Judy Is Queen Of Poly Royal

“Queen Judy.” That’s the way people will refer to Miss Judy Ryman for the next month and a half. Judy, a Home Economics major from Paso Robles, was elected as “Miss Cal Poly,” Queen of Poly Royal in the campus-wide student selection. Though she’s thrilled nearly everyone involved, although Judy now has another month and a half left to her reign, and the formal selection was held a year ago, the coronation now is the beginning of a month and a half of functions, socials, and activities. Judy was coronated in front of a large audience of faculty, students, and friends. She was crowned by last year’s queen, Miss Barbara Weierking, who is now a junior at the University of California at Santa Barbara. This year’s selection was held in the Student Center.

The coronation was followed by a special dinner, hosted by the College of Agriculture. Judy will also be the target of many upcoming events and activities, including the annual Spring Ball, which will be held in May. Judy will also be expected to take on the role of hostess for the Homecoming dance in October. The selection process is a long one, and involves a series of interviews and activities, culminating in the final coronation.

Increase Election Okay; Simple Majority Needed

President John J. McPhee told the student body yesterday that the election for the student body president and vice-president will be held in May. He also said that the simple majority, or the majority of those voting, will be used to determine the winner. This is the first time in the history of the college that a simple majority will be used for the election.

The president also said that the election will be held in May, after the Spring Break, and that the winner will be announced on the same day.

Noon

Ponding in the first floor of the student union will be reduced to normal levels today at noon. The ponding has been a problem for the past few weeks, and the university has been working to resolve the issue. The ponding has been caused by a combination of factors, including heavy rain and water buildup in the area.

All results of the election are unofficial for a two-week period.

Where Is Spirit?

John Young

The Mustang staff's criticism of the "book store" recently expanded at the student store is justified.

The "book store" currently has no students nor faculty, and only a few students are even aware of its existence. It is located in the basement of the Administration Building, which is also home to the registrar's office and several other administrative functions.

The "book store" is supposed to be a resource for students, but it appears to be more of a hindrance than a help. The staff is unhelpful and uninformative, and the selection of books is limited and outdated. It is clear that the "book store" is not fulfilling its intended purpose and should be closed or restructured.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Steady Washington Diet - Taxes and Investigations

J. H. Lucey, Jr.

Chief, Washington Bureau

The Federal Government has been putting on a steady Washington diet, but the public does not seem to be noticing it. The budgets of the various departments have been increasing, but the rates of taxation have not been kept pace. As a result, the public has been feeling the pinch of higher taxes.

In addition to the usual budget increases, the Congress has also been passing new laws which will result in more taxes. The lawmakers have been busy passing laws to increase the government's power, and these laws will result in more taxes being collected.

This situation is causing some concern among the public, who are wondering if their taxes are being put to good use. The public is demanding more accountability from the government, and they want to know how their money is being spent.

Robbins Steals The Show

Cal Poly's College Union has hosted some top western entertainers, including John L. Stirling, who was the featured performer at Cal Poly's homecoming festivities.

The show was a huge success, with the audience cheering and clapping throughout the performance. The audience was especially thrilled by the guest star, who performed a variety of songs and dances.

The show was well-received by the audience, and it was clear that the performers put in a lot of effort to make it a success. The audience was left wanting more, and they were all looking forward to seeing more of the entertainment to come.
