LIVESTOCK, DAIRY
Show Under Way

Poly Royal activities began before sunrise this morning for 185 Poly students as they applied the finishing touches to grooming animals for the annual livestolfk and dairy showmanship contests. Beginning at 6:40 a.m., in the Dairy Pavilion, 90 students will load entire into the ring for the dairy showmanship contest. Three judges will be represented in the event—Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey—which is to be judged by George Steiner of Curtis Breed- ers, Inc.

July Carter, alternate Califor­ nia Dairy Princess from Hanford, will be one of many students who will be in the line-up. Animal husbandry class instructor on the Kellogg campus, Mr. Carter will present the awards to the winning students.

In the beef showmanship event, all 90 students will be com­peting. Three beef steers will be presented in the showmanship contest. In the showmanship event, all 50 man and woman students will parade carefully groomed before Judge William Schields, a 10th Cal Poly animal husbandry instructor. Mr. Schields is the new manager of the Kings County Fair Board.

The showmanship contests will be followed by work by students in fitting and grooming livestock.

INGVAR TRIUMPHS

Cal Poly's Ingvar Hallstrom again proved his talent to be one of the top ten in the country today in the prestigious Air Force Academy Thursday afternoon.

On the track and athletic field list for this year's Poly Royal competition, he took second in both the high and low hurdles, tieing for both in the shot put event.

The Mustang track squad is performing in the Southland today at the Mountain San Andreas Eagle with several other college teams.

Special Guests Attending Departmental Banquets

Guest speakers and honored guests on hand for tonight's various banquets include important personalities from throughout the state, and the first of the evening was the first in a series of five. Dr. Richard Kirsch, a Cal Poly graduate and current field agronomist for the California Chemical Co. of Fresno, will speak at the Annual State Club dinner in the Anderson hotel.

HONORED VISITORS

Guest of Cal Poly President Julius A. McPhee today in Los Angeles was Dr. Richard Kirsch, a graduate of the College of Agriculture, who will speak before—approximately—250 California students, alumni and guests at the Technical Journalism banquet.

The banquet will begin at 6 p.m. in the staff dining hall of the new cafeteria.

Printing students, Engineering Division, and guests will hear, Dr. Robert G. Brown, professor of mechanical engineering, who will address them.

More than 1000 students and alumni of the Architectural Engineering Department will hear a talk by D. J. Hennessey, executive director of the San Francisco Re­development Agency. The dinner is scheduled for 6 p.m. in the Vort's Memorial Ball Room. The gathering will be held for its role in encouraging archi­tecture students to enter the field of lever.

Results

Math Contest

Dr. G. H. Updike, High School was high individual in the annual mathematics contest yesterday. Bob Manne, Los Altos Poly was second and Charles A. Wilkins, El Camino Poly, third.

Long Beach Poly and Palo Alto High were high team.

Eleven Poly students and eight seniors and high school students participated in the written test.

Ornamental Horticulture

Senior William E. Averill was the winner in student exhib­itors, and best theme are Kenneth Gerfaud, San Jose, and Ronald A. Davis, San Jose.

Rodeo Growing Contest

Long Beach Poly and Palo Alto High were the winners.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, CALIFORNIA Saturday, April 29, 18(1

POLY WINS AGAIN... Pictured with his winning project a single-cylinder test engine is Mechanical Engineering senior Bill Campanola. Bill was the recipient of the Mac Short Award presented to the student who contributed most to engineering this year.
EL MUSTANG
Saturday, April 29, 1961
PAGE 2

San Luis Obispo Campus

Student projects, to be presented at the annual conference of the California Polytechnic Society, May 12-13, will be highlighted by a display of student papers and a field trip.

Coast 1AM Student Conference

On Thursday, May 12, the Coast 1AM Student Conference will be held Thanksgiving Day.

Mercy Bowl Set For Thanksgiving Day

Football teams representing the California Collegiate Athletic Association and the Mid-American Conference will participate in the third annual Mercy Bowl to be held Thursday, November 29, at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

Accion Program To Aid South America

Accion, a program for community action in South America, will present an opportunity for young college graduates to participate in the development of South America.

President's Award

President Klinger congratulated the college's Physical Education Department for its constructive program.

Greenhouse Display

The new greenhouse at the Agricultural Experiment Station will provide an opportunity for students to learn about agricultural production and research.

Test Pilot Speaker at IAS Banquet

Scott Crossfield, former X-15 project test pilot and now director of space and missile systems testing at the Hughes Aircraft Division of North American Aviation, will be the guest speaker at the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences IAS banquet to be held in Los Angeles, May 12.

Sabbatical Leaves For 15 Instructors

Awards were given for sabbatical leaves to 15 instructors for managerial, technical, and teaching occupations on the Cal Poly campus.

Construction Begins: 1-Way Street Closed

Construction work on the new library annex will commence the closing of the one-way street behind the library. "Many members of the community and organizations. The California Athletic Club in the Los Angeles area presented a check for more than $3,000 in support of the game and fund. The check was presented by Roy Riggs, Cal Poly football coach and tournament director, following the game. The check was attended by 500 persons.

Crops Display Expansion Plans

A new greenhouse will be constructed in front of the building where the library may result in saving of $3,000 in support of the library.

Real Cool! Exhibit Featured By A/C

A walk-in refrigeration box with specific temperature control at 70 degrees below zero is one of the exhibits on display at the Air Conditioning Engineering Department.

Priceless

Two school records were set at Monday night's game against Oregon State. Central's Frank Capell scored in a tie game of 18 points and a 200-yard return, respectively.

Mustangs Set Eight Records In Winning State Title

Eight conference records were set by the Cal Poly swimming team last week at Santa Barbara as the Mustangs rolled into the NCAA conference championship on Long Beach State. The final score read 147 to 80.5 for the Mustangs. Leading the Mustangs was All-American Jack Adams, who broke his own record of 2:42.6 in the 200-yard butterfly to 2:17.6 in 1960 and the 100-yard freestyle in 1962, both times 49.6.

Frambie Beal also turned in a record-breaking performance with a 5.23 time in the 100-yard freestyle event. This broke the record set by Jerry Hill of Long Beach State in 1960.