City Council Approves Controversial Housing Plan

By Jim McLean
The San Luis Obispo City Council approved a controversial housing development, despite objections from city residents. The council held a special meeting on Tuesday evening to discuss the project, which will be built near the San Luis Obispo Lake "planned community." The development, which will include 1,000 units of housing, will undertake the approval given by the city council's director for construction of the new project facilities.

The commission denied the council's request to ask for further discussion on the project before the council made a final decision. According to city manager Chet Hoven, the council must make a decision on the project before any further action can be taken.

The development is to house approximately 1,000 units. About a third of the units will be for low-income residents, and about a third will be for middle-income residents. The remaining units will be for high-income residents.

The council was pleased with the number of people who attended the meeting. "We believe that this decision will benefit the city," said Councilman Donald O. Miller.

McLean

Public Schools Must Abandon Progressive Education: Rafferty

California public school will abandon so-called progressive education before its current term of office, he said. James Rafferty, superintendent of public instruction, told the council that his administration would not continue the program after the present term of office.

Rafferty said, "We're seeing the effects of this program as it continues to grow. We have to make a decision about what to do next, and it's clear that we can't continue with this approach."

The council's decision was not unexpected, as it has been considering alternatives to progressive education for some time.

SAC REPORT

Editions Accepted, Salaries Fail In Council Action On El Mustang

By Darrel Schramm
International Week was marked by a production of "A Night in Tunisia," a musical set in Tunisia. The production was directed by Gary Webb, who also directed "A Night in Tunisia." Webb said that he had always wanted to direct a musical and was delighted when the opportunity came.

The musical was performed by 143 freshman and junior students, who were directed by Gary Webb. The production was presented in the Poly Auditorium.

The national Peanut Council will observe National Peanut Week, calling them "sugar makers." They will also share the "sugar cube," said Dr. James, the health center.

McPherson Outlines Graduate's Duties

President of the College: John McPherson outlined the duties of the student body in council meeting on Tuesday night. He said that he had always thought it would be important to have a student who would be responsible for carrying out the duties of the student body.

The council agreed with McPherson. They said that they would support the student body in carrying out its duties.

Crimson & Blue Maid Will Visit Campus

California State Polytechnic College is scheduled to host the Crimson & Blue Maid during March. The Crimson & Blue Maid is a part of the People to People program.

The Crimson & Blue Maid is a part of the People to People program. She is scheduled to visit the campus on March 24, 1963. The Crimson & Blue Maid will also visit the campus on March 17.

Month Of March Observes Unusual, Novel Events

Get out the coloring books, enjoy art, and celebrate the month of March with these unusual and novel events.

For students who are aware of some "new" coloring books, you can see them this month without embarrassment because this is Children's Art Month, according to the Courier, Water Color and Craft Institute.

If you like pets, the week of March 18 to March 24, is for you. The National Peanut Council will observe National Peanut Week. "Bread and butter peanut" is the official food of the week.

The four weeks of March are for you. The National Peanut Council will observe National Peanut Week. "Bread and butter peanut" is the official food of the week.

Cotton Maid Will Visit Campus

Student Role Vital To Friendship: Johnson

In his speech explaining the role of the student, Robert Johnson said that the role of the student is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students.

Johnson said, "The role of the student is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students."

The student role is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students. The student role is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students. The student role is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students.

Crimson & Blue Maid Will Visit Campus

California State Polytechnic College is scheduled to host the Crimson & Blue Maid during March. The Crimson & Blue Maid is a part of the People to People program.

The Crimson & Blue Maid is a part of the People to People program. She is scheduled to visit the campus on March 24, 1963. The Crimson & Blue Maid will also visit the campus on March 17.

Month Of March Observes Unusual, Novel Events

Get out the coloring books, enjoy art, and celebrate the month of March with these unusual and novel events.

For students who are aware of some "new" coloring books, you can see them this month without embarrassment because this is Children's Art Month, according to the Courier, Water Color and Craft Institute.

If you like pets, the week of March 18 to March 24, is for you. The National Peanut Council will observe National Peanut Week. "Bread and butter peanut" is the official food of the week.

The four weeks of March are for you. The National Peanut Council will observe National Peanut Week. "Bread and butter peanut" is the official food of the week.

Crimson & Blue Maid Will Visit Campus

Student Role Vital To Friendship: Johnson

In his speech explaining the role of the student, Robert Johnson said that the role of the student is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students.

Johnson said, "The role of the student is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students."

The student role is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students. The student role is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students. The student role is vital to the development of a friendship between the foreign students and the host students.

Crimson & Blue Maid Will Visit Campus

California State Polytechnic College is scheduled to host the Crimson & Blue Maid during March. The Crimson & Blue Maid is a part of the People to People program.

