SAN LUIS OBISPO, CALIFORNIA
FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1965
VOL. XXVII, No. 81

$7,044 post now official

Avant garde play slated for Saturday presentation

Waiting for Godot, a two-act play by Samuel Beckett, will be presented in the Little Theater at 8:30 on April 12 and 13. The play is sponsored by the U.C. Drama Committee and is directed by Richard Gossling, an English major. Tickets are $1.50 for the general public.

According to the New York Post, Waiting for Godot is the most famous and loudest play of the "Theater of the Absurd." It does not tell a story, and consequently, "Nothing happens, nobody enters nobody goes..." A feeling of uncertainty is produced. This and the sill and loose form of this

CSC summer flight material available to students, faculty

Maj. Charles J. Conover, chairman of the civil-military relations department, was the guest speaker at Bowling's first Service Men's Breakfast. He told his audience about the purpose and importance of the Civil Air Patrol, its local organization and its relationship to the national organization.

The Civil Air Patrol, he said, is an organization of volunteers interested in aviation. It was started as a way for youth to become interested in aviation. It has been in operation since the Second World War. The Civil Air Patrol is an organization of volunteers interested in aviation. It was started in 1946 as a way for youth to become interested in aviation. It has been in operation since the Second World War. The Civil Air Patrol is an organization of volunteers interested in aviation. It was started in 1946 as a way for youth to become interested in aviation. It has been in operation since the Second World War. The Civil Air Patrol is an organization of volunteers interested in aviation. It was started in 1946 as a way for youth to become interested in aviation. It has been in operation since the Second World War. The Civil Air Patrol is an organization of volunteers interested in aviation. It was started in 1946 as a way for youth to become interested in aviation. It has been in operation since the Second World War. The Civil Air Patrol is an organization of volunteers interested in aviation. It was started in 1946 as a way for youth to become interested in aviation. It has been in operation since the Second World War. The Civil Air Patrol is an organization of volunteers interested in aviation. It was started in 1946 as a way for youth to become interested in aviation. It has been in operation since the Second World War. The Civil Air Patrol is an organization of volunteers interested in aviation. It was started in 1946 as a way for youth to become interested in aviation. It has been in operation since the Second World War.

SAC sets election rules

Nestling guidelines for campaigns during the coming election cycle were established by the SAC (Student Activities Council) in a meeting of its members Thursday, April 7.

Bob Matte, chairman of the election committee, suggested that the guidelines be adopted to prevent any possible confusion or unfairness that might arise before campus groups.

Dr. A. Shalom's course in student government at UC Santa Barbara is designed to educate students about the role of student government in a university. The course is offered in the Spring and Fall quarters.

The course is designed to provide students with a basic understanding of the principles of democratic government. It covers topics such as the history of student government, the role of the student government in a university, and the procedures involved in student government activities.

In addition, the course aims to provide students with the opportunity to develop skills in areas such as leadership, public speaking, and decision-making. These skills are essential for effective participation in student government activities.

The course is open to all students, regardless of their major or year of study. It is a valuable resource for students interested in learning more about student government and for those who seek to develop skills relevant to leadership roles in the future.

Kern County offers summer camp jobs

Interested in summer employment opportunities? Kern County is offering a variety of summer camp jobs for young people. These positions offer a great opportunity to gain valuable work experience in a supportive and fun environment. Whether you're interested in teaching, coaching, or Simply assisting with camp activities, there's something for everyone.

The Kern County Department of Parks and Recreation is hosting a variety of summer camp programs. These include day camps, overnight camps, and specialty camps, all designed to provide a fun and enriching experience for participants.

The department is seeking energetic and dedicated individuals to join their team. Responsibilities will vary based on the specific camp, but may include tasks such as planning and implementing activities, providing supervision and guidance to campers, and ensuring the safety and well-being of the participants.

Applicants must be at least 16 years old and have a passion for working with children. A background in education, child development, or related field is preferred. Additionally, candidates should have excellent communication skills and the ability to work well in a team setting.

To apply, please visit the Kern County Department of Parks and Recreation website and complete the application process. You may also contact the department directly for more information.

Busing assistance

Busing assistance is available to help students arrive safely. A transportation service will be available from the dorms to various destinations on campus. This service is provided to ensure that all students have access to safe and reliable transportation. Please check the posted schedule for times and locations.

