Let's have flowers and fresh flowers. The jovial El Corral bar is open for suggestions.

If you happen to have 10,000 cans, Duke Hill has a remedy. He has 10,000 cans with no labels, and he's looking for a place to store them. He wants to use them for photography.

Maino Will Construct Graphic Arts Building

Maino Construction Company was awarded a contract this week to construct the Graphic Arts Building for $71,186.

"Construction will probably begin within two weeks," said Chester Young, Building Program Coordinator. The electrical work will be done by Gallagher Electric Company, and Lawson Sheet Metal Company will do the mechanical work.

The universities and colleges of the nation, acting through the National Collegiate Athletic Association, annually conduct 16 national championships.

If you have a gripe about the Graphic Arts Building or about any other campus building, don't hesitate to delve into politics.

Mustangs Drop League Trio To Finish Season

Though by tradition an unlucky day, Friday the thirteenth saw the San Diego State Aztecs get the best of the Mustangs in their first game of the day. Polystar dropped the opening contest by a score of 6-3, then were blanked 8-0 in the second game.

In the third game, Mustang coach Bill Hicks' Mustang eleven took the home diamond. Poly's Don Thompson opened the scoreless round with a hit that led to two more runs. In the ninth inning, the Mustangs brought in 6 runs, while San Diego got only 1 run, giving Cal Poly a 7-1 victory.

In Saturday's double-header with Long Beach State's Forty-Niners, Cal Poly dropped the opening contest by a score of 6-3, then were blanked 8-0 in the second game.

Sports

Though the Mustang baseball squad finished the current season with a "less than spectacular" record, their hitting department was a bright spot. Coach Jerry Phillips, who guided the Freshman Colt squad to a 19-12-2 record, reported that the Mustangs' hitting was the highlight of the season.

The Colts won 18 of 32 games, dropping the trio of contests by only one run. In the hitting department, Colt third baseman Jerry Williams, brother of Mustang first baseman Bob, belted the ball at a .478 clip to lead the parade. Bob Bernstein, who managed to sneak in "bit parts" with the Mustangs, boasted a .414 average. Williams had 21 KHPs, two home runs, and two triples, while Bernstein had 14 KHPs, three home runs, and three triples.

While on the subject of baseball, the Women's Athletic Association's Softball League, featuring a defensive-minded aggregation called the Horse Hustlers, is currently in its final week of play. Current standings find the Hustlers in a three-way tie with the Border Beavers and the Chase Chasers. With five teams left, all three squads have identical 3-1 records.

Tonight's session will see the Hustlers meet the Beavers. Chase meets Royal Imperial. Game time is 7 p.m. on the softball field adjacent to the Mustang track.

Check the smile on swimming coach Dick Andereon's countenance. His squad just finished a most successful season, emerging undefeated in dual competition at the end of the season.

Questionnaire Reveals Feeling of Students on Cheating at Poly

by Drew Richmond

Students at Cal Poly, when asked about cheating at the university, said that they don't want to be involved.

"I don't want a monkey on my back," said one engineering instructor. "I don't want to have to explain to the students what the test will cover."

"I don't want to be responsible for the test," said another student. "I don't want to have to think about it." 4

Many students want a chance to cheat and the tests are changed frequently. But if there is no cheating, it's not important.

Many students want a file of old tests made available in the library. They feel that it is impossible to study all the material, and these tests would give them an insight into what the instructor considers most valuable.

"I don't consider looking at old tests as cheating," an agricultural student said. "I think they should be available to anyone who wants to use them."

"I don't want to be responsible for the test," said another student. "I don't want to have to think about it." 4

The question, "Do you ever cheat?" was usually answered by "seldom" or "never" although many students admitted knowing several students that did cheat.

Agricultural students who were questioned generally felt that the use of crib sheets and cheating was the most prevalent form of cheating. The engineering and arts and science students who were questioned felt that copying answers in class took first place.

Harold Hayes, Dean of the College, said, "Cheating relates to an area in college, but we do not actually know that it is a serious problem at Cal Poly. Charles Davis, head of the department, is chairman of a committee that is investigating the testing system at Cal Poly. This would include cheating."

Davis reported that the committee was forced to examine student and staff attitudes toward the whole examination question. There are three staff members and three student members on the committee.

"We have had only one meeting so far," Davis said, "and don't have any recommendations yet. We have looked over the situation starting with last quarter's final exams and have found some answers. However, it may be more than just a problem of cheating. Maybe Cal Poly's problem is that it is unorganized and unfair."
