Dignity, fairness, continued from page 2
show and video clips; a detailed discussion of workers’ living and working conditions; reports of environmental abuse; exploration of the “culture of fear” reports on the children of workers; and suggestions on what can be done to support fair labor practices around the world.

The program will close with a question-and-answer session. For more information, contact Sister White, associate director at the Newman Catholic Center, at 543-4105 ext. 11 or mpurwhite@slonewman.org.

Library acquires collection of Hearst Castle sketches

An extensive collection of sketches by renowned California muralist Camille Solon, an artist whose work appears throughout Hearst Castle, can be seen as part of the Kennedy Library’s Special Collections.

The recent addition of 225 sketches includes images of Hearst Castle and the surrounding region plus the area around Stone’s-Treant, England, Solon’s birthplace, and Martin County.

Solon became well acquainted with Hearst Castle architect Julia Morgan, California’s first female architect, after Morgan commissioned him in 1924 to create murals and paintings for the Chapel of the Chimes, a Gothic-style addition she was designing for an Oakland church.

Soon after the project’s completion, Solon was hired as an artist at Hearst’s San Simeon estate. He is known for the mosaic tile work in the Roman pool and the murals in the Gothic study, in the center room of the castle’s new wing, and in the doorway to the dining hall.

The new sketches make up the Morgan-Solon Collection and add to the Kennedy Library’s already vast compilation of materials on the design and building of Hearst Castle.

The Julia Morgan Collection, donated to the library in 1980, contains personal and professional papers, including correspondence between Morgan and William Randolph Hearst.

The Special Collections and University Archives Department is open 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Monday through Friday and by appointment.

Due to the fragile nature of the Julia Morgan Collection and the Solon sketches, appointments are recommended for consultation with a member of the Special Collections staff.

For more information, contact Catherine Trujillo or Mike Lane at ext. 6-2787 or fax your order to ext. 6-0808.

Library acquires collection of Hearst Castle sketches

Dignity, fairness, continued from page 2
show and video clips; a detailed discussion of workers’ living and working conditions; reports of environmental abuse; exploration of the “culture of fear” reports on the children of workers; and suggestions on what can be done to support fair labor practices around the world.

The program will close with a question-and-answer session. For more information, contact Sister White, associate director at the Newman Catholic Center, at 543-4105 ext. 11 or mpurwhite@slonewman.org.

Library acquires collection of Hearst Castle sketches

An extensive collection of sketches by renowned California muralist Camille Solon, an artist whose work appears throughout Hearst Castle, can be seen as part of the Kennedy Library’s Special Collections.

The recent addition of 225 sketches includes images of Hearst Castle and the surrounding region plus the area around Stone’s-Treant, England, Solon’s birthplace, and Martin County.

Solon became well acquainted with Hearst Castle architect Julia Morgan, California’s first female architect, after Morgan commissioned him in 1924 to create murals and paintings for the Chapel of the Chimes, a Gothic-style addition she was designing for an Oakland church.

Soon after the project’s completion, Solon was hired as an artist at Hearst’s San Simeon estate. He is known for the mosaic tile work in the Roman pool and the murals in the Gothic study, in the center room of the castle’s new wing, and in the doorway to the dining hall.

The new sketches make up the Morgan-Solon Collection and add to the Kennedy Library’s already vast compilation of materials on the design and building of Hearst Castle.

The Julia Morgan Collection, donated to the library in 1980, contains personal and professional papers, including correspondence between Morgan and William Randolph Hearst.

The Special Collections and University Archives Department is open 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Monday through Friday and by appointment.

Due to the fragile nature of the Julia Morgan Collection and the Solon sketches, appointments are recommended for consultation with a member of the Special Collections staff.

For more information, contact Catherine Trujillo or Mike Lane at ext. 6-2787 or fax your order to ext. 6-0808.

Library acquires collection of Hearst Castle sketches

Dignity, fairness, continued from page 2
show and video clips; a detailed discussion of workers’ living and working conditions; reports of environmental abuse; exploration of the “culture of fear” reports on the children of workers; and suggestions on what can be done to support fair labor practices around the world.

The program will close with a question-and-answer session. For more information, contact Sister White, associate director at the Newman Catholic Center, at 543-4105 ext. 11 or mpurwhite@slonewman.org.

Library acquires collection of Hearst Castle sketches

An extensive collection of sketches by renowned California muralist Camille Solon, an artist whose work appears throughout Hearst Castle, can be seen as part of the Kennedy Library’s Special Collections.

