Music Tour Draws Near

Sunday morning, March 30, the Glee Club and Collegians will leave on their annual spring tour for six days in the San Francisco area. A separate tour is planned in San Francisco, but the Glee Club will return to the area later in the week.

The program on the tour may vary as to contents because of the limited time and other circumstances which may arise. Throughout the week the three or four stunts are used to fill up for various backstage activities. The main interest is in the exchange of ideas and to promote Cal Poly.

Big Attraction

In the middle of this program the Collegians play a group of number. They are always big attractions at the high schools of the area. Throughout the team is a great hit at all the high schools.

A BIG SKELETON GETS COVERED

Expected to be ready for classes by next fall, this building was once the home of a skeleton and has now been turned into a new multi-purpose building—housing a new course in entomology and a new course in biology. The building has five floors and will be used for classes in the university's agricultural engineering department.

Bob Bolman in Fair Condition After Car Wreck On Hy. 1

Robert E. Bolman, 84, junior AH major, from San Jose, was reported in fair condition at the Santa Clara County General hospital following an auto accident on Highway 1 last Sunday night.

Bolman was thrown from his Jaguar when he failed to make a sharp "H" turn three miles east of Morgan hill. The California Highway Patrol reported that the car swerved to avoid an accident when the accident occurred.

Poly Vue For Dimas Campus Slated Soon

The fifth annual Cal Poly Agronomic Education Field Day is to be held Saturday, April 8, at the Kellogg Unit of Cal Poly, student Chairman Don Campbell announced.

Contents to livestock judging, horticulture skills, tractor driving, feed and food identification, hay feeding, vegetable judging, insect identification, and dairying judging will be held during the meeting.

A three-hour program has been filed up for the afternoon and will include the demonstration of Cal Poly wards, a band concert, and acts from the featured Kellogg Ameal home show. One of the outstanding events of the day will be the well known tractor square dance performed by the larger rodeo team from Cal Poly’s San Luis Opispo campus.

More than 950 high school and junior college students from southern California are expected to attend.

Sunspots Observed From Poly Campus

Cal Poly has a Palomar dome but not a Palomar Observatory. But even at that, astronomical phenomena may be observed from Poly.

Sunspots were observed recently both directly through a filter and with the projected images by three Cal Poly students, only one of whom was a physics major.

Fossil Pluto, Ph.D graduate student, George Kelton, sophomores math major, and Keith, graduating senior math major, are the would-be astronauts.

They reported that one of the spots was about the size of the earth. Both had the black inner core and the lighter outer part and were clearly visible. The other was in the opposite hemisphere of the sun and was very small.

Research Engineer To Meet With IAS

Dr. W. B. Klemperer, head research engineer of Douglas Aircraft at Santa Monica and one of the Nation’s highest recognized authorities on supersonic flight, will speak to the Southland Aero-Space Society, Cal Poly student chapter, at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The IAS will have their business meeting at 7:15. In Lib. 116, Dr. Klemperer will follow with his movie and slides. The doctor, who was one of the highest authorities on German aircraft before World War II, will hold a discussion period after the showing of the movie.

The main topic of the business meeting will concern the selection of dates of the student conference to be held May 11, 12, and 13 at the IAS building in Los Angeles. Lester Quasten, department head, and 25 students are expected to attend.

Zimmer Fund

Dave Elmer, Poly apparatus and outstanding athlete in 1952 is similarly 19, and as a present, a Zimmer Fund drive was inaugurated. The Zimmer fund raising campaign will be in progress soon, which will be highlighted by a basketball game with the Santa Maria Indians.

Any donation to the Dave Elmer fund may be deposited at the El Corral bookkeeper.

Gauchos Host Mustangs in CCAA League Tilt

Suffering a netback in CCAA play, the crippled Mustangs will travel to Santa Barbara college tonight as Coach Ed Jorgensen's Mustang quintet make their bid to keep alive a CCAA title hope. Game time is set for 8 p.m. in the Gaucho gymnasium. The Mustang squad will play without the services of forward Jim Cox, improved to a point of earning a starting post, who was suddenly called home earlier this week. Forward Gene Knell is also a doubtful starter as he has had trouble with an injured foot, and has only engaged in light practice sessions this week.

Currently, Santa Barbara and San Diego state are tied for the CCAA lead or this tilt can define all possible indications, the Mustangs will have to play on top in their next three remaining conference games if they expect to wind up on top this season.

Following the Santa Barbara tilt the Mustangs will return home and take to the hardwood in heavy practice sessions in preparation for their next tilt to be played against the Westmont college Warhorses next Thursday in Cramell gym.

