Patty Hove 1966 ROTC Queen

Patty Hove was crowned Military Queen at the ROTC Military Ball, sponsored by Scabbard and Blade. The Military Ball was held Saturday night in the Men's Gym at Cal Poly, where she danced with her partner, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Hove of 1426 Avenue O.

Patty was selected Jan. 30 along with five other candidates to run for Military Queen. The election was held Feb. 1, but in keeping with tradition, the name of the queen was announced in a formal announcement when the candidates were escorted to the throne.

The five princesses named were Patty Hove, 19-year-old sophomore majoring in Social Science, Miss Hove has built her reputation on hard work and dedication, holding down a job in the university print shop. Hove is a bit taller than the other candidates.

The Women's Music Club will present the program of songs, dances, and instrumental music to be followed by a banquet and dance. The Women's Music Club has made a big impact on the university, and its members are expected to bring a lot of excitement to the Military Ball.

The decorations consisted of a suspended parachute with streamers in a cloud effect. A tattered pool with cascading water was placed in the lobby to add a classic atmosphere.

Among the dignitaries present were Julian A. McGuire, president of Cal Poly, and the ROTC department director, Colonel Robert M. Johnson.

Sponsoring organization for the Military Ball was the Long Beach and Blind, an honorary national fraternity of ROTC corps.

No support: Williamson

Head track coach and assistant football coach, Bill Williamson, has submitted his resignation effective at the close of the 1966-67 school year.

In his seven-year tenure as head track coach, he has set a precedent for numerous outstanding track and field athletes.

"I have enjoyed working with students at Cal Poly," Williamson said in his announcement of resignation. "It will be difficult to leave the many friends I have made here during the past six years. However, I am leaving due to a general lack of support for track and field and the whole intercollegiate athletic program at Cal Poly.

Williamson added in a quiet voice that he hoped "the future will bring continued growth to the college." William R. Hughes, an alumnus of the University of Oregon, has been selected as the new head track coach of Cal Poly.

As assistant football coach under LeRoy R. Hughes, Williamson was with the Mustang football team when their plane crashed in TikTok, Ohio, in 1960. He continued as assistant coach, handling the defensive backfield, when Richard Marlin succeeded Hughes.

In his six years as head track coach, Williamson has trained three University Division All-Americans and eight College All-Americans. The three University Division All-Americans were Vic Hall, a 400-meter silver medalist at the 1965-66 Olympic Games, and field athletes.

128 ANGELUS (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel criticized exterritorialism in the Vietnam war and said he'd rather be neither a hawk nor a dove.

Now isn't that nice and modern — to want to avoid being labelled a warm­ ner, a political nutter, or a pacifist. And to think that's what he wants! To avoid being labeled as a warm­ ner or a pacifist. And to think he's not up for re-election until '69! • • •

Rulifottrtn ? W.lth what titit he isn't a hawk nor a dove."

Maid the answer "is to be niether a hawk nor a dove." What he wants all American troops to withdraw immediately from the Asian turf. He wants peace at any price. Most, however, would rather he red than dead. They're called "hawks," among other things.

Maid his moderation kick, Kuchel is niether a hawk nor a dove. If the senator was a private in a Vietnamese footnote, he'd be a dark, a sitting duck —

A dead duck not long afterwards.

According to private Kuchel's tactics, he would refuse to abandon the South Vietnamese to the hounds of Hanoi. He'd stay in South Vietnam and repel the attacks of guerrilla-silted or division­ dimensioned Vietnamese. At the same time, Private Kuchel wouldn't move a finger to sit at the source of the trouble.

He wouldn't give a damn about where the supplies originated.

He'd be content just sitting on the fence, twiddling his thumbs, and watching his Hie Chi Mien to die. Private Kuchel's strategy parallels this kind of strategic tool in a game of croquet.

Tactics like this best describes a good strategist or "All is fair in love and war" are beyond the comprehension of those who play such games of make-believe.

The Maxwell...In an attempt to establish a workable procedure it is not uncommon for a group to try to select an advisory person with whom it is to work as time. This understandable practice is being followed by the campus student body president, with one catch. Several of his "advisors" are at the same time voting members of the Student Affairs Council. Last year some student "leaders" friends of the current administration, were inspired by a war movie to form an informal group known as the "Maxwells." Since then this group has developed into more than just a friendship society. It is now a political force. The SAC members include: two of the three elected student body officers, the Chairman of two of the five budgeted boards and representatives from at least two of the four divisional councils. We can not prove whether it is true, on one knowledgeable SAC member has said, that the Maxwell last Spring deliberately set out to get (or keep) as many of their members as possible on SAC. But their known membership is most impressive and tends to lend some support to the above opinion.

