Poly's Typical American Spirit

If lovers of Communist ideals had walked the halls and streets of Cal Poly recently they would have seen a typical American gesture burst into full spirit. . . . The Dave Zimmer fund raising campaign. And we can't but feel that even more might have been lifted up by the force of spirited Americans rushing to the aid of a fellow man. Forcing ourselves to stretch the thought, we might even as far as we believe, to the little of the American spirit displayed could have well rubbed off, and even denoted the stone fortress which is built on ideals long rebuking the same relief. . . .

Their followers swarming to American shores crying for—what? Yes, we walk the halls and streets of Cal Poly with an answer. Dave understanding it, too.

The Dave Ziemer fund raising campaign is the prime example of the American way. It's the typical American gesture. And it's the typical reason for it. Greatness. We're pretty sure Dave understands it, too.

The PCI wrestling tournament will get underway tonight at 6:30 p.m. in Crandall gym. More than 100 wrestlers will gather from colleges and universities as far north as Pullman, Washington, and as far south as San Diego. What makes this tournament unique is the combination of the PCI wrestling tournament with other collegiate wrestling events.

The PCI wrestling tournament was started in 1987 by Mike Hardin, tournament chairman, and has been held every year since. The tournament is open to wrestlers from colleges and universities throughout the Pacific coast. The PCI wrestling tournament is held concurrently with other collegiate wrestling events, such as the Pacific Coast Wrestling Association (PCWA) and the National Collegiate Wrestling Association (NCWA).

The PCI wrestling tournament is one of the largest collegiate wrestling tournaments in the country, attracting wrestlers from over 100 colleges and universities. The tournament is a great opportunity for wrestlers to compete against the best in the country and to gain experience in a competitive environment.

The PCI wrestling tournament is held at the University of California, Los Angeles, and is sponsored by the PCI Wrestling Association. The tournament is a two-day event, with matches being held each day.

In addition to the PCI wrestling tournament, the tournament also includes other collegiate wrestling events, such as the PCWA and the NCWA. These events provide a great opportunity for wrestlers to gain experience and to gain exposure to the collegiate wrestling community.

The finance of the state in 1908 were apparently so shaky as to make the administration building placed into position. Orin S. Anderson, grand master of the California Masons, performed the honors and Ed Wheeler, then president of the University of California, gave the address of the day.

Of the original $40,000 allocated by the state legislature, $10,000 had been earmarked for construction of the administration building and a chemistry. Next came a necessary plant for $3,697, an iron working shop for $1,500, and a daily and horse stable for $600. All costs were astonishingly low, and all work done in a professional manner. Of the original $50,000 allocated, $18,000 were used to furnish and equip their buildings.

"National Speed Trials, here I come" is the cry of Tom Bester, freshman mechanical engineering student at Utah. Tom has just finished rebuilding his '54 Ford and plans to make a fast at national honors when he competes with hundreds of other speed fans at the famed Bonneville National Speed Trials late this summer in Utah.

Tom has rebuilt this automobile right down to the last engine bearing. He chopped it and chopped it, but he has installed a 1955 Chevrolet V-8 engine. He has replaced his mechanical brakes by hydraulics and substituted his transmission by a late model column shift. His report that the rear end, out of a 1954 Mercury, has a gear ratio of 1:31/2.

"I just wasn't satisfied with the stock engine either," Tom said. "So I installed dual manifolds and a higher lift cam.

And my car's safer than it was before too," Tom added. He points out that due to his hydraulic brakes and because the car is now lower to the ground, it makes the Ford a safer highway automobile."

Poly Sheep Killers Caught In Act

The Poly sheep are safe at last, thanks to the efforts of Sparky's Wild Hog Patrol.

Cal Poly's sheep are under constant threat from predators, including coyotes, bobcats, and wolves. The Wild Hog Patrol, led by Charlie Coons, has been working tirelessly to protect the sheep.

Last week, they received a call from a farmer who reported that his sheep had been killed by a predator.

The team immediately responded, and after days of investigation, they were able to identify the predator as a coyote. They then set up traps around the farm and successfully caught the animal.

The sheep have been returned to their pen, and the Wild Hog Patrol continues to monitor the area to ensure their safety.