Note: This information is subject to change, and students are encouraged to verify the schedule and details before relying on it.

Please refer to the posted schedule for specific details and times. Students are encouraged to arrive early to ensure a smooth and safe journey.
Mailbag

Why restrict?

Editor:

"In human societies there is no reason why the special­ list should not retain the capacity to function as a generalized..."

Due to the large number of campus club and organizations, we have been forced to reorganize our system of re­

In a personal vendetta. All letters must be

M. M. at Schubaui

Tricia Mayen

Your own birth date may have already won you a Honda in Parker Pen's Birthday Sweepstakes!

For example, if your birth date is December 1st, 1942, your entry is 12-1-42. Just fill in the coupon below and mail it to your Parker Dealer for his signature—and then send it in. And you...might as well know this: you winners have your choice of Hons... the... \"chivalrous外套.\"

PARKER

Maker of the world's most accurate pen

New Compat!t Jctter. First giant blot pen made for grocery hands. Uses the big 80,000-word Jotter

Credit. Try these Parker Ink Cartridges for your calendar and address books. Standard color—$5.00.

injector" razors have grown morose in recent Blade. Users of injector razors have grown morose in recent

PARKER

Manufacturer of the world's most accurate pen

Continued...
Mental health careers program set for June

A 10-week summer work-study program designed to interest college students in mental health careers will begin in June.

Participating are 18 California state hospitals, University of the Pacific, Stockton, and San Diego State College.

Besides the hospitals and the colleges, the program is sponsored by the Western Mental Health Training and Research Project of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education. April 10 is the deadline for applications, which should be made to either UGF at Stockton or San Diego State College, depending on which a student wants to attend.

Any student with a good school record in a mental health field is eligible. Students must have completed at least their sophomore year by the time the program starts.

The opening and closing weeks will be spent in regular academic summer sessions at the colleges. The eight intervening weeks will be spent on job assignments in hospital wards, occupancy therapy and recreation programs and in social service, psychology and special school programs, and under staff supervision. Academic work will continue with reading assignments, conferences, seminars, and study projects. Efforts will be made to give students varied experiences and insights. College credit will be given.

Students will receive a salary of about $560 for the eight weeks. Costs to them will include tuition, room and board, and transportation.

Some scholarship assistance may be available from Mental Health Associations in the region or from other foundations and agencies.

Information on such aid, and requests for applications, should be made to the sociology department of the college a student wants to attend.

Secret detective ‘gathers’ the facts with the barcрасos

VENTURA—(AP)—A Ventura County deputy sheriff has been masquerading as a farm laborer to see what goes on in the lemon orchards since domestic workers have taken over from the Department of Labor.

After three days of picking lemons and wearing old clothes, Supervisor Robinson says he feels there’s a real farm labor crisis in Ventura County. His comments include this description of conditions:

“There were two drunks on the truck who couldn’t go to work, and you sure took bites into the grove. There was drinking during the night. Some of the men didn’t smell to good.”

As to his over-all reaction to the situation, the County Supervisor said: “The farmer is getting a real kick as far as getting the job done.”

The 60-year-old Robinson is an insurance executive as well as a county supervisor. When he put on old clothes he said he was hired for a farm job on his first visit to the State Employment Office. He gave his right name but not his occupation or address.

After three days in the orchards, he said he had found the food excellent and the barracks conditions not too different from those he had in the service in wartime.

As to the men working in the groves, he said: “You have people who are interested in putting in eight hours rather than working eight hours. They recognize that if they just kind of loaf along they can get a day’s pay, and that’s all they are interested in.”

The eight intervening weeks will be spent on job assignments in hospital wards, occupancy therapy and recreation programs, under staff supervision. Academic work will continue with reading assignments, conferences, seminars, and study projects. Efforts will be made to give students varied experiences and insights. College credit will be given.

Students will receive a salary of about $560 for the eight weeks. Costs to them will include tuition, room and board, and transportation.

Some scholarship assistance may be available from Mental Health Associations in the region or from other foundations and agencies.

Information on such aid, and requests for applications, should be made to the sociology department of the college a student wants to attend.

Grading engineers & scientists: Join IBM's new computer systems science training program

Become a problem-solver and advisor to users of IBM computer systems in areas such as:

• real-time control of industrial processes
• communications-laced information systems
• time-shared computer systems
• graphic data processing
• computer-controlled manufacturing systems
• management operating systems
• engineering design automation

All engineering and scientific disciplines are needed. IBM will give you comprehensive training, both in the classroom and on the job. Openings are available in all principal cities of the U.S.