Probable starting lineup for the Green and Gold squad are Bill Freeman and Jim Gilbert up forward; Modern at center and Tony Robinson and Benny Grandberry at the guard posts.

Air Force Looking For Teachers For Overseas Schools

World-wide employment opportunities for school teachers were announced by the Air Force this week, for teachers to staff the schools attended by children of military and civilian personnel overseas.

To obtain this employment, the Air Force Overseas Employment Office has enlisted the assistance of the State Employment Offices in each of the states to canvass for interested, qualified teachers.

The prospective teacher will need a bachelor's degree valid from a state licensing certificate and an annual current teaching experience acquired at either the elementary or secondary level. Teachers with principal or assistant principal experience are also urged to apply. Men between the ages of 28 and 40 and women between the ages of 26 and 40 are eligible. Salaries range from $1500 to $1500 and the tenure of duty is for one year. Additional salary differentials are provided for boarding and transportation. These are furnished at government expense together with purchasing privileges at Post Exchanges and commissaries.

Interviews will be conducted at the California State Employment Office, KIT Palm Street, San Luis Obispo Friday, Feb. 15th, beginning at 2 P.M. Applicants are urged to call the State Employment Office to secure appointment for interview.

A new public address and music system was also approved. Groups wishing to use the public address system for music or music will be required to make arrangements through the Poly Royal board.

Apathy Rules Kids' Playground

An editorial, we feel, should be directed at a great number of people in order to get a point over more effectively. The subject of this editorial, in a way, concerns the actions of a large group of students at Poly, but it is directly aimed at only a comparatively few, namely the people living in Yolo Ninos.

For quite a few years, it has been the complaint of some, the majority, of the people down there, that playground facilities for their youngsters are greatly inadequate. And actually it was, and is. There are presently 78 married couples living in all of Yolo Ninos, with at least one child, that being the prerequisite. The apartments are small, and the living room space is certainly not enough room for a couple of active kids to play in. There is one strip of grass, that in itself is a fairly nice place for the kids to play, but there are no facilities there.

Until recently there were two or three beat up old swings supported by rickety, rotten wooden posts and a complicated device of steel pipes called "monkey bars". This was also good, but also inadequate.

Some months ago, the Student Wives organization heartily endorsed a proposal to erect new swings with heavy steel pipe supports, plus other playing little devices that are designed to keep kids happy, for at least a few months.

Two weeks ago the new supports were welded and ready to be erected in the designated area set aside for them. The only thing necessary that had to be done was, remove the old existing swings and equipment and install the new.

The kicker is this: No one can be found who is willing and able to erect the swings. There is no one to help, and his brain-washed dogs showed the Russians long ago. To meet it is harder—and more necessary.

It seems that homework has piled up something fierce; the ability of carrying out the project, or the other little details that go with such a project. Maybe these 78 people are like so many people these days. They just expect everything to be handed them.

The next dance at which the Californians will appear will be the Prom on April 5 & the data and Crandall gym is the spot.

Alma Mater

Casey Campbell is a Poly student, average as far as studies are concerned. Casey cares nothing for student activities and local all of all, student body pride in Poly, Class of Casey has opened a week ago a store that as soon as he can determine makes a profit. Casey likes to do things for himself, his favorite server, or what-have-you. Casey is a strong push for athletic event* and a solid boy at the basketball games, but as soon as a chance occurs on the familiar strains of the alma mater: "All Hail, Poly!" Casey Campus waives out the door and says: "Who cares?"

Many attempts have been made by spirit leaders to get Casey to join the committee for the Poly campus, but to no avail. Casey Campbell, along with a mob of the weaker letter tag along, ignores the calls to the stand and the beat in honor Cal. Poly with campus spirit and pride.

The approval of John Isaken was given by the student affairs council last Tuesday evening. Isaken outlined briefly the activities of the group for the remainder of the year, which included but was not limited to various athletic events and a strong push in the intramural activity program.

Since the student organization isn't complete yet there will be a regular club meeting Tuesday, February 15, at 8 p.m. in library. Valentine's Day will be the theme of the evening and a party is planned. The Masters and Minors of the Cal Poly Glee Club will sing at the start of the evening, so don't be late! Wear casual clothes and come prepared for a good time. Dixie Tuesday night will be the usual Dixie for one more of your favorite recipes.

Christmas Cards and Certificates are the three new sections of Studio 770, and with the effectiveness of the imaginative responses by individuals to the challenge of reality, today that challenge is greater than ever before.

To meet it is harder—and more necessary.
