Aptheker keynote luncheon speaker

Dr. Bettina Aptheker will be the keynote speaker at the closing luncheon of Women's Week on Friday, April 26.

Sponsored by The Center for Women and Ethnic Issues, this year's theme is “Women's Health and Wholeness: Whose Prescription?”

Aptheker has taught and coordinated women's studies programs at San Jose State and UC Santa Cruz.

She is the author of such books as The Morning Breaks: The Trial of Angela Davis; Women's Legacy: Essays on Race, Sex & Class in American History; If They Come in the Morning: Voices of Resistance (with Angela Davis); Of Black and White Womanhood: The Dialectics of Oppression and Liberation; and Placing Women at the Center of Thinking.

Her latest book, Tapestries of Life: Women’s Consciousness and the Meaning of Daily Experience, focuses on the idea that women have a different way of experiencing and interpreting that is distinct from that of men. It is a book about healing and balance, connections and patterns.

The Women's Week luncheon will be from 11:30 am to 1 pm in Chumash Auditorium. The cost is $9. You may register by contacting Deb Foster at ext. 5671 or contact The Center for Women and Ethnic Issues at ext. 2600.

CSU, faculty union in contract accord

The California State University and its faculty union, the California Faculty Association, have reached tentative agreement on a new two-year contract.

The pact, which still must be ratified by the CSU board of trustees, has been ratified by the CFA.

The new accord, which runs from July 1, 1991, to June 30, 1993, reflects the budget squeeze facing the CSU. No salary increases will be given unless funds are appropriated by the Legislature. Some of the contract terms are:

* Two-year appointments for most temporary faculty who have served in temporary assignments for six years dating to 1983.
* To recruit and retain underrepresented faculty, a program will be developed to provide $2 million yearly in supplemental pay for such faculty members for a maximum six-year period.
* Two new free insurance benefits will be provided.
* A non-discrimination clause that is subject to the grievance procedure.
* An agreement to negotiate $5 million in reductions in compensation obligations in 1991/92 to help meet the CSU's budget reduction needs.

Volunteers sought for mentor program

The Affirmative Action Committee of the University Center for Teacher Education and the Teacher Diversity Project are seeking mentors for new students from underrepresented groups.

The mentor program is voluntary and is made up of individuals who want to provide assistance, guidance and support for young women and men as they adjust to life at Cal Poly.

The committee is interested in recruiting mentors who have a sincere desire to help and who are willing to make a commitment to this program. The initial meeting/training session will be held on Friday, May 3, in BA&E 213 from 2 to 3 pm. Further details about the mentor program will be presented. A "get acquainted social" with the students will be held at the conclusion of the meeting.

To be considered for the mentor program, call either MaryLud Baldwin (ext. 1251), Phil Fetzer (ext. 6147), or the Teacher Diversity Program Office (ext. 1567).

Heron open house planned for May 3

An open house in the refurbished home of the University Relations and Development Division (Heron Hall) has been set for Friday, May 3, from 9 to 11 am.

Division executive Chuck Allen and the department managers will be on hand to welcome guests. The building houses Endowment Development, Athletic Development, University Development Services, Annual Giving, Gift Planning, Publications, and Public Affairs.

The University Relations and Development Division invites all faculty and staff to the festivities. Refreshments will be served, and a Mustang watch, donated by Alumni Relations, will be awarded to a lucky visitor.

Children's Center summer programs

Cal Poly Children's Center will again sponsor Poly Trekkers, a summer program for children just out of first, second and third grades. The program will begin June 24 and continue through Aug. 16.

Weekly themes will center around art, history, transportation, food, music, nature, animals and fitness. Children may be enrolled for selected weeks or all eight. The program runs from 9 am until 4 pm Monday through Friday and costs $80 per week. Extended care is available from 7:30 am to 5:15 pm daily for an additional fee. To receive a flier and registration form, call the Children's Center, ext. 1267.

The center will also operate an off-campus site at Pacheco School during the summer. Full day-care and weekly care will be available on a limited basis during Summer Quarter for children entering kindergarten or just having completed kindergarten. This site, geared to a younger child, will offer many of the features of Poly Trekkers. Call the center for more information.

