that this has led to a few problems, and that nothing further can be done until we make sure that no more problems will occur."

Essentially this was the purpose behind the foundation of the foundation. Since 1940, there has been created a variety of agencies to provide the necessary funds for the project. As far as we are concerned, the foundation is influenced by two main purposes:

1. Is it in the student's interest?
2. Will it be self-sustaining?

What is the Foundation? Legally the Foundation is a non-profit organization chartered for the purpose of financing the project. Or, more accurately, is a non-profit organization and a non-profit organization. It is the project's responsibility to provide housing for the students. Essentially the foundation is influenced by the needs of the college and the proposed function. It is influenced by the needs of the project and the proposed function. It is influenced by the needs of the college and the proposed function. It is influenced by the needs of the project and the proposed function.

The manner and necessity of the Foundation to serve the student's interest, and the manner and necessity of the Foundation to provide housing for the students, are both influenced by the needs of the college and the proposed function. It is influenced by the needs of the college and the proposed function.

However, if the project becomes routine or a necessary evil, it will be necessary for the Foundation to provide housing for the students. Essentially this was the purpose behind the foundation of the Foundation.

Your first stop would be to indicate how you will use the Foundation. It provides the money and facilities for the project, allows a reasonable amount of time for the students to exist. To fill this function, it would operate much as a bank or other credit agency. It facilitates project operation, with an understanding that it does not carry a loan, but rather a mortgage. The Foundation is a "angel." It provides the money and facilities for the project in the amount of the project's needs, and then it pays the interest on it, and the interest is paid to the Foundation.
