Grants to help Cal Poly aid local arts education

The Liberal Studies Program has received an award of $321,000 from the Eisenhower Foundation and the California Postsecondary Education Commission to help five rural schools expand arts education.

Schools in the Atascadero, Paso Robles, Shandon and San Miguel districts will be part of the project.

The grant is the third the Liberal Studies Program has received in the past year to support the expansion of arts education in county elementary schools. It previously received $150,000 from the California Arts Council. The program is also completing the final year of a grant from the Institute for Educational Inquiry that has provided $20,000 a year over three years for arts education in four San Luis Obispo County districts.

The projects give elementary teachers new tools to share with their students, and help develop curriculum materials to meet new state standards.

The program's faculty members are Susan Duffy and Kathleen Friend who supervise the projects.

Dairy symposium planned

Dairy experts from around the world will share the latest trends on marketing, science, manufacturing technology and applications of value-added ingredients at the 4th Annual Dairy Ingredients Symposium Feb. 25-26 at The Cliffs in Shelly Beach.

The symposium, hosted by Cal Poly's Dairy Products Technology Center, will include such topics as "Business Strategies in Dairy Ingredients," "New Value-added Dairy Manufacturing Activities," "Global Marketplace for Dairy Ingredients" and more.

Participants will include faculty members from Cal Poly, South Dakota State University and Texas A&M, as well as industry representatives from the Dairy Management Center of Moorpark in Ireland, Massey University in New Zealand, Milk & More Dairy Manufacturing Management, Inc., the U.S. Dairy Export Council, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

For more information visit www.calpoly.edu/tpc/dairy/conference.htm or call Laurie Jacobson at ext. 6-1097.

Illustrated history wins two book awards

The first book-length history of Cal Poly, an illustrated volume celebrating the university's Centennial, has won two awards.

"Cal Poly: The First Hundred Years" received a 2001 award from the nonprofit Bookbuilders West organization and an Award of Distinction in the Fix the West Council for the Design and Advancement of Support of Education (CASE).

The 178-page, coffee-table-size book tells the story of Cal Poly's century of academic progress and campus life in text and more than 300 photos and illustrations.

It was released on March 8, 2001, the 100th anniversary of the signing of California's compact.

The book was written and coordinated by Nancy Lee, head of University Archives.

Copies can be bought at El Corral Bookstore and Cal Poly Downtown as well as by fax, phone and online. Call ext. 6-1161, fax ext. 6-5320, or go to www.elcorralbookstore.com and click on "General Books" then "Online Store" and "Centennial Celebration Merchandise." Read more information call Tiffani Hamilton at ext. 6-1405.

Leave solicitation

Perry McClusky, a custodian in Facility Services, has qualified for personal catastrophic leave.

Eligible state employees may donate vacation and sick leave to help their fellow employees in full-pay status due to an extended absence.

Those interested in donating leave should contact Edie Griffin-Shaw in Facility Services at ext. 6-5220 or by e-mail. Call ext. 6-6088, fax ext. 6-7235, or go to www.calpoly.edu/hr/donor/apply (executive) may donate up to 32 hours total. All other state employees may donate up to 16 hours sick leave and/or vacation credits per fiscal year in increments of one hour or more.

Ticket information

Tickets to the performances listed in today's Cal Poly Report are on sale at the Performing Arts Ticket Office 10 a.m.-6 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturdays. Call ext. 6-3787, fax your order at ext. 6-6088. Tickets can also be bought online via Ticketz.com. Visit the Performing Arts Center's Web site at www.calpoly.edu/pacslo or click on "Event Calendar." Read more information call Tiffani Hamilton at ext. 6-1405.

1968 Olympic sprinter to speak in February

In celebration of Black History Month, Tommie Smith, best known for his Black Power protest after he won the 200-meter race at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, will speak at 7 p.m. Feb. 7 in Chumash Auditorium.

He was Smith — along with third-place finisher John Carlos — who raised a black-gloved fist, bowed his head and closed his eyes during the "Star-Spangled Banner" as he stood on the podium.

His symbol and act is intended to bring attention to the injustices black Americans were facing and serve as a call for unity among blacks. The act cost him his gold medal and resulted in his removal from the national team.

The panelists will be political science professor Mark Green, student-turned-activist James Lafferty, executive director of the National Lawyers Guild in Los Angeles, Perry McClusky, a custodian in Facilities Services, and Rhoda Smith, professor of Communication and Rhetoric.

