Home concert offers variety

The 24th Home Concert will be presented in the Men’s Gym starting at 8 o'clock tonight. The 160 voices, representing the 600-student Cal Poly community, will offer 20 songs listing the program for the Men’s Male Glee Club, 15-member Women’s Glee Club, the combined glee clubs and other specialty groups.

Irish, German, Latin, Czech, and Cornish vocal selections are in the musical "bag of tricks" held by the organizer, leader, and director of music groups at Cal Poly for 24 years, Harold P. Davidson, chairman of the College’s Music Department.

Davidson thinks of the Home Concert as more of a variety show. "It is really a handout for us when people think all we play is 'ring bell' stuff. It is not true," he said. "Our Home Concert depends on variety for success."

"We like to please everyone," Davidson, folk singer and glee conductor, said to have kept the Men’s and Women’s Glee and the Collegians.

"If a person wants to sing, he will find his niche. Everyone is heard when the program is presented."

According to Davidson, the program will perform a little song "Chew- Mate Callum" with the alumni, playing the rhythm instruments and singing the verses.

The following are on the ticket:

- Student body offices and at Brown’s Music Hall in downtown San Luis Obispo.

- The concert costs 85 cents for adults, 75 cents for students.

Candidates vie for student vote

Seven offices and at least one "unofficial" candidate are running for the offices of Associated Student President, vice-president, and secretary.

George Brown, Poly Royal Board chairman, and Mike Lennie, Engineering Council representative, are listed candidates for the office of president. Robert Matthes, present vice-president of ASI, has declared himself a write-in candidate for the presidential office. Candidates for the vice-presidential offer are George Crooms, John Mitchell, and Alan Dominguez. Secretary hopefuls are Karon Wood and Zeno Price.

Voting will take place on April 2 from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on April 3 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 1.

ASI candidates give campaign platforms

Malcolm Kern, ASI president, invited all candidates for ASI office to speak at last Tuesday’s Council meeting. The following are summaries from their statements and advice to questions put to them by Council members.

MIKE Lennie, presidential candidate: “The athletic program is not as big a drawing card as it can be.” He backs Board of Athletic Control in reinstating grants-in-aid to athletes rather than scholarships. He charges that Cal Poly “has nothing to offer athletes.”

On the subject of controversial speakers on campus, Lennie feels that the opportunity for a student to hear such a speaker would be a great chance for education. “We should be mature enough now to listen to all sides,” he said. Promotion of controversial speakers could come from ASI or anything around.

In Lennie’s opinion, the ASI president should be a student leader and not a “paper-signer.” He claims that there has been a lack of contact between SAC and the student body and that the president’s duty is to correct this weakness.

GEORGE SHARES, presidential candidate: The central issue is financing. It takes the greatest amount of SAC’s time and is the most important issue. He advocated more coordination with Finance Committee and communication with campus clubs and organizations. Shares says that SAC should “be a bridge between the people and the student body.”

Putting the money where it does the most good and represents the most people will enable the budget to be balanced, according to Shares. “I would like to carry the greatest number of activities as possible, but I sometimes wonder the merits of cutting groups to allow other groups.”

ROBERT MATTEI, presidential candidate: Just recently Mattei was asked by a number of students to run for president because they “were not completely satisfied with the quality of candidates for ASI president.” A statement to this effect was made by Jack Montgomerie, CU Board chairman, when he requested the Council to allow分享 equal opportunity as he has publicly announced his candidacy for office as a write-in candidate.

The major issue supported by Mattei is reorganization of student government and representation, and he said “satisfied that it was not touched on by the other candidates.” He proposes the creation of a legislative, executive council, and a judicial system in order to give students “enough power and balance.” The legislative body, SAC, would be “representative of ethnic groups, diversity of people’s background, the four divisions of the college.” The judicial system would be an appealing body with veto power over SAC actions.

ALLAN DOUGLAS, vice presidential candidate: This office is important and I would advocate better relations between foreign and American students and proposed a revitalized All Poly Weekend. “Poly students are irritating themselves by not participating of the opportunities to know foreign students.” They are missing a great opportunity, he said. “To bring the situation out into the open, he advocates that a seat in SAC be given to representatives of foreign students in the student body.

Continuing with the third and fourth planks of the slate’s platform, he advocates better relations between foreign and American students and proposed a revitalized All Poly Weekend. “Poly students are irritating themselves by not participating of the opportunities to know foreign students.” They are missing a great opportunity, he said. “To bring the situation out into the open, he advocates that a seat in SAC be given to representatives of foreign students in the student body.

Three departments represented by editors

The editorial staff of El Mustang this quarter consists of four journalism majors, a Social Science major, and an electrical engineering major.

Miss St. Onge, a 20-year-old coed from Gardena, has been a reporter and managing editor on El Mustang. Asked about her new position she says, "It's a lot of hard work and takes a lot of time, but it's worth it. The gratification of looking at the paper once it's done is enough. I hope to make the paper a reflection of the student body.

