School to close; departments to move

As noted in a previous edition of Cal Poly Report, the School of Professional Studies will close by Fall Quarter.

Departments within the school have been reassigned as follows: Graphic Communication, Psychology and Human Development, and Liberal Studies will be in the School of Liberal Arts; Physical Education will be part of Science and Math; Recreation Administration will join with the Natural Resources Management Department within the School of Agriculture, which will also include the Military Science and Home Economics departments; and Industrial Technology will go to the School of Business.

Applications accepted for graduate program

Applications are being accepted for the Graduate Equity Fellowship and Mentor Program. The program is designed to encourage students with bachelor’s degrees who are currently underrepresented at the graduate level to pursue and complete graduate studies. Grants range up to $4,500 per academic year, according to financial need.

Eligible students include: Continuing graduate students maintaining a 3.0 GPA, and underrepresented students, currently defined as individuals with disabilities, women in designated disciplines, blacks, Chicano, other Hispanics, American Indians, Filipinos, Asians, and Pacific Islanders.

Applicants will be required to carry a minimum of eight graduate-level units per quarter. They must also qualify as California residents and demonstrate a minimum financial need of $1,000.

The Graduate Equity Fellowship Program is funded by the CSU and Cal Poly. The program is administered by the Graduate Studies and Research office in collaboration with the Financial Aid office.

The application deadline is May 1. For more information, contact the Graduate Studies and Research office, ext. 1508.

Survey results to be revealed in noon talk

Two administrators from UC Santa Cruz will be on campus Monday, April 27, to discuss the results of a survey that was distributed to 870 Cal Poly faculty and staff women earlier this year.

Jeanais Brodie, associate director of housing, and Valerie Simmons, acting director of affirmative action, will talk at noon in the Staff Dining Room as part of the Women’s Studies Lunch Time Seminar.

Responses to the survey showed women on campus were concerned with issues such as pay and equity, racism, sexual harassment, and family leave.

A written summary of the survey’s major findings will be distributed at the seminar, and Brodie and Simmons will be available for discussion.

For more information, call Margaret Camuso, ext. 1258, or Carolyn Stefanco, 2845.

Faculty sought for CSU summer institute

The Chancellor’s Office of Human Relations invites all CSU faculty members to apply to lead workshops to be presented by the Teacher/Scholar Summer Institute for CSU Faculty. The institute will be held June 15-18 at the Kellogg East Conference Center at Cal Poly, Pomona.

Workshops are designed to serve a variety of instructional and professional interests. Workshops will be led by persons within and outside the CSU. A brochure, which includes application and registration forms, describing the workshops has been sent to all department and deans’ offices. Registration at the Chancellor’s Office will be from May 4-20.

To cover transportation costs, Cal Poly has been allocated approximately $500, which will be disbursed on a first-come, first-served basis.

Applications and registration forms should be returned to Glenn Irvin, vice president for academic programs, via department head and dean, as soon as possible. Questions can be directed to Irvin at ext. 2246.

Union proposals available at Library

In accordance with Title 5, the California Administrative Code, copies of proposals from the California State Employees’ Association for Units 2 (Health Care Support), 5 (Operations Support), 7 (Clerical/Administrative Support Services) and 9 (Technical Support Services); Union of American Physicians and Dentists for Unit 1 (Physicians); California Faculty Association for Unit 3 (Faculty); and State Employees Trades Council for Unit 6 (Skilled Crafts) are located in the Reserve Room of the Library.
Computers@Noon plans demonstration
Craig Duncan of COMWEB Technology Group will discuss and demonstrate the Video Web, a product that enables the instructor's computer to display his/her screen on each of the computers in a student lab. The new product may provide an innovative way to offer computer-based instruction and multimedia in a computer laboratory setting.

This Computers@Noon seminar, sponsored by Academic Computing Services, will be held from 12-1 pm and from 2-3 on Friday, April 24, in Air Conditioning 202.

Faculty, staff members, and students are invited to bring lunch and learn more about this instructional product. For more information, call ext. 2516.

Library Associates sets May book sale
The Cal Poly Library Associates will hold its 13th annual book sale Tuesday through Thursday, May 12-14.

The sale, to be held on the first floor patio of the Kennedy Library, will be from 10 am to 3 pm all three days.

Bargain hunters will be able to choose 50-cent hardbacks and large trade paperbacks and 10-cent magazines. Specialty items include 1990 multi-volume sets of "Books in Print," the "Research Centers Directory," and "Petersen's Graduate Programs."

There will also be a large selection of fiction, engineering, life and social sciences, education, and business-management books for sale.

Established in 1979, the Library Associates organization provides a means of support for Cal Poly's Kennedy Library by those who share an enthusiasm for books and related materials. Proceeds from the sale will be used to buy materials that cannot be purchased with current state funds.

For more information, call ext. 2344.

Cellist to give recital at Cal Poly May 3
Cellist Jeanne Crittenden will give a recital Sunday, May 3, at 3 pm.

The free recital will be in Davidson Music Building 218 and will also feature pianist Bruce Marshall, violinist Pam Dassenko and violist Carole Mukogawa.

The program will include Sonata No. 2 in D, Op. 58 by Mendelssohn and Sonata in C, Op. 119 by Prokofiev. After a brief intermission, the recital will conclude with Quartet in G minor, Op. 25 by Brahms.

A part-time Cal Poly music professor, Crittenden is also on the faculty of Westmont College in Santa Barbara. She is principal cellist of the San Luis Obispo County Symphony and the Pacific Chamber Orchestra and assistant principal cellist of the Santa Barbara Symphony and the Santa Barbara Chamber Orchestra.

For more information on the recital, call the Music Department at ext. 2406 between 8 am and 4 pm Monday through Friday.

Design projects to be displayed at Library
Students in Home Economics' junior and senior interior design studios will have their design projects displayed in the Kennedy Library from Monday, April 27, through Spring Quarter. The displays will be located on the second floor and in the main entry foyer of the library.

Faculty/Staff Payday is April 30

‘New Attitudes’ topic of conference
Business people from throughout the Central Coast have been invited to a day-long conference on “New Attitudes for the ‘90s.”

The program, sponsored by PG&E and Cal Poly’s Human Resource Management Association, will be from 9 am to 3 pm Friday, May 15, at The Inn at Morro Bay.

The keynote speaker will be Vicki Farrer, San Luis Obispo’s personnel analyst, who will discuss “Workforce 2000.” A summary of the day’s discussions will be provided by Cal Poly professor of business law Dr. D. Jan Duffy.

The conference provides a forum for human resource professionals and Cal Poly business students to exchange ideas on the human resource field’s newest techniques.

The conference fee is $50 per person and includes lunch. For reservations or information, call ext. 2629.

July camp scheduled for horse enthusiasts
The Animal Sciences and Industry Department has scheduled a camp for young horse enthusiasts to run Tuesday, July 14, through Friday, July 17.

Anyone 9 through 19, can join in the camp’s daily small group sessions and individual instruction in basic horsemanship, safety around horses, grooming, riding, and showmanship.

Participants bring their own horse and keep it at the university’s horse unit. Campers will stay in Cal Poly residence halls and eat in campus dining facilities. The $200 camp fee includes meals, room, and space for a horse.

For more information call Mike Lund at ext. 2419 or ext. 2558.