The panel will be moderated by Arts and Humanities professor Bethany Baskin. Tickets can also be bought at El Corral Bookstore and Cal Poly Downtown as well as by fax, phone and online. Call ext. 6-1161, fax ext. 6-5320, or go to www.elcorralbookstore.com and click on "General Books" then "Online Store" and "Centennial Celebration Merchandise." Read more information call Tiffani Hamilton at ext. 6-1405.

Lawyers guild director to talk on civil liberties

James Lafferty, executive director of the National Lawyers Guild in Los Angeles, will speak at 7 p.m. Feb. 20 in Chumash Auditorium.

The panel will discuss in the Christopher Cohon Center's Philips Hall.

Presenters will discuss the challenges faced in putting together an international coalition such as the one organized after the September 11 attacks, how a coalition is maintained in spite of differing objectives and priorities, and the unintended consequences of organizing such a coalition.

The panelists will be political science faculty members Craig Arceneaux, Carl Ludvigsen and Carroll McKibbin (a former Foreign Service officer) and Ambassador Barbara K. Bodine, a career member of the Foreign Service.

Political Science Professor Phil Felster will moderate the discussion, designed to provide insights into the current policy climate.

For more information, contact Ann Merrobel-Sosa at ext. 6-1140 or Felster at ext. 6-6147.

Nominations sought for Faculty Advisor Award

To recognize the significant contribution that academic advising has on student success, Cal Poly has initiated a new annual faculty award.

The first Faculty Advisor Award recipients will be honored at a luncheon and awards presentation on April 18. Those chosen for the award will have a plaque mounted in their offices, a certificate presented at the luncheon and their names will be displayed on a perpetual plaque in the library.

Completed nomination forms are available in Adm. 306 and on the Web at http://www.academics.calpoly.edu/advise/award.htm. Nominations are due for the 2002 Faculty Advisor Award by Feb. 22. For more information call ext. 6-2227.

Structural forum Feb. 2 to focus on timber design

"The Art of Timber Design" is the topic of the 12th Annual Structural Forum 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday (Feb. 2) at Cal Poly. At the forum, three major designers will talk about their experiences and philosophies on timber design for the 21st century.

The forum is sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts as part of its Lyceum speaker series.

For more information call Tiffani Hamilton at ext. 6-1405.

Employees can save money on travel, attractions

Cal Poly employees can receive special deals and discounts on California vacations.

Coupons and discount booklets are available for Disneyland, Knotts Berry Farm, LagoLand, the San Diego Zoo and Wild Animal Park, SeaWorld, Six Flags Magic Mountain, Marine World and Universal Studios.

Contact the Human Resources representative at ext. 6-2263 or stop by Adm. 110 for more information on these and other discounts.

Student nominations due

Nominations are being accepted for the university's 2001-2002 Outstanding Student Employee of the Year award.

State, ASI and Foundation student employees are eligible. Nominations must have been submitted or will be accepted through February. Two awards will be given for this year.

For more information, contact Donald McDonald in the Financial Aid office at ext. 6-5885 or mdlcorn@calpoly.edu; Carole Moore, Career Services, ext. 6-6526 or cmoore@calpoly.edu; or Joan Lunde, Human Resources, ext. 6-6536 or jlunde@ calpoly.edu.

Consortium forms can also be obtained online at http://www.calpoly.edu/consortium/forms/index.html#Employment. Contracted consortium forms are due to McDonald by Jan 31.

Extended studies to offer courses focusing on wine

Extended Studies is offering two wine industry certificate programs and a wine industry certificate program.

• Vineyard Practices, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Feb. 9 and 16, $290 or $275 for certificate program.
• Sensory Evaluation of Wine, 8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Feb. 25-26, $290 or $275 for certificate program.
• European Wine Appreciation, 7-10 a.m., Wed. March 20, $175.

For complete course descriptions and online registration for selected courses, go to the Extended Studies Web site at www.extendedstudies.calpoly.edu or call ext. 6-2053.

medical anatomy database at the University of Chicago.
The arrival of Internet2 capability at Cal Poly will also benefit local students in grades K-12. Through a partnership with the San Luis Obispo County Office of Education, K-12 teachers and their students will have access to data, graphics and research available on Internet2.

Internet2 was activated in the Kennedy Library computer lab last week. Cal Poly joins CSU Hayward and Cal Poly Pomona and all nine UC campuses as members.

Initial membership in the Internet2 consortium cost Cal Poly roughly $45,000. The university will pay about that much annually to maintain Internet2 membership and access.

