CONTENTS

COMPARABLE HARM AND EQUAL INHERENT WORTH: The Problem of Dog in the Lifeboat
by Gary L. Francione ................................................................. 81

A UTILITARIAN ARGUMENT FOR VEGETARIANISM by Nicholas Dixon ................................................................. 90
Response by Alex Wellington (p. 98)
Reply by Nicholas Dixon (p. 105)

WHAT DO ANIMALS CARE ABOUT? by Lily-Marlene Russow ................................................................. 106
Response by William O. Stephens (p. 111)
Reply by Lily-Marlene Russow (p. 113)

CONTRACTS WITH ANIMALS: Lucretius, De Rerum Natura by Jo-Ann Shelton ................................................................. 115

BETTER OFF, BUT STILL ON THE FARM (A review of Bernard E. Rollin’s Farm Animal Welfare: Social, Bioethical, and Research Issues) by Harlan B. Miller ................................................................. 122
Response by Bernard E. Rollin (p. 126)
Reply by Harlan B. Miller (p. 129)

ANIMISM, EMPATHY AND HUMAN DEVELOPMENT by Michael W. Fox ................................................................. 130

NATIVE PEOPLE AND THE FUR TRADE by Paul Hollingsworth ................................................................. 141

HUMANE EDUCATION; A Paradigm for Ethical Problem Solving in Education
by Joyce L. Bloom ................................................................. 144

THE “SPIRITUALITY” OF HUNTING: A Schizoid State of Mind? by Michael W. Fox ................................................................. 147

SHOOTING ELEPHANTS IN ZIMBABWE: An Intellectual Journey by Ken Simonsen ................................................................. 149

POETRY: “The Ballad of the Moon and the Stag,” Ljubomir Trifoncovski (p. 158)
FICTION: “The One Who Got Away,” Mary Sternberg (p. 154)
BOOKS RECEIVED (p. 140)

Vol. 11, No. 3 & 4