The Social Science major on the staff is third year student Robert Boyd. Speaking of his position as managing editor, he said, "This quarter will be a challenging one. Considering the quality of the staff, I expect we will meet the challenge. We intend to make the El Mustang a college newspaper, not just an activities bulletin as typifies high school publications."

The fourth-year stuff member is Gary Real. As Tuesday day editor he is responsible for the makeup of the paper, reading copy, and working on the "stone." Duve Rosenberg is the Friday day editor. His duties are the same as Real's. He has had experience on high school newspapers.

Sports editor John Davies, is from Arcadia, where he served in a similar capacity on his high school newspaper. "I think El Mustang should have more pictures," said photo editor Dennis Friend. A marine engineering transfer from Fresno City College, he has been interested in photography for about three years.

Since the start of the student body election campaign, we have called for the election of officers who will be student leaders in the true sense of the word, who have knowledge of the issues confronting the student body, and who have had direct experience in student government.

In the interest of effective student government we recommend the following students to office:

Robert Mattes for ASI President
Allan Douglas for ASI Vice President
Alice Price for ASI Treasurer

Robert Mattes clearly is the most qualified candidate for ASI President. His experience, program, and academic record indicate that he is well as an innovator.

Serving as ASI vice president this past year, he has been ardent in his representation of students. He is intimately acquainted with the operations of the Student Affairs Council and has worked effectively on that body.

Mattes' proposals for reorganizing student government are fine ones and deserve the support of the student body. Removing the "executive cabinet," placing representatives from the ethnic organizations and residence halls on SAC, and the reorganizing class representation are proposals which indicate Mattes has been considering how to give student government a more effective role in the life of this campus community.

The impressive qualifications and ability of Mattes, however, will call for a special effort on the part of the electorate. Mattes did not seriously consider running for the office until at the last minute when he was approached by a group of students. These students were concerned over the selection that had taken place. Mattes did not seriously consider running for the office, though as a write-in candidate since the deadline for filing was past.

We believe it is imperative that the name of Robert Mattes be written in on the ballot. To comply with election rules, write votes may not be in the name of the candidate and conspicuously fill in the selection box. The name Mattes is written in the ballot box because he has the practical experience and knowledge which the position requires.

The office of vice president is primarily one of an administrative nature. It is therefore necessary that the student be elected to fill that position who is one who is an administrator first, an innovator second. Since the vice president is chairman of the important Constitution and Codes committee, it is essential that the man elected know parliamentary procedure, and be able to maintain his composure under fire questioning. It is necessary that the man be both experienced in the administration of student affairs and be capable of staff appointees.

Knowledge of the issues, and workings of SAC are the prime requirements for supporting James Pricco for ASI vice president. It is necessary that the student be elected to fill that position who is one who is an administrator first, an innovator second. Since the vice president is chairman of the important Constitution and Codes committee, it is essential that the man elected know parliamentary procedure, and be able to maintain his composure under fire questioning. It is necessary that the man be both experienced in the administration of student affairs and be capable of staff appointees.

The election of Douglas, Price, and Pricco will guarantee the kind of strong, knowledgeable leadership which is vital for the future of an expanding Cal Poly.

EL MUSTANG
Kennedy expresses views on quota

President Kennedy has not discussed the matter of state college enrollment figures with the legislative leaders of the state. And he will not, because this is a matter of state policy and it is the responsibility of the state education department to make decisions about it.

The state education department has the authority to set enrollment limits for state colleges and universities. The department will make a decision on the issue of state college enrollment based on its own analysis of the situation and the needs of the state's students.

On the question of state college enrollment, Kennedy has expressed his views in the past. He has stated that the state education department should have the primary responsibility for setting enrollment limits and making decisions about enrollment figures.

Kennedy has also stressed the importance of ensuring that all students have access to higher education. He has said that the state education department should be guided by the principles of education and the needs of the students when making decisions about enrollment figures.

In conclusion, Kennedy has expressed his views on the matter of state college enrollment figures, and he will not discuss this matter with the legislative leaders of the state. The state education department will make the decision on the issue based on its own analysis and the needs of the state's students.
Spikers romp past
Matadors, 93-48

Last by Roland Lin's double victory in the mile and 2-mile, Coach West's spikers defeated San Fernando Valley State 93-48.

In the meet held on the Matador field last Wednesday, Gary Curtis, halfback—Mustangs, scored the game's first point by taking first in the quarter mile. He has been out most of the season with a leg injury.

According to West, "It was not a fast time, but Curtis should be running much better next week."

Cal Poly's top high hurdler, Gary Walker, met and defeated his toughest competition in the league. Valley State's John Chalder, in the 120 yard high hurdles.