The recent addition of 225 sketches includes images of Hearst Castle and the surrounding region plus the area around Stone’s-Treant, England, Solon’s birthplace, and Martin County.

Solon became well acquainted with Hearst Castle architect Julia Morgan, California’s first female architect, after Morgan commissioned him in 1924 to create murals and paintings for the Chapel of the Chimes, a Gothic-style addition she was designing for an Oakland church.

Soon after the project’s completion, Solon was hired as an artist at Hearst’s San Simeon estate. He is known for the mosaic tile work in the Roman pool and the murals in the Gothic study, in the center room of the castle’s new wing, and in the doorway to the dining hall.

The new sketches make up the Morgan-Solon Collection and add to the Kennedy Library’s already vast compilation of materials on the design and building of Hearst Castle.

The Julia Morgan Collection, donated to the library in 1980, contains personal and professional papers, including correspondence between Morgan and William Randolph Hearst.

The Special Collections and University Archives Department is open 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Monday through Friday and by appointment.

Due to the fragile nature of the Julia Morgan Collection and the Solon sketches, appointments are recommended for consultation with a member of the Special Collections staff.

For more information, contact Catherine Trujillo or Mike Lane at ext. 6-2787 or fax your order to ext. 6-0808.

Library acquires collection of Hearst Castle sketches

Dignity, fairness, continued from page 2
show and video clips; a detailed discussion of workers’ living and working conditions; reports of environmental abuse; exploration of the “culture of fear” reports on the children of workers; and suggestions on what can be done to support fair labor practices around the world.

The program will close with a question-and-answer session. For more information, contact Sister White, associate director at the Newman Catholic Center, at 543-4105 ext. 11 or mpurwhite@slonewman.org.

Library acquires collection of Hearst Castle sketches

An extensive collection of sketches by renowned California muralist Camille Solon, an artist whose work appears throughout Hearst Castle, can be seen as part of the Kennedy Library’s Special Collections.

The recent addition of 225 sketches includes images of Hearst Castle and the surrounding region plus the area around Stone’s-Treant, England, Solon’s birthplace, and Martin County.

Solon became well acquainted with Hearst Castle architect Julia Morgan, California’s first female architect, after Morgan commissioned him in 1924 to create murals and paintings for the Chapel of the Chimes, a Gothic-style addition she was designing for an Oakland church.

Soon after the project’s completion, Solon was hired as an artist at Hearst’s San Simeon estate. He is known for the mosaic tile work in the Roman pool and the murals in the Gothic study, in the center room of the castle’s new wing, and in the doorway to the dining hall.

The new sketches make up the Morgan-Solon Collection and add to the Kennedy Library’s already vast compilation of materials on the design and building of Hearst Castle.

The Julia Morgan Collection, donated to the library in 1980, contains personal and professional papers, including correspondence between Morgan and William Randolph Hearst.

The Special Collections and University Archives Department is open 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Monday through Friday and by appointment.

Due to the fragile nature of the Julia Morgan Collection and the Solon sketches, appointments are recommended for consultation with a member of the Special Collections staff.

For more information, contact Catherine Trujillo or Mike Lane at ext. 6-2787 or fax your order to ext. 6-0808.
Conference to address issues of leadership

Cal Poly’s second annual Women’s Leadership Conference, set for Feb. 23, will focus on the qualities women need to help them develop as leaders. The conference will explore ways to maximize their leadership potential. This year’s theme is “Real World Leadership: All Women.” The symposium will be from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Veranda Café.

Phibulous Dance Company to perform Feb. 26

The dance company that has been hailed by The New York Times as the “most outstanding dance company anywhere” will perform at 8 p.m. Feb. 26 in Harman Hall at the Christophe-phen Theatre Center.

Phibulous Dance Company began in a Dartmouth, College dance class in 1971 and has been a successful dance troupe, blessing a weight-sharing approach to partnering that engages the mental, physical and social power of bodies with skill of bodies to create dance pieces. The dancers combine body sculpt-ure, acrobatics and pure theater to create what has been referred to as exquisite stage pictures and deeply resonating movements. Dance Professor Moon Ja Minn Suil will give a dance lecture at 7 p.m. in Phyllis Hall. Tickets are $26 to $38, with student discounts available.

Extended Studies continues wine hospitality courses

Extended Studies is continuing to offer courses in its Wine Hospitality Certificate Program, in which industry experts share their knowledge. The courses can help participants determine whether to pursue a career in the wine hospitality field or help them increase their knowledge of wines.

