Night of the Animals
A Christmas Eve Reading/Liturgy
(for 8 voices and congregation)

Paulette Callen
New York, New York

VOICE 1
I am the black snake coiled under the straw in the corner of the stable.
I stay well hidden
for people despise me.
I don’t have a pretty face.
I am afraid of the man who is with the woman.
(She is tired having had a long journey—this the donkey tells me.)
Now, the man comes close and drops his bundles in this corner.
I have no chance to slip away!
He sees me here
coiled in this corner.
I wait in fear for him to strike me with his staff.
I have no chance to slip away.
But—he smiles and says,
“Tis the donkey tells me.)
I am the mouse who lives in a hollowed-out place
in the manger-hay.
People despise me.
I dart here and there
to keep out of their way.
I keep well hidden and quiet
so I will not frighten the woman.
She has come a long way
(so the donkey tells me).
But the man reaches deep in the manger and picks up the hay for the donkey. I barely escape and fall back down.
I am afraid
for they know now I am here.
But—the woman says, “Careful, Joseph.
Don’t hurt that mouse.”

I am the gray spider who sees from my silver web high in the corner of the stable a man and a woman come to rest after a long, long journey (the donkey tells me this).
I keep well back in the shadows for I don’t have a pretty face.
But now! I step out upon my quivering web to see what the wonder is for I hear the heavens singing and the oceans, too, from far away,
and there, below me,
a small one opens His eyes.
He looks straight up at me.
I think—He smiles at me.

VOICE 4
I am the brown bat that hangs from the rafters of the stable. I sleep in the shadows and fly in the night.
For people despise me.
I don’t have a pretty face.
I come home to the solitude and safety of my rafters—but I see them in the stable—a man, a woman, a babe, and a donkey.
I flutter in the doorway.
I don’t know what to do.
I can’t stay out here for the day will come,
and if I stay out here people will kill me with stones, and I cannot go in for I am afraid.
The woman looks up at me fluttering in the doorway.
She says, “Come in, Little One.
This is your home. We are only visitors and will not disturb you too much.”

VOICES 1, 2, 3, 4 IN UNISON
We raise our heads and creep out of the shadows, for we hear the heavens ringing
and the oceans, too, from far away,
and we know.
And we gather at the feet of the woman and the babe.
They do not drive us away even though we are despised.
The woman says, “Joseph, look.
They’ve come to see.
Aren’t they lovely?”

VOICE 1
Me! The snake.

VOICE 4
Me! The bat.

VOICE 3
—Me! The spider

VOICE 2
—Me! The mouse.

ALL VOICES 1-4 IN UNISON
—Lovely!!
We gather to see the Babe, the Creator’s Appointed One.

VOICE 5
—The animals know when the storm will break

VOICE 6
—The animals know when the earth will quake

VOICE 7
—And the animals knew that He was coming, the Creator’s Appointed One.

VOICE 5
—They didn’t need the angels to tell them, they knew.

ALL VOICES 5, 6, 7
—Because animals know such things.

LEADER: The camels needed no rein to tell them where to go.
RESPONSE: (congregation) The Wise Men were not so wise. They needed the star.

LEADER: The goats needed no gathering, the sheep no herding. They were ready to come down from the hills.
RESPONSE: They would have come down from the hills with or without the shepherds.

LEADER: And what of those who were not in Bethlehem?
RESPONSE: Of course, they knew when the Babe was born, the Creator’s Appointed One.

LEADER: When the Babe was born, the Creator’s Appointed One
RESPONSE: the whales began to sing.

LEADER: From waters warm to waters cold RESPONSE: the oceans rang with song beneath the crystal sky.
LEADER: When the babe was born, the Creator's Appointed One.
RESPONSE: the cats began to purr. A rumble spread across the earth.

LEADER: Little cats in barns and window sills, jungle cats, tree cats, mountain cats purred—RESPONSE: purred until the earth vibrated with joy.

LEADER: The wolves threw back their heads and raised voices to the sky.
RESPONSE: Some howled under a rising moon,

LEADER: Some into the sun, some to the star itself.
They sang for joy,
RESPONSE: for the birth of the Babe, the Creator's Appointed One.

LEADER: Butterflies in many colors took flight RESPONSE: and made fluttering rainbows across the skies.

LEADER: The frogs drummed in the ponds;
RESPONSE: the crickets clicked from tall grasses,

LEADER: birds filled the treetops with sweet music, RESPONSE: when the Babe was born, the Creator's Appointed One.

ALL VOICES IN UNISON
The valleys, the mountains, the woods, the grasslands, the seas, and the skies rang out, for the animals knew of the birth of the Babe, the Creator's Appointed One.

LEADER: Horses neighed and stamped in pride that one of their own cousins had carried the Babe.
RESPONSE: and would carry Him again, as a man.

ALL: The animals knew.

LEADER: The gorillas poised silently
RESPONSE: under the green canopy of their mountain home,

LEADER: for they knew and were quiet, with only the beating of their great, gentle hearts to resonate joy RESPONSE: at the birth of the Babe, the Creator's Appointed One.

ALL VOICES:
The animals knew.

VOICE 8
And they knew why He came as a human and not as one of them; for humans are a needy bunch and what they need most is teaching.

VOICE 7
Humans need to be taught love
RESPONSE: For it does not come naturally to them as to the wolf.

VOICE 6
Humans need to be taught justice
RESPONSE: for it does not come naturally to them as to the elephant.

VOICE 5
Humans need to be taught wisdom
RESPONSE: for it does not come naturally to them as to the bear.

VOICE 4
Humans need to be taught forgiveness
RESPONSE: for it does not come naturally to them as to the cow.

VOICE 3
Humans need to be taught a way to find our own peace RESPONSE: for it does not come naturally to us as to the other animals.

VOICE 2
And so was born the Chosen One.

VOICE 1
the Anointed One.

ALL VOICES 1-7
The Son,

VOICE 8
to teach us all the things the animals know but humans have forgotten.
