Winter Quarter Registers 5,998
By LYNNE PRUNDE
This one in front, hurry your old-drop card, and here, out this card — "Jan. 3, 5,970 students passed through the registration lines for Winter Quarter. And this time they even had mailboxes there to catch them all. Students walked in, found a registration line inside the gym, recorded the registration form as part of a routine study analysis of the police. Twenty-eight late registrants as of 9 p.m. Tuesday brings the grand total to 5,998.

Registration which began at 8 a.m. in the gymnasium opened Friday, January 3, at noon, with an estimated 300 students per hour. Registra­tion was completed at approximately 5 p.m. when numbers were called and mailed to the students. Although registration for Freshmen ended the first week of classes, the number of graduates registering at each time the office opened Monday morning. Approximately 250 students from Fall Quarter completed the necessary formalities.

A further breakdown of registration shows that students are approximately 3.2 men to every woman with statistics showing 4,541 men and 1,429 women enrollees. A further breakdown of registration shows that students are approximately 3.2 men to Plagiarism is a common occurrence in today's educational institutions, but particularly at Cal Poly. A student who is caught plagiarism will have his or her grades lowered, and may even be expelled from the institution. The university has strict policies in place to prevent plagiarism, and students are encouraged to ask for help if they are unsure about how to properly cite sources.