Spring ethnic studies seminars planned

As part of Cal Poly's efforts to progress toward greater educational equity in student enrollment, staffing, and curriculum, the School of Liberal Arts will sponsor Spring Seminars in Ethnic Studies.

Students, staff, faculty, and members of the community will be able to talk to national authorities concerning issues of multiculturalism, cultural pluralism, and diversity.

Speakers scheduled to talk include Dr. Evelyn Hu-DeHart, director of the Center for Studies of Ethnicity and Race in America at the University of Colorado, on May 20; Dr. Lamont Yeakey, professor of history and African American studies at the University of Wisconsin, on May 23; and Dr. Cecilia Preclado Burciaga, associate dean, Office of the Vice President for Student Resources at Stanford University, on May 28.

Cal Poly department will host meeting

The Food Science and Nutrition Department will host the California League of Food Processors and National Food Processors Association Technical Advisory Committee meeting for the state's food processing industry on April 26.

Membership of this statewide committee includes elected senior vice presidents, principal scientists, and managers of both research and marketing divisions of the national food processing companies that have satellite manufacturing operations in California.

The group will meet at Cal Poly at the invitation of Dr. Joseph Montecalvo, head of the Food Science and Nutrition Department. It will be the first time the technical advisory group has held its annual meeting at Cal Poly. One of the functions of the special advisory committee is to assess the capabilities in terms of facilities and dedicated resources, with the ultimate goal of establishing a Center for Applied Food and Nutrition Research. The proposed multidisciplinary center will be part of the Food Science and Nutrition Department within the Cal Poly School of Agriculture.

Two students win service awards

Two students and a university residence hall have received the Cal Poly President's Award for Community Service and the General Motors Spirit Award for Outstanding Community Service.

Mary Lytle, a senior business administration major, and Christina Tupper, a senior political science major, received the individual awards.

The Sierra Madre Hall was selected to receive the award for group service to the community.

The awards were presented at a recent reception where friends and family of the winners, representatives from GM, and President Baker were in attendance.

Each of the winners received a plaque from Dr. Baker and a plaque and three shares of stock from GM.

The President's/GM Spirit Awards for Community Service were established in 1986 in order to encourage student volunteerism.

GM acknowledges three Spirit Award winners at Cal Poly during each year as part of a nationwide program that recognizes students for their volunteer service.
Library associates plan April 27 tour

A bus tour of historic locations in northern Santa Barbara County has been scheduled for Saturday, April 27.

The program, sponsored by The Library Associates, will start from the university campus at 8 am and return about 5 pm.

People interested in taking the tour can make reservations by calling the Special Collections Department of the Kennedy Library, ext. 2305. The cost for the tour is $20 and includes lunch.

Architect Fay Jones will speak on May 2

E. Fay Jones, one of America’s most distinguished contemporary architects, will speak on Thursday, May 2, to kick off the 1991 Design Village Conference and School of Architecture and Environmental Design Open House.

Jones will speak on “Organic Architecture and the Role of Historical Models” at 5:15 pm in the Theatre.

Frank Lloyd Wright, with whom Jones served as apprentice, was recognized as the world’s leading proponent of “organic” architecture — architecture that is in harmony with its site and surrounding landscape in design and materials.

Jones’s own creative work, generally residences and other smaller-scale projects, is very much in the Wright tradition.

Design Village itself will continue Friday and Saturday in Poly Canyon, where student teams from several colleges and universities will put up structures designed to suit the conference theme of “Metamorphosis.”

The 1 1/4-mile trek up the canyon begins at the north end of the residence halls. For visitors wanting to ride, a shuttle van will leave the Poly Canyon Road gate every 30 minutes from 8 am to dusk, Thursday through Saturday.

The School of Architecture and Environmental Design Open House will also continue into the weekend with seminars and other events designed primarily for alumni as well as new and current students and their parents.

The school’s departments will have student work on public display in the Architecture and Environmental Design, Dexter, and Engineering West buildings.

Filipino students to present banquet

The Cal Poly Pilipino Cultural Exchange will present Panahon Na 1991, its annual banquet and show, on Saturday, May 11, at 6 pm in Chumash Auditorium.