This quarter’s classes, all at 110 a.m., are:

- Customer Communications, 8:30-10 a.m. March 9
- Wine Sales, 10-12:30 p.m. March 9
- Wine Etiquette, 9-11 a.m. March 16
- Food and Wine Service, 1-4 p.m. March 16

For complete course descriptions and information on selection of best practices, visit the Extended Studies Web site at www.extendedstudies.calpoly.edu or call ext. 206-531.

History Day

History Day continues from page 1

In addition to Lovins’ talk, the evening event will include a slide show and dis-play about the Cal Poly Land Project. The interdisciplinary faculty project is exploring the interactions of nature, science, technology, politics, art and transportation that take place on the 10,000 acres of land under the university’s ownership.

Loving, faculty author, social and environ-mental activist, was among 39 people named by the Wall Street Jour-nal’s Centennial Issue as “most likely to change the course of business.” He has also received a “Hero for the Planet” award from Time magazine, and Newsweek, “Leslie and Jim have proved fearless in their pursuit of new ideas,” he says. “They have been a driving force behind the creation of a new type of business in this field, a type of business that is more sustainable and provides a profit for the investor.”

Phibulous Dance Company began in a Dartmouth, College dance class in 1971 and has been a successful dance troupe, blessing a weight-sharing approach to partnering that engages the mental, physical and social power of bodies with skill of bodies to create dance pieces. The dancers combine body sculpture, acrobatics and pure theater to create what has been referred to as exquisite stage pictures and deeply resonating movements. Dance Professor Moon Ja Minn Suil will give a dance lecture at 7 p.m. in Phyllis Hall. Tickets are $26 to $38, with student discounts available.

 verkloot, who created the Olym-pics Salute for the Vancouver Winter Olympic Games in 2006, will be at 7 p.m. in Chashama Auditorium. The Los Angeles Catholic Center is one of many religious and socially conscious organizations that is sponsoring the event as an effort to help individuals better understand the social and political issues of globalization.

Kreuz and Kreuz, who have lived on the wages of factory workers in Indonesia, are speaking across the country to publicize the meager existence of citizens of Third World countries, according to Sister Mary Pat White of the Newman Catholic Center.

"Leslie and Jim have proved fearless in their pursuit of new ideas," he says. "They have been a driving force behind the creation of a new type of business in this field, a type of business that is more sustainable and provides a profit for the investor."
Conference to address issues of leadership
Cal Poly’s second annual Women’s Leadership Conference, set for Feb. 23, will focus on the qualities women need to help them develop. The courses can help participants determine whether to pursue a career in the wine hospitality field or help them increase their knowledge and skills. The symposium will be 9 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Veranda Cafe.

Phibolus Dance Company to perform Feb. 26
The dance company that has been hailed by The New York Times as the “most outstanding dance company anywhere” will perform at 8 p.m. Feb. 26 in Harman Hall at the Christopher Cohan Center.

Phibolus Dance Company began in a Dartmouth College dance class in 1971 and has traveled the world. The dance troupe, blessing a weight-sharing approach to partnering that integrates physical, social and political elements of dance, has pleased audiences worldwide.

The dancers combine body sculpture, acrobatics and pure theater to create what has been referred to as exquisite stage pictures and deeply resonating movements.

Dance Professor Moon Ja Minn Su is to present a lecture at 7 p.m. in Phyllis Hall. Tickets are $26 to $38, with student discounts available.

Extended Studies continues wine hospitality courses
Extended Studies is continuing to offer courses in its Wine Hospitality Certificate Program, in which industry experts share their knowledge.

This quarter’s classes, all at 9 a.m., are:
• Consumer Communications, 8:30-10 a.m., March 9
• Wine Sales, 1:30-4 p.m., March 9
• Wine Etiquette, 9 a.m.-noon March 16
• Food and Wine Service, 1-4 p.m.

For complete course descriptions and tuition information for selected hospitality businesses, visit the Extended Studies Web site at www.extendedstudies.calpoly.edu or call ext. 6-2083.

Dignity, fairness, freedom to be focus of presentation
Leslie Kretz, who carried the Olympic torch here to Philadelphia to honor factory workers working to improve working conditions, and colleague Jim Kealy will give a multimedia presentation Tuesday (Feb. 19) at the Newman Catholic Center.

Kretz and Kealy, who have lived on the wages of factory workers working worldwide, will explore the religious and socially conscious organizations sponsoring the event in an effort to help individuals better understand the social and political impact of globalization.

The presentation, “Globalization: Issues of Dignity, Fairness and Freedom,” will be at 7 p.m. in Chapman Auditorium.