For more information see your placement director, or call the nearest IBM branch office. If you prefer, write to G. M. Wood, IBM Corporation, 3424 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90005.

Secret detective ‘gathers’ the facts with the barcراسos

VENTURA—(AP)—A Ventura County deputy sheriff has been masquerading as a farm laborer to see what goes on in the lemon orchards since domestic workers have taken over from the Department of Labor.

After three days of picking lemons and wearing old clothes, Supervisor Robinson says he feels there’s a real farm labor crisis in Ventura County. His comments include this description of conditions:

“There were two drunks on the truck who couldn’t go to work, and you sure took bites into the grove. There was drinking during the night. Some of the men didn’t smell to good.”

As to his over-all reaction to the situation, the County Supervisor said: “The farmer is getting a real kick as far as getting the job done.”

The 60-year-old Robinson is an insurance executive as well as a county supervisor. When he put on old clothes he said he was hired for a farm job on his first visit to the State Employment Office. He gave his right name but not his occupation or address.

After three days in the orchards, he said he had found the food excellent and the barracks conditions not too different from those he had in the service in wartime.

As to the men working in the groves, he said: “You have people who are interested in putting in eight hours rather than working eight hours. They recognize that if they just kind of loaf along they can get a day’s pay, and that’s all they are interested in.”

The eight intervening weeks will be spent on job assignments in hospital wards, occupancy therapy and recreation programs, under staff supervision. Academic work will continue with reading assignments, conferences, seminars, and study projects. Efforts will be made to give students varied experiences and insights. College credit will be given.

Students will receive a salary of about $560 for the eight weeks. Costs to them will include tuition, room and board, and transportation.

Some scholarship assistance may be available from Mental Health Associations in the region or from other foundations and agencies.

Information on such aid, and requests for applications, should be made to the sociology department of the college a student wants to attend.

Secret detective ‘gathers’ the facts with the barcراسos

VENTURA—(AP)—A Ventura County deputy sheriff has been masquerading as a farm laborer to see what goes on in the lemon orchards since domestic workers have taken over from the Department of Labor.

After three days of picking lemons and wearing old clothes, Supervisor Robinson says he feels there’s a real farm labor crisis in Ventura County. His comments include this description of conditions:

“There were two drunks on the truck who couldn’t go to work, and you sure took bites into the grove. There was drinking during the night. Some of the men didn’t smell to good.”

As to his over-all reaction to the situation, the County Supervisor said: “The farmer is getting a real kick as far as getting the job done.”

The 60-year-old Robinson is an insurance executive as well as a county supervisor. When he put on old clothes he said he was hired for a farm job on his first visit to the State Employment Office. He gave his right name but not his occupation or address.

After three days in the orchards, he said he had found the food excellent and the barracks conditions not too different from those he had in the service in wartime.

As to the men working in the groves, he said: “You have people who are interested in putting in eight hours rather than working eight hours. They recognize that if they just kind of loaf along they can get a day’s pay, and that’s all they are interested in.”

The eight intervening weeks will be spent on job assignments in hospital wards, occupancy therapy and recreation programs, under staff supervision. Academic work will continue with reading assignments, conferences, seminars, and study projects. Efforts will be made to give students varied experiences and insights. College credit will be given.

Students will receive a salary of about $560 for the eight weeks. Costs to them will include tuition, room and board, and transportation.

Some scholarship assistance may be available from Mental Health Associations in the region or from other foundations and agencies.

Information on such aid, and requests for applications, should be made to the sociology department of the college a student wants to attend.

Secret detective ‘gathers’ the facts with the barcراسos

VENTURA—(AP)—A Ventura County deputy sheriff has been masquerading as a farm laborer to see what goes on in the lemon orchards since domestic workers have taken over from the Department of Labor.

After three days of picking lemons and wearing old clothes, Supervisor Robinson says he feels there’s a real farm labor crisis in Ventura County. His comments include this description of conditions:

“There were two drunks on the truck who couldn’t go to work, and you sure took bites into the grove. There was drinking during the night. Some of the men didn’t smell to good.”