Montana Ben Lavillie tossed the javelin 217-14, for a first in that event. He was almost 30 feet ahead of the second place man.

Lavillie also took a third in the discus.

Bobby Miller, Cal Poly's long jumper took a second in the broad jump, and the triple jump.

Byrter Jim Tracy placed first in the 200 yard dash to set the 220 yard dashes. In those same events, Bob Miller finished second.

Sprinters run at Laguna Seca

Those campus enthusiasts who know for the white of a sports car running the gears at maximum rpm will be happy to learn that the U. S. Road Racing championships will be staged May 7-9 at Laguna Seca, Monterey.

Under the sponsorship of the Sports Car Racing Association of Monterey Peninsula (BRM-AMP), the race will feature the "four on the floor boys" and Jim Hall's "gimpy box."

Hall, recent overall winner at the Reeling International, will be on board with his Chevy-powered Chaparral, equipped with an unconventional automatic transmission.

Soph Garrard joins Mustangs on eve of Arizona State Rodeo

Roy Garrard, a 20-year-old sophomore from Kaycee, Wyo., was added to the roster last week of Cal Poly's rodeo team as it began final preparation for competition in the Arizona State College Rodeo, in Flagstaff, this weekend.

The move became necessary when Ron Waldthausen of Las Vegas, Nev., a regular on the team, received a broken rib when he was kicked by a bull during a recent practice session.

Even before that, however, team coach Bill Gilford and members of the team had been concerned, finding a spot on the roster for Garrard. The "Kid from Kaycee," an Animal Husbandry major, had been outstanding in recent rodeo in which he competed as a non-team entry.

His efforts in recent weeks have included a third place in all-around cowboy standings in the rodeo at Tucson two weekends ago, a fourth in bull riding, and third in bareback riding.

Cal Poly had fallen from 10th in National Intercollegiate Rodeo standings last spring to 14th in the short time by which time on campus here has made a rich for him here.

Waldthausen, a mainstay on the Mustangs this year, has been performing steadily and is expected to be paired a second in bulldogging and a third in saddle bronc riding in Tucson to finish fourth in all-around standings for that year. He is not expected to see action again for about six weeks.

Still second and expected strong efforts for Cal Poly at Flagstaff are C. W. Adams of Mountain Center, Bob Shaw of Cottonwood, Tom Johnson of Sugar City, Idaho, George Peirce of Salinas, and Eddie Meeton of John Day, Ore.

Cal Poly, new well set in is in unofficial regional NIRA standings, has a record of one first and a second in the last six games of this year. Its closest rival, University of Arizona's Wildcat, were second on a 437-366 margin in unofficial regional NIRA standings, has a record of two firsts and a second in the last six games of this year. Here's what the new 2-year Army ROTC program means to you

A new Reserve Officer Training Corps program permits you selected college sophomores to be commissioned as Army Second Lieutenants in two years. You can do this by:
1. Completing a special 6-week summer camp between your sophomore and junior years.
2. Completing the 2-Year Advanced Course at any school offering the ROTC program.

What are the benefits of Army ROTC training?
- Management training for success in civilian or military life.
- $40 per month pay while attending the Advanced Course, plus uniforms; pay and paid travel for summer camps.
- Eligibility for free flight instruction at selected schools leading to a private pilot's license.
- A commission as an Army officer, with all of its accompanying benefits, including higher income, greater opportunity for advancement and officer status.
- The personal satisfaction that comes from knowing you've trained to assume leadership responsibilities.

These benefits will put you a step ahead of other college graduates and will pay off for the rest of your life. You owe it to yourself to investigate these new opportunities.

Kennedy reviews opinions on quota

Kl Mustang: The college was agriculture oriented before World War II; during the late 40's and early 50's, it met the need for engineers; during the early 60's, the need is changing to general science people for industry, and humanities people for teachers. Will the college meet these new needs? Kennedy: I'm not convinced that you have correctly identified society's needs in the early 60's. When you have him on the basic curricular problem of contemporary American college education, the dilemma facing all institutions of higher education is how best we can meet the needs of both the individual and society. The history of higher education in America suggests that colleges and universities, both public and private, which are operating within the framework of a political democracy, must accommodate to society. The technological economy of the 60's will place a high premium on specialized education. Are you sure you want to end Jacques Barzun from the library? I think other institutions of higher education can meet society's needs, and that you have correctly identified some of the misconceptions they might have had about the subject.

The final decision was, as I said earlier, based upon a synthesis of the many key recommendations submitted to the president on or before April 1 by the groups to whom the issue was referred. The Student Affairs Council at this campus submitted recommendations based upon the opinions of elected representatives of the student body. I do not believe that the final review of enrollment quotas for all departments--understands--the major recommendations of SAC. A student representative to be named by the President of the Student Body to serve on the Committee for Planned Enrollment Growth which will annually review the departmental enrollment projections used for budget development.
