Maturity Level Lacking

In maturity of our president, there is a question of character. Our president, Jana Mosgar-Zoulal, is the leader of our school, but we are not sure if she is capable of leading our school.

In our school, we have different cultures, a different way of life and a different attitude toward education which for them is easily available.

They Want Education

More than 200 foreign students are presently attending this college. Most come from halfway around the world, find different cultures, a different way of life and a different education system in the United States.

But all have the same goal: to receive a higher education. As early as 1930, Stanford University was receiving 50 to 100 letters a week from foreign students, often written in their own language. This was the beginning of a study in the United States.

In that year, 2,000 African students applied for 25 four-year scholarships to this country. Last year, in the most recent contact, 2,000 Africans from different countries applied for the same scholarships.

It seems natural that American students' attitudes toward education which for them is easily available.

Matmen Look For Good Year

Having had only one performance from last year’s California College Athletic Association championship squad, the Cal Poly wrestling team entered the 1963-64 season with a strong line-up that could once again challenge for the trophy. The Mustangs have had only threewinning seasons in their four-year history, but they are determined to make the fourth year one of success. The team is very strong in the upper weight classes, and has the potential to finish the season with an unblemished record.

More Over Weekend

The game was fought with great intensity, and both teams played well. The Mustangs had a chance to win at the end of the game, but a missed layup cost them the victory.
