Koob sets dates for open forums

Vice President Koob has scheduled a series of open forums to discuss campus issues such as the budget. The forums will be from noon to 2 pm on Friday, Jan. 29, Feb. 26, and March 5 in Room 5B of the Science Building (452).

The faculty and staff are invited. Topics will be whatever the people who go want to discuss.

Lexis-Nexis database available on campus

The Lexis-Nexis database, the largest full-text database in the world for business, law, medicine, current events, and trade information, is now available at Cal Poly.

Training sessions for students and faculty members are being offered by the library. For a schedule, stop by the Reference Desk or call ext. 2649.

Specialized workshops are available for specific classes and senior project students. Faculty members should call Paul Adalian at ext. 2649 to schedule workshops.

Sessions include hands-on experience in the library's computer lab and a five-day password. Once the password expires, users can search on the public Lexis-Nexis workstation in the Reference Department.

Richard Cavaletto of the Agricultural Education Department has been appointed director of Cal Poly's Agricultural Safety Institute. The two-year-old institute helps the faculty coordinate efforts and resources for conducting research, developing training materials, and conducting training in ag safety.

Virus protection software available

Information Systems is switching to a new PC virus protection software package, F-PROT.

Because Cal Poly is no longer licensed to use McAfee Viruscan, those who have it (scan.exe, clean.exe, and vshield.exe) must delete it from their computers and replace it with F-PROT. For copies, which cost $1, bring a disk and a charge-back account number to Academic Computing Services or End User Support.

The F-PROT virus scanner's current version is 2.06a. For the Macintosh, Information Systems supports Disinfectant; the current version is 2.9 and is available at no charge.

Correction noted for Fall '92 'Polyview'

In the "College Size" section, the percentages for the College of Liberal Arts and the College of Engineering were transposed. The correct figures are 16 percent for the College of Liberal Arts and 25 percent for the College of Engineering. The enrollment numbers are correct as printed.

Institutional Studies apologizes for any confusion this might have caused.
Students, professor to perform in concert

Cal Poly’s Polyphonics will join the 90-voice Cuesta Master Chorale and members of the San Luis Obispo County Symphony in performances of Poulenc’s “Gloria” and Faure’s “Requiem” at 8:15 pm Saturday, Jan. 30.

The concert will be conducted by music professor Thomas Davies at the New Life Community Church of the Nazarene, 990 James Way, Pismo Beach.

Also appearing as guest soloists will be Cal Poly music faculty member Mary Rawcliffe and Hector Vasquez of the San Francisco Opera Company.

For reservations, call 546-3131.

Women and leisure topic of Feb. 1 talk

Lynn Jamieson of the Recreation Administration program will discuss “Leisure: Basic Right Denied Women?” at noon Monday, Feb. 1, in the Staff Dining Room.

The talk, part of the Women’s Studies Lunch-Time Seminar series, will explore the assumption that women have been denied leisure opportunities and the right to establish personal leisure habits. Roles, time demands, expectations and personal choices will be presented from an historical perspective.

For more information on the program, call Carolyn Stefano of the Women's Studies Program at ext. 2845.

Chemistry Department receives donations

The Coatings Industry Education Fund of the Federation of Societies for Coatings Technology has awarded $7,400 to the Chemistry Department for the purchase of state-of-the-art dispersing equipment to be used in its polymers and coatings concentration.

In addition, the Pacific Northwest Society for Coatings Technology donated $2,400 for unrestricted use by the concentration.

The polymers and coatings concentration began in 1990 as the first of its kind west of the Rockies. The program was developed to meet the need to train chemists to work in the polymers and coatings industry, to prepare students for graduate study in polymers and coating science, and to provide an expanded choice of polymers and coatings electives for a rapidly growing materials program in the Materials Engineering Department.

Annual dance concert by Orchesis Feb. 4-6

Dance Portfolio ’93, the 23rd Annual Dance Concert featuring members of the Orchesis Dance Company, will begin Thursday, Feb. 4, at 8 pm in the Theatre. Performances are also scheduled at 8 pm Friday and Saturday, Feb. 5-6, with a matinee at 1 pm Saturday.

