Backfield Problem Looms As Season Gets Underway

By Harold Young

With lineups strong enough to halt the Cannon Ball Express, but with a backfield not so healthy, Cal Poly's Big Green eleven opened the 1958 Fall Frolic tomorrow night in Poly Stadium against the Rocky Mountain Conference's Colorado State College Bears.

The season opener, the first of seven home tilts and a slate of 10 contests for Cal Poly-Riverside-Poly-Hughes Mustangs, will be the first meeting of the two colleges.

Colorado State went 6-4-0 last year while the locals registered a 6-1-0 campaign, but the locals lost a key man in the running game, because between the Bears and the Mustangs in the title of setback, however.

The Green and Gold will throw a line against the Great West gang that averages 180 pounds per man. The Bears' forward wall is ranked as the 100-pound mark, with few exceptions.

Coach Joe Lindahl's Mustangs run "the wing." Hughes has lost most of his ball carriers but has enough running backs to cause enough worry. He has veteran Poly fullback Brian Hunsmore, a capable field general who handles the signal calling chores, who deserves a place as a passer.

Little All-American candidate Bobbo Nashardi, Big Green quarterback, runs Hughes' precise offense and is one of a few players of the four-year varsity. But Nashardi has every right to feel confident of his success the last two years' experience behind him and in his first campaign at the grid and goal.

The Green and Gold ground game depends on but a few individuals. Poly's running back line is headed for first unit ballhitting and the Poly halfbacks are due for a lot of shifting. With only four backs, the Mustangs are hoping to interchange a few backs to provide individuality and keep the running game alive.

The local defense gears are well-rounded enough to withstand Poly's passing and kicking capabilities.

The Mustangs and Bears are joined in the Western Athletic Conference, giving three backfielders, three backfielders, the Western Athletic Conference, giving three backfielders of the three. The Mustangs open with their visitors from the West.

Intramural Sports Start Year With Football and Tennis

Intramural sports again will begin during the first week of activities at Cal Poly this year.

"In the past, students participating have been very good. Last year student participation was high due to the involvement of the intramural program and the availability of facilities," says Dr. Robert Mott, head of physical education.

"Every student eligible to participate should take those who are active in athletics or freshman sports. To get on a team, sign up with your dorm manager. If you live off campus, sign up with the team in your major department.

Campus Clubs Make Changes in Advisors

Several important changes in the lineup of campus club advisors have been made since publication of the Mustang Handbook.

ROTC members receive new pins this year. The pins will be available to students at the ROTC office. The pins are made of gold and silver.

Students Find Anything From Soup to Advice in Bookstore

"Corral bookstores operates on a very low markup on all merchandise with the definite purpose of trying to keep costs down," says Cyril bookstores manager Dick H. to all incoming freshmen. "We have printed order sheets on the shelves for the books that you will need for your various classes.

In addition, members of the staff are always willing to help you with any special problem you might have. In addition, Dick will also advise the new students to keep all sales slips on books in case of a return for them.

The bookstore is operated on a self-service honor system with the student getting his own supplies from the store.

Students who like the exercise have been going to bookstores for many years. It seems that there are not many types of stationery, from booklets and stationery to humorous greeting cards.

Also on the list of things available are common articles such as shoe polish, photographs, maps and some forms of jewelry with college crests and insignias.

Over 5,000 southern California high school members of Future Farmers of America held their annual Field Day at the Kellogg-Young meat to last April.

Want to be Queen?
Committee Seeks Homecoming Ruler

"Would you like to be 'Queen for a Day?' Cal Poly needs a queen for its 61st annual Homecoming to be held Nov. 6, and it could very well be you.

Anyone interested in being a contestant may pick up an entry blank in the student body office. Oct. 1-11," says Ran Cole, general chairman.

Plans are underway for a gala reception for all contestants on Oct. 15. During the evening the five finalists will be selected. According to Bill Wanner, queen chairman, campaigning will run from Oct. 11 to 15 and the coronation will be held Oct. 19.

"The queen and her lovely court will reign supreme at all events," says Jerry Fowler, campus chairman. "The queen's court will have the court on a special float in the Homecoming parade designed and built by the members of Blue Key."

Many Cal Poly students and their wives have taken advantage of the course offerings in past years. It is interesting to note that many courses can be taken in the evening which cannot be scheduled during the day.

Several courses may be established if 15 or more students submit a request to the office. Enrollment for credit courses may enroll at their convenience.

Foundation Important Aid
In Poly Instruction

BY DON CAMPBELL

An outstanding feature of the instructional methods used at Cal Poly, and one which has brought the school national recognition is the application of the "learn by doing" philosophy, is the project system operating under the Cal Poly Foundation.