Cal Poly spent another $25,000 on equipment to provide a single Internet2 access point in the library and each of the colleges. The initial costs and the first two years of Internet2 fees were paid for by federal grants awarded to Cal Poly with the assistance of U.S. Rep. Lois Capps (D-Santa Barbara).

The Department of Defense grants were awarded to the university for its California Central Coast Research Partnership (C3RP), formed to create a technology park to house public and private partners interested in technology research and ventures. Partners will have access to Internet2 for their research and development operations and will pay for that access.

For more details on Internet2, visit the Web at www.internet2.edu.

Shaffner selected for Fulbright grant

Agricultur Business Professor David Shaffner has been selected for a Fulbright grant to work this summer at a university in Thailand.

Shaffner was named a Fulbright Senior Specialist to help develop the curricula in agribusiness, marketing and cooperative management in the School of Agricultural Extension and Cooperatives at Sukhothai Thammathirat Open University north of Bangkok.

The Thai university reaches students through printed publications, radio and television regional and provincial study centers and at special study centers at national and regional offices of the Ministry of Agriculture and Cooperatives.

Cal Poly hosts Conference

Cal Poly hosted more than 550 student Agricultural Ambassadors from across the United States at the 7th Annual Agricultural Ambassadors Conference last week.

Student delegates from 48 colleges and universities attended the conference, which allows students to share recruitment ideas and grow as leaders in the agriculture industry, said Joe Sabol, professor of agriculture and director of outreach services for the College of Agriculture.
Grants to help Cal Poly aid local arts education

The Liberal Studies Program has received an award of $211,000 from the Eisenhower Foundation and the California Postsecondary Education Commission to help five rural schools expand arts education.

Schools in the Atascadero, Paso Robles, Shandon and San Miguel districts will be part of the graduate arts education initiative.

The grant is the third the Liberal Studies Program has received in the past year to support "arts in education" in county elementary schools. It previously received $150,000 from the California Arts Council. The program is also completing the final year of a grant from the Institute for Educational Inquiry that has provided $20,000 a year to various arts projects in four San Luis Obispo County districts.

The projects give elementary teachers new programs and strategies for teaching arts and skills and support additional performances and instruction in all the arts forms. Cal Poly students participate in the projects, helping teachers develop curriculum materials to meet new state standards.

The project's two principal investigators, Susan Duffy and Kathleen Friend, supervised the projects.

Dairy symposium planned

Dairy experts from around the world will share the latest trends in dairy research and product evaluation for glued composite wood products.

The forum will be in the Rotunda (Room 213) of the Business Building. The event is hosted by theArchitectural Council of Structural Engineers.

Information is available online via Ticketmaster; click on "Event Calendar.""
Russia's Grigorovich Ballet to perform 'Spartacus'
The 90-member Grigorovich Ballet, Russia's premier private dance company, will perform the Bolshoi Ballet masterpiece "Spartacus" at 8 p.m., Feb. 7 in Harman Hall in the Christopher Cohan Center.

Presented by Cal Poly Arts, the full-length, three-act ballet tells the story of an uprising of gladiators and slaves under the leadership of young Spartacus, a slave who challenged the power of imperial Rome in the first century B.C. "Spartacus" has become the company's signature work, conveying the action of massed forces with intimate tableaux scenes and staging isolated love duets against the drama at Roman orgies and marching battalions.

Company founder Yuri Grigorovich, considered one of the greatest living ballet choreographers, reigned at the Bolshoi, Moscow's legendary state ballet company, for 30 years.

Cal Poly Theatre and Dance Professor Moon Ji Minn Suh will present a pre-show lecture at 7 p.m. in Philips Hall. Tickets for the performance are $32 to $44, with student discounts available.

Music, dance of Hawaii to be featured in concert
"Mele Hula: A Celebration of Hawaiian dance" is coming to Harman Hall in the Christopher Cohan Center at 8 p.m., Feb. 12.

Formerly billed as "Hapa," this Cal Poly Arts event features an all-star lineup of Hawaii's top entertainers in an evening of authentic Hawaiian song and dance.

Poetic ballads about the sea, the lushness of the land and favorite chiefs will be expressed through the hula and harmonic melodies backed by virtuoso guitar.

Cal Poly Music Professor Henry Spiller will present the pre-concert lecture at 7 p.m. in Philips Hall.

Tickets are $16 to $32, with student discounts available.