The program features 26 Cal Poly students in a variety of numbers — ballet, jazz and modern — choreographed by company members, dance faculty members, and guest artists under the direction of dance faculty member Moon Ja Minn Suhr.

The show will open to the sounds of Michael Jackson’s ‘Jam,’ featuring the entire company. Additional dances will be performed to such diverse sounds as Tchaikovsky’s “Swan Lake,” Janet Jackson and Luther Van Dross’ “The Best Things in Life Are Free,” and the African-American spiritual “Swing Low, Sweet Chariot.”

Tickets — $9 for the public and $7 for students and senior citizens — are available at the Theatre Ticket Office, the ASI Ticket Office in the UU, and at the San Luis Obispo Chamber of Commerce on Chorro Street.

For reservations, call the Anytime ArtsLine at ext. 1421.

Pre-career job fair scheduled Feb. 16

This year's Expo, a pre-career job fair, is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 16, in Chumash Auditorium from 9 am to 1 pm.

The job fair gives students interested in careers in business, agriculture, science, social service, recreation and leisure an opportunity to learn about possible summer jobs, co-ops, internships, volunteer work, and part-time jobs. Students can also learn about summer jobs with camps, ranches, and state and national parks.

Although the focus of the event is on non-technical careers, all interested students are invited to attend. More than 60 employers are expected to participate, representing the retail industry, camps and ranches, hotels and casinos, amusement parks, national and state parks and forests, social service agencies, and preschools.

An Expo Bulletin listing participating companies and opportunities will be available from Career Services the week before the event. For more information, students should contact Career Services at ext. 2501.

Expo is sponsored by Career Services, Student Community Services, the Liberal Arts Council, the departments of Natural Resources Management and Soil Science, and the Recreation Administration program.

For more information and applications, students should contact Liz Cofer, project coordinator, at ext. 5251, or visit to Snuff Out Tobacco Project office in Room 148 of the Student Health Center.

American Indian poet, author to read

Ray Young Bear, nationally known American Indian author and poet, will read from his works and meet with students at 11 am, Tuesday, Feb. 2, in Room 213 of the Business Building.

His works include "Black Eagle Child: The Facepaint Narratives," "Winter of the Salamander," and "The Invisible Musician."

A lifetime resident of the Mesquakie Tribal Settlement in central Iowa, Young Bear has taught at the Institute of American Indian Arts, Eastern Washington University, and the University of Iowa.

He is now working on a non-fiction book, "Stories From the Woodland Region," and a book of poems, "The Rock Island Club."

Young Bear’s presentation is sponsored by the Ethnic Studies program. For more information, call ext. 1707.

Who, What, Where, When

Hany Khalili, Food Science and Nutrition, spent winter quarter break training technicians in food preservation and quality control in Kasese, Uganda, at a USAID-funded food processing facility. Khalili's trip was arranged by Volunteers in Overseas Cooperative Assistance, Washington, D.C.

Michael M. Cirovic, Electronic and Electrical Engineering, and seven students in Computer Science, Computer Engineering, and Electronic Engineering, developed the first electronic database version of the 10-volume Handbook of Data on Organic Compounds, a basic reference work used by research chemists. The software, titled Properties of Organic Compounds, is a Microsoft Windows application. The two-year project was conducted for CRC Press Inc. of Boca Raton, Fla., a Time-Life company, under contracts totalling more than $100,000.

Steve McDermott, Speech Communication, has been named an associate editor for "The Western Journal of Communication."

A textbook by Raymond Zeuschner, Speech Communication, titled "Communicating Today," has been published by Allyn and Bacon, Boston.

Richard Cavaletto, Ag Engineering, has been appointed by the California Farm Bureau to serve as an advisor to their state Committee on Rural Health and Safety. Cavaletto gave a poster presentation on Cal Poly's Agricultural Safety Research and Training program at an American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Anaheim.