As to his over-all reaction to the situation, the County Supervisor said: “The farmer is getting a real kick as far as getting the job done.”

The 60-year-old Robinson is an insurance executive as well as a county supervisor. When he put on old clothes he said he was hired for a farm job on his first visit to the State Employment Office. He gave his right name but not his occupation or address.

After three days in the orchards, he said he had found the food excellent and the barracks conditions not too different from those he had in the service in wartime.

As to the men working in the groves, he said: “You have people who are interested in putting in eight hours rather than working eight hours. They recognize that if they just kind of loaf along they can get a day’s pay, and that’s all they are interested in.”

The eight intervening weeks will be spent on job assignments in hospital wards, occupancy therapy and recreation programs, under staff supervision. Academic work will continue with reading assignments, conferences, seminars, and study projects. Efforts will be made to give students varied experiences and insights. College credit will be given.

Students will receive a salary of about $560 for the eight weeks. Costs to them will include tuition, room and board, and transportation.

Some scholarship assistance may be available from Mental Health Associations in the region or from other foundations and agencies.

Information on such aid, and requests for applications, should be made to the sociology department of the college a student wants to attend.
Last home track meet tomorrow

Gary Walker, all-around track man for the Mustangs who was injured earlier in the season, is expected to perform at the Mustang home meet tomorrow.

A Limited number of spaces are available

ONE WAY ONLY

CHARTER JET FLIGHTS

FROM EUROPE

San Francisco August 3, 1965

TO EUROPE

San Francisco-Paris Sept. 9, 1965

Per Foulcy, Chief, Students of The California State Colleges

For information, Office of International Programs

California State University

San Francisco, California 94132

Fare: $225 one way

NoDoz™ keeps you mentally alert with the same safe refreshing taste found in coffee. NoDoz is faster, handle, more reliable. Absolutely not habit forming. Next time monotony makes you feel drowsy while studying, working or driving, do as millions do... perk up with safe, effective NoDoz Keep Alert Tablets.

THE SAFE WAY to stay alert without harmful stimulants

A new Army ROTC program starts this coming summer for sophomore men who apply prior to May 1—only 3,000 applicants to be accepted

If you're a sophomore now attending one of the 247 colleges and universities that offer Army Officer training—or you plan to transfer to one of these schools next fall—you may qualify for this new two-year Army ROTC program.

This new program—designed especially for college men who have not taken Army ROTC during their first two years—will commence with six weeks of field training this coming summer, beginning June 14. Then you will have on-campus training during your junior year... six additional weeks at camp during the following summer... and more on-campus training during your senior year. Even flight training is offered at some schools.

ROTC training is really a process of learning to organise and direct others—to be a leader. Consider how important this ability can be to you throughout your life; yet, to acquire it, you will spend relatively little time in the ROTC classroom. You'll obtain valuable junior management experiences... a fuller and richer campus life... extra spending money ($40 per month during your junior and senior school years, and even more during summer training) ... and, when you graduate, an Army Officer’s commission as Second Lieutenant.

You'll normally spend two interesting years on active duty, often abroad with opportunities for travel.

Talk to the Professor of Military Science on your campus about this opportunity. Ask him to describe this new short program in detail. Or send in the coupon below for complete information. There's no obligation involved.

A Limited number of spaces are available.

A message of importance to sophomore men

If you've got what it takes to be an Army Officer, you may qualify for this new on-campus training program

A new Army ROTC program starts this coming summer for sophomore men who apply prior to May 1—only 3,000 applicants to be accepted.

If you're a sophomore now attending one of the 247 colleges and universities that offer Army Officer training—or you plan to transfer to one of these schools next fall—you may qualify for this new two-year Army ROTC program.

This new program—designed especially for college men who have not taken Army ROTC during their first two years—will commence with six weeks of field training this coming summer, beginning June 14. Then you will have on-campus training during your junior year... six additional weeks at camp during the following summer... and more on-campus training during your senior year. Even flight training is offered at some schools.

ROTC training is really a process of learning to organise and direct others—to be a leader. Consider how important this ability can be to you throughout your life; yet, to acquire it, you will spend relatively little time in the ROTC classroom. You'll obtain valuable junior management experiences... a fuller and richer campus life... extra spending money ($40 per month during your junior and senior school years, and even more during summer training) ... and, when you graduate, an Army Officer’s commission as Second Lieutenant.