The Newman Catholic Center encourages other religious and socially conscious organizations to sponsor events in an effort to help individuals better understand the social and political impact of globalization.

History Day
In addition to Lovins’ talk, the evening event will include a slide show and display of the Cal Poly Land Project. The interdisciplinary faculty project is exploring the intersections of nature, science, technology and art and information that take place on the 10,000 acres of land under the university’s ownership.

Lovins, an author, political economist and environmentalist, was among 37 people named by the Wall Street Journal’s Centennial Council as “most likely to change the course of business.” He has also received a “Hero for the Planet” award from Time magazine, and Newsweek called him as “one of the Western world’s most influential thinkers.”

“Lovins are thrilled to have America Lovins with us for this occasion,” said Provost Paul Zingg. “He is a person of passion and action, and I expect he will challenge Cal Poly to develop more fully an environmental consciousness and a commitment to environmental education.”

Lovins is co-author of “Natural Capitalism: The New Industrial Revolution.” His works on transformation of a sustainable economy earned him the university’s Carver, Janis R. and Robert J. Buttinger, Jr. Professorship in Energy and Sustainable Development.

The presentation is sponsored by the Center in honor of the 25th anniversary of the Newman Catholic Center.

UC Riverside prof to talk on human rights in Chile
An expert on civil-military relations, political repression and human rights will present “Human Rights Policy in Chile: The Politics of ‘Diaspora’” at 11 a.m. Feb. 28 in Science E-27.

UC Riverside Political Science Professor David Ambach, who has lived in Chile, where he interviewed various individualists involved in human rights policy.

He is widely known for his research and writings, including “Civil-Military Relations in Latin America: New Analytical Perspectives” and “Through Corridors of Power: Institutions and Civil-Military Relations in Argentina,” co-authored by the Political Science Department. For more information, call ext. 6-2985.

Call for Cal Poly authors
Cal Poly faculty and staff members whose books were published in 2001 will be honored at the fourth annual Cal Poly Authors Celebration, sponsored by the Kenneth and Mary Lovins Bookstore and the Provost’s Office.

Interested authors must identify themselves to be identified by a colleague by March 1. For guidelines and a submission form, go to the Cal Poly Authors 2002 Web site at www.lib.calpoly.edu/authors.

The reception and award ceremony will be 5-7 p.m. April 17 in the Library Atrium.

For more information, e-mail Mallie Harlan at sharlan@calpoly.edu or call her ext. 6-2403.

Call for Cal Poly students
Cal Poly students may submit short stories, poems or plays that will be showcased as part of the annual Call for Cal Poly Student Authors event. This year’s theme is “Old Wives’ Tales: Tales of Women’s Experiences, Issues of Leadership.”

The symposium will be 9 a.m.-4 p.m. in Thacher Hall. Students who wish to present must register by 3 p.m. March 1. A reading/writing conference will take place at lunch time. The conference and symposium will focus on the qualities women need to help them develop as leaders and will explore ways to maximize their leadership potential.

This year’s theme is “Real World Leadership: Making the Difference.” The symposium will be 9 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Veranda Cafe.

Pablo Paster at ppaster@calpoly.edu.

University Art Gallery showcasing new exhibit
The latest exhibit at the University Art Gallery, which runs through March 10, features Kim Abeles and Sheila Pinkel, whose work combines extensive historical research with art, enabling viewers to explore issues of aging in American culture.

A slide show, slide lecture and a reception will be held to celebrate the opening of the exhibit “Dialogues with History,” which runs from Feb. 19 through March 10.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Ethnic Studies Department, the College of Liberal Arts and the Cal Poly Foundation’s Doyle International Lecturer Fund.

For more information, call ext. 6-1707.

Photographer to talk on Middle East, Arab America
Photographer George Azar will present “Cameras on the Middle East and Arab America” at 2 p.m. Feb. 21 in RU 420.

The speaker, author of critically acclaimed book “Palestine—A Photographic Journey,” will discuss work for such leading international publications as the National Geographic, Newsweek, Mother Jones, Time and U.S. News & World Report.

Azar, who has collaborated with the Ethnic Studies Department, the College of Liberal Arts and the Cal Poly Foundation’s Doyle International Lecturer Fund.

For more information, call ext. 6-1707.

State has new contracts for rental cars
The state has negotiated new rental contracts for 2002, and all Cal Poly business, employees must use one of the contracted companies—Alamo, Avis, Budget, Enterprise, Hertz or National. These companies are backed by the state’s Motor Pool Plan administered by Extended Studies.

For local rental, Enterprise still has special rates and an on-campus office.