This training method which makes it possible for students to market many thousands of dollars of agricultural and industrial products annually, depends on the availability of a product revolving fund.

The project fund, under careful management of department heads, has grown from a few thousand dollars to about $180,000.00.

The Cal Poly Foundation was organized in April, 1940 as a nonprofit corporation to carry out the activities of the Foundation under the direction of the Board of Directors. The charter stockholders are: Cal Poly president, Julian A. McPherson; and 12 students.

In 1941, all endowment funds and trusts are directed by a board of directors composed of the president and 15 students.

The foundation engages in those activities which would be difficult to carry out under normal college budgetary and fiscal procedures.

Hey! Wear Your New Rooter’s Cap

All students planning to sit in the student’s section for the game will want to wear a "rooter’s cap" according to Capt. Roland A. Kline, training controller for Cal Poly ROTC, with the ROTC program lets you do just that.

This week for the program and during the second quarter of the first half of the home game, four elected unites are eligible to apply for an ROTC determination. If you have a 2 average.

ROTC is an elective course that four elected unites are given for each quarter of the academic year. For your two-year assigned course, four elective units are given for each quarter’s work. The elective units are applied toward your ROTC training, count toward graduation in each major subject.

After completing two years of basic course, you begin taking advanced courses in which you pay your own way. By the time of your graduation, you will have collected approximately $150 from your ROTC training program, says Capt. Kline.

As freshmen, you have the opportunity to compete for all but a few of the ROTC scholarships that were being eligible for membership in the Army, with each having a different combination for college students graduating in the ROTC program.

Following successful completion of the ROTC program, freshmen from colleges, will be called to active duty as second lieutenants in the Army for six months or two years. You request the length of time you want to serve.

Freshman Football Underway; Calls for Players

Freshman football opens the season next week and Coach Tom Lee urges any new student with high school experience interested in playing to report to his office as soon as possible in tunnel 8 in the stadium.

This season marks the return of fresh men to the local campus, following several years absence. Lee, assisted by Walt Gurney, has had an opportunity to observe the output of the 1985 Cal Poly when more than 18 first year men reported for early fall training.

We should have a pretty fair string of fresh men in our lineup. We need a left end, and it looks like Lee has got a good one in playing to come and see us.

The Cal Poly opens the season Sept. 25 in Baltimore against Newsom College.

In a recent scrimmage against teams visiting Cal Poly, Lee said the highly regarded veteran receiver to a 14-14 deadlock.

Drama will be held for the fall production the second week of the fall quarter. The date, time, and place of the tryouts are: Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Sept. 21, 22, and 23, at 7:30 p.m. in Cr. 6.

New Campus Club May Attract Students Liking Theater

One of the newest clubs on the Cal Poly campus is the recently organized Poly Players. The group was given the name of the Poly Players because the school's membership is open to all students interested in dramatic activity. The main purpose of the group is to provide a social organization for all of the students at Poly who are taking part in dramatic activity.

The College Union drama committee's function is that of a producing organization. In other words they make the arrangements for the play, the publicity, the ticket sales, the personnel staff which will insure the success of the production from the public's point of view.

Poly Players will handle the technical aspects of putting the plays on and will provide the necessary personal staff to staff the productions.

Headed by Dick Colnsuntl, the president, the Poly Players plan a number of social activities for the coming year, among these are a coffee hour, to be given at the beginning of each quarter for all students interested in dramatics, various tea parties, several one-act plays, and several social events, where members will visit other campus to attend dramatic productions.

Membership in Poly Players is divided into three classifications: the novice member who may be anyone interested in dramatic activity who is studying Poly; honorary members enjoy all the privileges of the student membership with the exception of voting power. The second classification of membership is open to anyone who has been an active member for two years.

Officers of the club are: Co-man, president; John Zacharias, vice president; Barbara Buehtold, secretary-treasurer; and Will Funnn, corresponding secretary. In addition to the officers there are three additional elected members of the executive council.

Poly Students Cut Living Expenses At Campus Garage

If you're looking for a way to keep living expenses down while you're at college, why not work on your own car at the Cal Poly student garage, suggests John D. Lawson, associate dean of activities.

Located near the mountain dorms, the garage is equipped with everything from screwdrivers to chain hoists. Cars may be worked on a car for a fee of $10. A turn-down of the time of the work is also provided. Each day the garage is open for five hours and the garage can provide enough for a five-day-a-week and 50% on turn-downs of fees. The Rock City Assessors report that the garage is needed. Other costs are available at the garage.

The College Union break even on expenses. The garage is not a profit making concern, he explained. In explaining the reason behind the garage, Lawson said, "Our students like to work on their cars." The garage, which was started in 1956, has 50 students enrolled and has reached a point where it will be able to meet the needs of its patrons.
