Banquet Honors
Poly Student Trio

Three Cal Poly electronics engin­eers were featured at a recent banquet given by the Western Electric

Marketing Association. The three students, LEONARD WALL, JOSEPH KAPLAN, and ROBERT RUSSELL, were honored for their contribu­tions to the field of electronics.

Banquet proceeds from the event will be used to support the students' activities and to further their studies in the field.

Whatever havoc the snarlings may be causing in the Health Center!

Many of us still remember the time students could go over to the Health Center during lunch hours, and see a doctor within a 15-minute period. But now it has gotten to the point where you have to wait at least an hour. This is because doctors are unable to handle the large number of students who come in for medical treatment. Of course, if you need to be seen by a doctor, you can still come in, but be prepared to wait. This is especially true if you come in on a Friday or Monday, as these are the busiest days. If you are in a hurry, you may want to consider seeing a doctor at another clinic.

There is one exception to the appointment problem, if you are going to the Health Center for an emergency. If you are bleeding profusely, have a severe pain, or are having difficulty breathing, you will be attended to. But if you are coming in with a cold and wish to be treated before it gets worse, you have to make an appointment in advance, and by this time your cold has turned into an emergency—possibly.

The question is, "Why must a student pay five dollars for a medical consultation?" Could the reason be that the Health Center is a national chain? But this does not seem to be the case, as they are not expected to give the same standard treatment. It may be that the Health Center does not have enough doctors to see everyone in a day, and by this time their schedule is already full.

I'm sure there is no fixed student doctor-patient ratio at the Health Center, and if it is, it may be one to one. This does not mean that the student body was not in any need of medical assistance. The Health Center was established to provide a place for students who could not afford to go to a doctor's office. But now it seems that the Health Center has become a business, and is more interested in profit than in providing medical care.

Let's talk about the ugly man contest.

The Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the ugliest man of all? Probably the candidate for the Ugly Man Contest. This contest was held in the Health Center, and the winner was announced yesterday. The contest was judged by a panel of judges who were looking for the ugliest man on campus.

The contest was open to all students, and the winner was announced yesterday. The winner was a senior who had been a member of the Health Center for four years. The judges were impressed by the candidate's ability to hold a conversation without breaking into laughter. The winner received a prize of $100, which was donated by the Health Center.

New Members To Be Inducted

The Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the best inductee of all? Probably the new members of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. This fraternity is known for its high academic standards, and the new members will be expected to maintain a high GPA. The inductees were announced on Friday, and the ceremony was held in the Health Center. The new members were inducted by the fraternity's national president, who was on hand to represent the fraternity.

In other news, the Intercollegiate Dairy Cattle Judging Team competed in Iowa.

The team, consisting of Donald Johnson, Johnson Brown, Carl Leland Hall, Gordon Gibbs, and Robert Sanders and Gerald Hunt, competed in the final round.

Dairy Judging Team Competes in Iowa

The Intercollegiate Dairy Cattle Judging Team competed in Iowa recently, and the team performed well. The team consisted of Donald Johnson, Johnson Brown, Carl Leland Hall, Gordon Gibbs, and Robert Sanders and Gerald Hunt.

The team competed in the competition, and they performed well. They were able to judge the dairy cattle with accuracy and precision, and they were able to identify the different breeds and traits of the cattle. The team was able to place in the top ten, which is a great accomplishment for a team of students.