The Crimson & Blue Maid is a part of the People to People program. She is scheduled to visit the campus on March 24, 1963. The Crimson & Blue Maid will also visit the campus on March 17.
Business Club Conducts Donation Drive

Members of the Business Club have organized a donation drive with 20% of the donations going to the Cal Poly Memorial Fund. Donations for items such as books and a promise of $600 will be added to the total. The name of the donor will be recorded in a book to be presented to the Business Club. The drive will be held until March 2, in the Business Club office. Additional donations can be made by check or money order to: Business Club, Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, CA 93407.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"We're turning out a crop of confident, felicitous, articulate graduates," an administrator was heard to say. "We'll be a force to be reckoned with in the future."

Saw the World

"I saw the world while I was here," said one student, "and I've been to France, England, and Italy."

Mailbag

Ban Free Samples

"I'm tired of getting these free samples," said one student. "They're a waste of time and I never use them."

Congratulations

"Congratulations on your wedding," said another student. "I'm sure you'll have a happy life together."

Saw the World

"I saw the world while I was here," said one student, "and I've been to France, England, and Italy."

Don't Forget

"Don't forget to bring your umbrella," said a student. "It's going to rain later today."

East German Movie Slated For March 5

"East German" is a movie that will be shown on March 5. "I'm excited to see it," said one student. "I've heard it's really good."

Statewide Contest

Open To Musicians

"We're having a statewide contest for musicians," said a student. "I'm going to enter."

Get Free Samples

"I got a free sample in the mail," said another student. "It's a new kind of soap."
FOREIGN STUDENTS VOICE OPINIONS
On Peace Corps, Local Parties

Washington Report
Ghosts in Closet

By CHAS. B. LUCE, JR.
Chief, Washington Bureau

There's no other place in the world as far as Washington, D.C. is concerned. Unfortunately those who have made Washington their home for any length of time feel that the political aspects of our nation's capital are not conducive to living or working; that the city has a reputation for being dull and gray. However, it is not difficult to find a few people who think differently about the city.

One of those individuals is Mr. Kennedy, who has spent many years in Washington as a diplomat. He has found the city's politics to be lively and stimulating. In his opinion, the political climate of Washington is conducive to living and working. He believes that the city's diverse population and cultural activities contribute to a vibrant political scene.

Another notable individual is Mr. Ford, who has lived in Washington for several years. He agrees with Mr. Kennedy's assessment of the city's political climate. He notes that the city's political scene is not dull and gray; rather, it is full of opportunities for those who wish to be active in politics.

About the time of the first election in the United States, Washington was considered to be the political center of the country. However, as time passed, the city's political scene began to fade. Today, many people think of Washington as a place to work rather than to live.

The Democratic campaign of 1828, for example, was held entirely in Washington. However, it is not difficult to find a few people who think differently about the city.

Mr. Ford, for example, who has lived in Washington for several years, believes that the city's political scene is not dull and gray. He notes that the city's diverse population and cultural activities contribute to a vibrant political scene.

Another notable individual is Mr. Kennedy, who has spent many years in Washington as a diplomat. He has found the city's politics to be lively and stimulating. In his opinion, the political climate of Washington is conducive to living and working. He believes that the city's diverse population and cultural activities contribute to a vibrant political scene.

The United States political scene is not dull and gray. It is full of opportunities for those who wish to be active in politics.
Hicksmen Will Host Pasadena Tomorrow

SPORTS

Bill Rich, Sports Editor

SPORTS

3 SCHOOLS ENTERED

Cindermen Will Compete In Long Beach Relays

Colfiers After Win Over UCSB Today

Following a 10-12 spanking Saturday night, the Cal-Poly pull a big shot yesterday to upset the visiting Mustangs of the Cal Poly of Pomona.

The Mustangs will take an 8-2 lead into the second half of the game, and will continue to lead by the same margin until the end of the game. The Mustangs will then go on to win the game 10-12.

Cagers In Season Finale Tonight

MUSTANG Mermen To Host Cerritos Falcons Tonight

Coach Richard Anderson’s sailing team will be off this time next year, when the Mustangs will have dropped to fifth in the overall standings following the L.A. Open meet.

LOOK WHO'S TALKING

Springtime softness in every puff

SALEM refreshes your taste

Take a puff...its springtime

You'll smoke with a fresh enthusiasm

when you discover the cool "air-softened" taste of Salem

- menthol fresh  rich tobacco taste  modern filter, too

There could be a chance for you at Mattel if you are now studying any of the above engineering specialties at the B.S. or M.S. level. You'll join a company whose major product is engineered to be unique in the industry. If you're the type who enjoys the challenge of solving tough problems, you'll enjoy the work at Mattel.