You'll normally spend two interesting years on active duty, often abroad with opportunities for travel.

Talk to the Professor of Military Science on your campus about this opportunity. Ask him to describe this new short program in detail. Or send in the coupon below for complete information. There's no obligation involved.

A Limited number of spaces are available.

A message of importance to sophomore men

If you've got what it takes to be an Army Officer, you may qualify for this new on-campus training program.

A new Army ROTC program starts this coming summer for sophomore men who apply prior to May 1—only 3,000 applicants to be accepted.

If you're a sophomore now attending one of the 247 colleges and universities that offer Army Officer training—or you plan to transfer to one of these schools next fall—you may qualify for this new two-year Army ROTC program.

This new program—designed especially for college men who have not taken Army ROTC during their first two years—will commence with six weeks of field training this coming summer, beginning June 14. Then you will have on-campus training during your junior year... six additional weeks at camp during the following summer... and more on-campus training during your senior year. Even flight training is offered at some schools.

ROTC training is really a process of learning to organise and direct others—to be a leader. Consider how important this ability can be to you throughout your life; yet, to acquire it, you will spend relatively little time in the ROTC classroom. You'll obtain valuable junior management experiences... a fuller and richer campus life... extra spending money ($40 per month during your junior and senior school years, and even more during summer training) ... and, when you graduate, an Army Officer’s commission as Second Lieutenant.

You'll normally spend two interesting years on active duty, often abroad with opportunities for travel.

Talk to the Professor of Military Science on your campus about this opportunity. Ask him to describe this new short program in detail. Or send in the coupon below for complete information. There's no obligation involved.

A Limited number of spaces are available.

A message of importance to sophomore men

If you've got what it takes to be an Army Officer, you may qualify for this new on-campus training program.

A new Army ROTC program starts this coming summer for sophomore men who apply prior to May 1—only 3,000 applicants to be accepted.

If you're a sophomore now attending one of the 247 colleges and universities that offer Army Officer training—or you plan to transfer to one of these schools next fall—you may qualify for this new two-year Army ROTC program.

This new program—designed especially for college men who have not taken Army ROTC during their first two years—will commence with six weeks of field training this coming summer, beginning June 14. Then you will have on-campus training during your junior year... six additional weeks at camp during the following summer... and more on-campus training during your senior year. Even flight training is offered at some schools.

ROTC training is really a process of learning to organise and direct others—to be a leader. Consider how important this ability can be to you throughout your life; yet, to acquire it, you will spend relatively little time in the ROTC classroom. You'll obtain valuable junior management experiences... a fuller and richer campus life... extra spending money ($40 per month during your junior and senior school years, and even more during summer training) ... and, when you graduate, an Army Officer’s commission as Second Lieutenant.

You'll normally spend two interesting years on active duty, often abroad with opportunities for travel.

Talk to the Professor of Military Science on your campus about this opportunity. Ask him to describe this new short program in detail. Or send in the coupon below for complete information. There's no obligation involved.

A Limited number of spaces are available.

A message of importance to sophomore men

If you've got what it takes to be an Army Officer, you may qualify for this new on-campus training program.

A new Army ROTC program starts this coming summer for sophomore men who apply prior to May 1—only 3,000 applicants to be accepted.

If you're a sophomore now attending one of the 247 colleges and universities that offer Army Officer training—or you plan to transfer to one of these schools next fall—you may qualify for this new two-year Army ROTC program.

This new program—designed especially for college men who have not taken Army ROTC during their first two years—will commence with six weeks of field training this coming summer, beginning June 14. Then you will have on-campus training during your junior year... six additional weeks at camp during the following summer... and more on-campus training during your senior year. Even flight training is offered at some schools.

ROTC training is really a process of learning to organise and direct others—to be a leader. Consider how important this ability can be to you throughout your life; yet, to acquire it, you will spend relatively little time in the ROTC classroom. You'll obtain valuable junior management experiences... a fuller and richer campus life... extra spending money ($40 per month during your junior and senior school years, and even more during summer training) ... and, when you graduate, an Army Officer’s commission as Second Lieutenant.

You'll normally spend two interesting years on active duty, often abroad with opportunities for travel.

Talk to the Professor of Military Science on your campus about this opportunity. Ask him to describe this new short program in detail. Or send in the coupon below for complete information. There's no obligation involved.

A Limited number of spaces are available.