Apple's Wozniak to speak at banquet

Apple Computers' co-founder Steve Wozniak will be the guest speaker for Cal Poly's annual Engineering Banquet, to be held Friday, Feb. 24.

The banquet caps a week of activities organized by engineering students.

A no-host cocktail hour will precede the 7 pm banquet at the Embassy Suites Hotel. Tickets, priced at $8 for students, faculty and staff of the School of Engineering and $16 for others, are available at the Dean’s Office in the Engineering Building.

Tickets can be reserved by calling ext. 2131.

Engineering Week begins on Tuesday, Feb. 21, with a variety of activities. Scheduled events include the annual Popsicle Stick Bridge Building Contest plus a water-balloon launch contest and a demonstration of remote-controlled model helicopters.

Wednesday's events include a balsa-wood airplane fly-off and a talk and exhibit on experiments being prepared for launch aboard a space shuttle.

Engineering Week is sponsored by the university's School of Engineering and the Engineering Student Council. For more information call Roger Lampert at ext. 6201 or the Dean’s Office, at ext. 2131.

Sexual harassment advisors announced

The following advisors have been designated to review informal complaints involving sexual harassment. The role of the advisor is to help complainants evaluate their informal complaints; provide information about campus policies, procedures and resources; attempt informal resolution, if desired; and to be a mediator between parties.

Formal complaints filed by students or applicants for admission are directed to Carl Wallace, associate dean of students. Formal complaints filed by employees or applicants for Cal Poly positions are directed to Jan Pieper, director of Personnel and Employee Relations.

Grant deadline nears

The deadline for the Creative Activity/Research Effort (CARE) grants this year is March 17. The CARE grant provides small sums of money for the research and creative activities of faculty and staff. The university has more than $55,000 available for distribution in this competition.

Typical request categories in­clude faculty summer support for research, assigned time (3-4 WTUs), faculty support for profes­sional development including travel to other research institutions or facilities, travel for presenting invited papers, research equipment — facility development, and funds for student assistants to support faculty research.

CARE grants will be awarded up to $4,000. Projects will typically run one year and may span two academic years. Call ext. 1508 for guidelines.

Construction students win competition

Cal Poly students topped teams from 10 other Western universities to bring home first place in the Building Construction Division of the 1989 Construction Management Competition for students.

The five-member team won
$1,000 and a trophy provided by the Tishman Construction Corp.

The competition was developed by Jim Rodger, head of Construction Management Dept., and Joseph Garron, chief operating officer and executive vice president of Tishman Construction Corp. of California and first vice president of Tishman Realty & Construction
Co. Inc., developers of New York's World Trade Center, Chicago's John Hancock Building, and much of Los Angeles's Century City.
Growth management topic of Feb. 21 talk

A man known in Florida as "Mr. Growth Management" will speak in the Theatre on Tuesday, Feb. 21 at 11:15 am.

Dr. John DeGrove, recognized as a national authority in the field of planning and public administration, will lecture on "State and Regional Initiatives in Growth Management: The 'Quiet Revolution' of the 1980's."

Director of Florida Atlantic and Florida International Universities' Joint Center for Environmental and Urban Problems, DeGrove has been active in growth management, water issues, and land-use policy in fast-growing Florida for 30 years.

He is now a member of Florida Gov. Bob Martinez's Task Force on Urban Growth Patterns.

The lecture is sponsored by the City and Regional Planning Department and School of Architecture and Environmental Design as part of the school's 1988-89 Distinguished Visiting Lecturer Series.

'Morning's at Seven' to open in theatre

"Morning's at Seven," Paul Osborn's wickedly funny story of four elderly sisters and their families, will be presented by the Theatre and Dance Department on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Feb. 23-25, at 8 pm in the Theatre.

Al Schnupp, a new theater faculty member, will direct this keepsake of Americana. "The play's characters are older people with young hearts," Schnupp observed. "Many of their decisions and actions might easily be described as adolescent. Osborn has captured in the dialogue all the nuances and subtleties of a lost era."