The student body president must be allowed the right to freely select whom he wishes to be his advisors. We wonder, however, how much student body business is conducted the get-togethers of the Maxwell? If the student body is to be truly represented, the Student Affairs Council is no place for cliques like the Maxwell.

Why RILW?...It has been four weeks since the 1966 version of Religion-in-Life-Week was held. There now has been time to evaluate the event. We therefore ask the sponsors of RILW: Where is the evidence that the students of this college support RILW, or even the idea behind it?

The primary contributor to the collection was Charles L. Palmer, a prominent employee of PIKS, who died in 1946. In his will, Palmer specified that Cal Poly create a replica for the equipment, maintain the machines in noted by various printers and operable condition, and use the type for reproduction proofs. Publisher, Palmer began the Shakespeare Press for his own enjoyment. The Shakespeare press consists of plan press, "cigarette" lettercasting machines, Washington hand presses, and a hand- powered cylinder press.

The collection originates in the heart of the sixteenth century. The cylinder press, a giant piece of machinery, was used around Cape Horn to San Franciscans in about 1964. It also survived the 1966 earthquake, and one of the three Washington hand presses printed one of the first copies of California's Constitution.

Presses restored for antique museum

Unknown to most of Cal Poly, the Printing Department houses the Shakespeare Press, the largest and most complete collection of antique equipment West of the Mississippi River.

Before the RILW sponsors get far along with their plans to bring another similar embarrassment on this campus next year they might do well to re-evaluate their motives and see if they hold any interest for Cal Poly students.

Books added to library shelves

More than 34,500 volumes and 56,047 documents and microforms have been added to the shelves of Walter F. Detzer Memorial Library, since the beginning of the 1964 academic year.

The new additions bring the Library's total holdings up to 178,564 volumes and more than 56,000 government documents, microforms, and pamphlets. According to a report issued recently by L. Harry Strauss, college librarian.

Within the 1964-65 academic year the library circulated 520,000 books and related materials for outside and in-library (recorded) usage. This total represents a 12.1 per cent increase over the previous year.

Information received from outside sources suggests that Cal Poly's curriculum library, which is part of campus library collections, may be rated among the best equipped and served special education collections in the higher education libraries of California.

Among the new curriculum materials added to the collection during the past year include 1,760 children's books, 946 curriculum guides, 351 specialized teaching aids, 297 testing materials units, and 800 new textbook titles.

Recorded circulation of periodicals in both regular and microform format increased from a total of 30,860 in 1963-64 to 52,477 during the past year. The number of periodical titles received by the campus library increased from 1,361 during the previous year to 1,477 in 1964-65. The major proportion of the increase was reflected in new periodic subscriptions.

While enrollment for the Cal Poly campus have increased from 10,972 in 1964-65 to 12,165, Strauss reports that circulation for the library figures increased 12.1 per cent. The 12.1 per cent figure represents a total of 520,000 circulated items through the library during the year.

Ski Club wins

Cal Poly's Ski Club taking team won the Cal Poly-Cinder Giant Ski Jamboree March 8, held during its recent trip to Berkeley Pass.

Cal Poly's first time total of 2:48.3 sec. shattered the Chamber Ski Club of Halfaxa's best score of 2:51.1 sec. Tom map was Cal Poly's rear elephant Roy Byrne with a time of 2:42.7 sec. Others placing for the Mustangs were Jack Chapman, Steve Reuter, Mark Goldstein and Jeanne Finphin.

The trip plans a trip to China Peak on the weekend of Feb. 18th, and a trip to Squaw Valley during quarter break.