The theme for the evening will be “Huwag Nating Kalimutan” (Let’s Not Forget).

The cultural festivities will feature dinner with a variety of Filipino dishes, an elaborate stage show and play, and a dance.

On the dinner menu will be pancit (noodles with meat and vegetables), adobo chicken, steamed white rice, mixed vegetables, fried lumpia (wrapped chicken and vegetables), and leche flan (custard).

The show, which will follow dinner, includes traditional Filipino dances performed by the Kasayahan dance troupe and an original play dramatizing Filipino history.

Tickets are being sold at the UU Ticket Office. They can also be obtained by telephoning Jeannie Kwack, 545-8168.

Advance-sale tickets are $15 for adults and $18 for senior citizens and children under 12 years of age. All tickets will cost $16 at the door.

Facility/Staff Payday is April 30

Bob Hope scheduled to appear at Cal Poly

Comedian Bob Hope, the legendary entertainer and showman, will appear in a Mother’s Day show in Mustang Stadium at 2 pm on Sunday, May 12.

Hailed as the “King of Comedy” and “Mr. Entertainment,” Hope will present an afternoon of humor and music. The opening act for the show will be female vocalist Patrician Price.

Musical accompaniment will be provided by a 25-piece orchestra consisting of members of the Cal Poly Symphonic Band and the University Jazz Band.

Hope’s fame is legend with nearly 60 motion pictures and success on radio and the Broadway stage. His overseas tours to entertain servicemen make up an odyssey that began in 1941 and continues to this day.

Tickets for the show are on sale at the UU Ticket Office on campus; at all Riley’s Department Stores and Ticketmaster outlets; at the Boo Boo Records stores in San Luis Obispo and Grover City, and at the Big Music store in San Luis Obispo.

General admission bleacher seats are $20 for adults and $18 for students, senior citizens, and everyone under 18 years of age.

Reserved field level seats are $25 for adults and $23 for students, senior citizens, and everyone under 18 years of age.

Wheelchair location tickets are priced at $18 and are available for advance purchase only.

The general admission prices will be $2 more at Mustang Stadium ticket windows on the day of the show.

Video cameras and alcoholic beverages will not be allowed in the stadium. Food and beverages will be available for purchase at stadium concession stands.
Employees receive awards for service

Employees with a total of over 3,300 years of service to Cal Poly were recognized during the recent annual Service Awards Luncheon.

The top award went to Grace Arvidson, an administrative assistant in the office of President Baker. Arvidson was honored for having completed 40 years as a university employee.

Students place 5th

A senior Cal Poly ornamental horticulture student placed fifth in the individual scoring to lead her team to a fifth-place finish in the 50th National Intercollegiate Flower Judging Contest held recently at the university.

Melanie A. Stokes scored a total of 1,345 points in the potted plants class and 1,381 in cut flowers to finish with 2,726 points in the field of 51 individual contestants from 17 colleges and universities.

Flanigan reappointed

Terrance W. Flanigan has been reappointed to the CSU board of trustees for an eight-year term by Gov. Pete Wilson. He will serve until March 1999.

Flanigan, who first joined the board in 1990, is appointments secretary to Gov. Wilson, and previously served Gov. Deukmejian in the same capacity. A member of the State Bar, he served for five years as its legislative advocate and for three years as director of its legislative affairs office. The position requires Senate confirmation.

On-campus housing '91-'92 academic year

The Housing Department is projecting that fewer students will be seeking on-campus housing for the 1991-92 academic year. Returning students currently make up less than 10 percent of the on-campus population. Next year up to 25 percent of the residents will be returning Cal Poly students.

Returning students are encouraged to apply for on-campus housing by completing an application form available at the Housing Department, Hillcrest Cottage, ext. 1225.

New students to Cal Poly will continue to have first priority for on-campus housing and will be assigned a space if all procedures and payments are completed on time. The housing application is in each Notice of Admission booklet. Prospective students should be encouraged to forward their application and make the first payment by June 14. With a timely response, new students will receive housing.

For additional information, contact Tom Jackson Jr., academic development specialist in the Resident Student Development Office, ext. 5600.