To get the state rates, employees must pay for the rental with an American Express corporate card or a Department of General Services charge card.

For information on local Enterprise rentals, call ext. 6-7421. For other travel questions, call Customer Service at 1-800-800-PAYABLE at ext. 6-1717, or go to www.aafj.calpoly.edu/afj/services/travel/for information and forms.
Position Vacancies

STATE: The official listing of staff and management vacancies is posted at least two weeks prior to closing dates on Cal Poly's Web site at www.calpoly.edu/jobs. Select "Employment" from the Cal Poly link drop-down box. As a courtesy to our on-campus employers, job openings also are displayed on the online Cal Poly Report. Positions marked with an asterisk (*) indicate that qualified on-campus applicants in bargaining units 2, 5, 7 and 9 will be given first consideration. Job applications must be received in Human Resources, Adm. 1b, by 5 p.m. on the closing date.

#264-Physician, Health and Counseling Services, $7,222-$11,273. Closing date: March 8.

FACULTY Candidates are asked to contact the appropriate department office at the phone number listed for more information or to request an application. Additional information and qualifications for each position may also be obtained online at http://www.academic-personnel.calpoly.edu. Please submit all application materials to the department head/chair unless otherwise specified in the ad. Rank and salary are commensurate with qualifications and experience (and base where applicable), unless otherwise stated.

#4049: Lecturer, Full-Time, Architecture Department (ext. 6-3166). Closing date: Mar. 15.

#4060: Tenure-Track, Assistant Professor, Civil and Environmental Engineering (ext. 6-2947). Closing date: March 15.

Students earn ... Continued from page 1

Cal Poly's conservative tallies are in contrast to the practice at most schools, according to the Washington Monthly article. The journal and Northwestern University found that many schools inflate their federal Work-Study jobs in a typical year. The largest off-campus employer of Cal Poly work-study students is the county of San Luis Obispo, Second-largest is the San Luis Coastal Unified School District. More than 600 Cal Poly students hold Federal Work-Study jobs at any given time, according to the Cal Poly Alumni Association.

The largest off-campus employer of Cal Poly work-study students is the county of San Luis Obispo, Second-largest is the San Luis Coastal Unified School District. More than 600 Cal Poly students hold Federal Work-Study jobs at any given time, according to the Cal Poly Alumni Association.

Library acquires collection of Hearst castle sketches

An extensive collection of sketches by renowned California muralist Camille Solon, an artist whose work appears throughout Hearst Castle, can be seen as part of the Kennedy Library's Special Collections.

The recent addition of 225 sketches includes images of Hearst Castle and the surrounding region plus the area around Santa-Cruz, Montana, Solon's birthplace, and Marin County.

Solon was hired as an artisan at Hearst's Castle. He is known for the mosaic tile work in the Roman pool and the murals in the Gothic study, in the center of the castle's new wing, and in the doorway to the dining hall.

The new sketches make up the Morgan-Solon Collection and add to the Kennedy Library's already vast compilation of material surrounding the design and building of Hearst Castle.

The Julia Morgan Collection, donated to the Library in 1980, contains personal and professional papers, including correspondence between Morgan and William Randolph Hearst.

The Special Collections and University Archives Department is open 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Monday through Friday and by appointment.

Due to the fragile nature of the Julia Morgan Collection and the Solon sketches, appointments are recommended for consultation with a member of the Special Collections staff.

For more information, contact Catherine Trujillo or Mike Line at ext. 6-2305 or visit www.lib.calpoly.edu/spec_coll/.

Dignity, fairness ... Continued from page 2

Library acquires collection of Hearst castle sketches

Students earn high marks for community service

Cal Poly is CSU's top 2000-2001 fund-raiser

Cal Poly raised more than $43.2 million in gifts from individuals, corporations, foundations during fiscal year 2000-2001, more than any other CSU campus.

Gifts included $1.5 million for the College of Agriculture from Omer and Claudia King. Bert and Candace Forbes gave $3 million to the College of Engineering, and Paul and Sandra Bonderon gave $2 million to the College of Engineering.

The largest single gift to Cal Poly in fiscal year 2000-2001 came from Kinko's founder Paul Orfalea and his wife, Natalie, who donated $4 million for the College of Business and the Orfalea Family and ASI Children's Center.

Athletics received a $2.2 million pledge from Richard O'Neill toward the Memorial Stadium renovation project.

Like other public universities across the nation, Cal Poly devotes significant effort to fund raising in order to finance faculty and staff salaries and to acquire technology that is needed to continue to attract top professors and students.

Continued from page 4