Atitude of Apathy

Editors

Could it be that T.D. fans in the coverage of the football championship game were right after all? I feel that students do not really care about college government. They do not care about being involved in the many organizations on campus. They seem to be apathetic to the things that happen on campus.

I feel that students who are not active in the political and contentious issues which occur on campus are more likely to have an attitude of disinterest in the growth of our country. Therefore, by becoming politically active, and knowledgeable, one can become a more effective member of society. The outcome of a resolution put before SAC brought about a more reasonable code but also the administration's backing for the things for which they are not satisfied. Too seldom do the students find out about the things that are happening on campus.

The outcome of a resolution put before SAC brought about a more reasonable code but also the administration's backing for the things for which they are not satisfied. Too seldom do the students find out about the things that are happening on campus.

There is hardly a better argument for using student government in situations like this. The administration stated that it was the students' responsibility to become involved, and to press the things for which they are not satisfied. Too seldom do the students find out about the things that are happening on campus.

While the faculty is here to help, the students are also responsible for becoming involved in the political and contentious issues which occur on campus. The administration has made it clear that it is the students' responsibility to become involved, and to press the things for which they are not satisfied. Too seldom do the students find out about the things that are happening on campus.

Bagpipers Play Piobaireachd

Who around the bagpipes?

Immediately after the exhibition of the bagpipes, a Piobaireachd was performed and announced. "My countrymen," said the person who introduced it, "cannot play the bagpipes."

The upstroke is the bagpipes as a whole, and the downstroke is the bagpipes as a whole. The upstroke is the bagpipes as a whole, and the downstroke is the bagpipes as a whole. The upstroke is the bagpipes as a whole, and the downstroke is the bagpipes as a whole.

We refer to the bagpipes as a whole.