粉末压制成型材料的热稳定性

粉末压制成型材料的热稳定性是其应用的重要性能参数。为了研究其热稳定性，对粉末压制成型材料进行热分析。分析方法的选择直接影响到热分析结果的准确性。本文采用差热分析法（DSC）对粉末压制成型材料进行热分析，以期获得有关粉末压制成型材料热稳定性的有用信息。实验仪器为PerkinElmer的DSC7000型差热分析仪。实验前对实验仪器进行校正，以确保实验结果的准确性。实验中采用适当的升温速率和实验条件，以确保实验结果的准确性。

实验结果表明，粉末压制成型材料在不同的温度范围内表现出不同的热稳定性。通过对不同温度范围内的热稳定性进行分析，可以得出粉末压制成型材料在不同应用场合中的热稳定性。这些信息对于粉末压制成型材料的使用和设计具有重要的指导意义。

Matmen conquered in north

Three of the West's foremost wrestling dynasties rocked, rolled, and brawled the visiting Cal Poly Mustangs last week as it whisked them out of the Pacific Northwest. The CCCA powerhouse fell to Portland State 52-16, Thursday night, University of Oregon 23-8, Friday, and Oregon State University 20-8, Friday night. The Mustangs captained last Friday night but came back Saturday with a sparkling 1:1 decision over Dave Harrell of Oregon State University.

Dean Hull devoloped his Grappling of Portland, 10-2, in another tight match Thursday night.

Marvin Bauan (6-1-0) made a remarkable showing against formidable Dick Ever of Portland but lost 9-2. Bauan had control of his opponent with 3 seconds left, in the match to give Green the win.

Walter Brownin 7-2-0) defeated Oregon's John Spaldings 6-3 Friday in the Mustang's best performance of the night.

Tom Cling (2-0-0), Cal Poly, won against Idaho's Chuck Richter 8-1 decision Saturday night.

Mike Hill (17-6-4) picked up a stirring upset Saturday night in returning previously unvanquished Lee Sprague in the OSU weighclass to claim 3A-WU champion at 148 lbs.

Dennis Cunningham 15-5-0) netted his last 4 seconds by a preconditioner and Hillger and Doe Garrett took the heartbreakers.

"Our team is definitely better with most of our members, we still made a fine showing," stated coach Vic Buccola after his gymnasics team participated in the UCLA Invitational last Saturday.

UC Berkeley took top honors with San Fernando Valley State second, and had UCLA claim a total of 12 teams entered the meet, all being from California except Brigham Young University.

Rick Obanion took third place in the transacipole competition, and Chris Teeter took seventh on the long horse. Buccola continued, "We were against the wind competition in the state of California."

The gymnastics team will be idle this next week, but will resume play on February 19, when they host San Fernando Valley State, and San Francisco State. The meet will be held at 7:30 in the Men's Gymnasics.

S & M S. M. and the Buckaroos of Mustang Village extended their records to 1:1 last week with 4 closing nights 4:30 inhaler stage last week to set the stage for a showdown match last night between the two.

The Buckaroos went Six for One 73-51 and the Vitiligo Five 86-22, as their tormentors bested the Mustangs 2-1 lead before succumbing to them undeterred in 7 o'clock action. Mustangs went 17-1, as theirorumers involved with Dolphin Club with a 2-1 mark.

Rick Adkisson was good for 2 points as Bruce Berge threw a 3 way tie for first with the other Roadrunners, beating the Broncos 70-15-46.7. The Ramona team lost 11-12-10 to record their third straight, and L. A. improved to 2-3 by dispelling of Lamont Delta Boys, 15-9.

In seven in the Tuesday evening the Chinooks were set on fire with three straight wins, the latest 21-8 triumph over the Indians. The Orange County club now lead the pack 3-8 right, with the Chunks now one at nine with a 5-5 mark.

Cagers on losing streak

Trying to pull out of a four-game losing streak, the Mustangs of Los Angeles City College had their home court advantages taken away from them in the opening game of the season. The Mustangs suffered a 12-point defeat by San Diego at San Diego State University last weekend. The loss dropped the Mustangs to 2-8 in the men's division of the California College Athletic Association.

El Mustang

Jerry Brown was named most valuable player for the Mustangs in the 12-point loss to San Diego. Brown scored 21 points and added 11 assists in the contest. The Mustangs are scheduled to play against San Francisco on Saturday, March 26, at 2 p.m. in the Poly Gymnasium.

Here's our story

The Rohr Corporation was founded by Fred H. Rohr in 1940 based on a new idea... that he could specialize in the design and manufacture of large aircraft components and build them better at lower cost than the airframe builders themselves. The rest is history. Today Rohr is the nation’s largest subcontractor to the aerospace industry. Typical of the acceptance of our product is this: Rohr is building major assemblies for every commercial and military multi-engine jet transport in production in America today. Yet, we’re widely diversified... designing, building and erecting very large tracking antennas around the world, for instance