With vividly drawn characters and an amusing situation, Osborn has set the stage for one of the most delightful comedies one is ever likely to encounter. The play, which was revived on Broadway in 1980, was so successful it won a Tony award as the season's best revival.

In addition to Schnupp, other production personnel include set designer Russell Whaley, costume designer Sharon Radtke, and technical director and lighting designer Howard Gee.

Tickets for "Morning's at Seven" are $5 with Cal Poly ID and $6 for others. Reservations may be made by calling the Theatre Ticket Office, ext. 1421, between 10 am and 4 pm on weekdays.

Science and religion discussion on Feb. 22

"Reflection of Science in the Quran and the Bible" will be the topic of a dialogue set for 7 pm, Wednesday, Feb. 22, in Chumash Auditorium. Refreshments will be served before the program, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The speakers will be Dr. Ahmed Sakr, founding member of the Muslim Students Association of the U.S. and Canada and of the World Council of Mosques in Mecca, and the Rev. William Mueller, pastor of the First Baptist Church of San Luis Obispo.

The dialogue will be the fourth of six in a series titled "Bridge Building Between Islam and Christianity" sponsored by the student chapter of the Islamic Society of North America.

History professor to give Feb. 23 talk

Dr. Manzar Foroohar, a professor in the History Department, will be the next speaker in the Winter Quarter Arts and Humanities Lecture Series. She will discuss "Religion and Politics in Latin America."

Foroohar will give her presentation on Thursday, Feb. 23, at 11 am in UU 220.

The theme for this year's series is "Latin America: From Magic to Realism, From Art to Politics."

Foroohar is currently researching the role of religion in the formation of social and political institutions in both Nicaragua and Iran.

The next speaker in the series will be Dr. Reginald Gooden of the Political Science Dept. He will speak on "Cholera in a Time of Diplomacy: U.S. Policy Toward the Caribbean" on March 9.

New products will highlight trade show

New products and techniques for landscaping will be in the spotlight of the fifth annual Landscape Architecture Trade Show to held Sunday, Feb. 26, from 10 am to 3:30 pm in Chumash Auditorium.

More than 30 companies will display their products and answer questions on landscaping, horticulture, and construction.

For more information, call the Landscape Architecture Department, ext. 1319.
Galerie to feature works by 3 artists

Eugene Garson, who impressed Cal Poly students with his one-man show in 1987, returns to the UU Galerie with two colleagues in the exhibit, "Troika."

The show opens on Friday, Feb. 24, and will also feature the works of Henry Elinson and Michael Pavlov. The three artists will be at the Galerie reception on opening night (Feb. 24) from 4 to 7 pm. The exhibit will run through March 24.

A native of Siberia, Garson's family fled to Manchuria and later to China where he spent most of his youth. He moved to San Francisco in 1940 and earned a master's degree in fine arts from UC Berkeley.

His 1987 show included about 50 mixed media paintings.

Elinson is also a native of Russia who, during World War II, was evacuated from Leningrad to Siberia.

A graphic artist, Elinson emigrated to the United States in 1973. Elinson has taken part in exhibits all over the world.

Pavlov, a painter, was born in Germany of Russian parents. The artist came to California in 1948.

He earned an undergraduate degree in sociology from UC Santa Barbara and also studied at the San Francisco Art Institute.

The "Troika" exhibit can be seen at the Galerie on Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 10 am to 5 pm; Thursdays from 10 am to 8 pm; Fridays from 10 am to 4 pm; and noon to 4 pm on weekends. The Galerie is closed on Mondays.

Afro-American exhibit on display in library

In conjunction with Multicultural Month, February has been declared Afro-American History Month. The Kennedy Library is exhibiting "It's Our Dream Now" — The African American Struggle: Past, Present, and Future. It is on display on the first floor in the main foyer by the elevators through March 3. The exhibit features a look back at the ancient African origin, culture, and contributions to ancient civilization to today's hope of "It's Our Dream Now."

Who, What, Where, When
