SAC will get revamping proposals Tuesday

Do students care about such things?

In the student body interested in student government and its reorganization? "Yes, at the time when it directly effects them," said Robert A. Falk, a member of the Student Government Reorganization Committee, on Tuesday evening.

Browns, made his comments at an interview with El Mustang about the proposals which the Student Government Reorganization Committee will make on Tuesday to SAC. The recommendations were formally submitted at a special attended meeting open only to members in the college during a period of time, as requested by Dr. J. H. Hirt, temporary chairman of the Student Government Reorganization Committee. The recommendations will be made available for discussion and action at the Committee will continue as it now stands.

As proposed, the executive section would consist of the three student body officers and an "Executive Board," said Brown, explaining the proposals which his committee will make to SAC on Tuesday to restructure student government. Dale Staley, committee member, will assist Brown in the presentation.

Hirt takes over duties as dean of engineering

At a meeting Tuesday, April 5, Interfaith Council took action on some aspects of Hirt's previous letter regarding Religion in Life Week. A compromise motion, which took the form of a recommendation made by the chaplains, was adopted. The motion resulted from careful study, including two meetings to discuss the propositions, in addition to a meeting to which all chaplains were invited to explain their views.

Also voted unanimously were motions to have as next year's RILW theme "Building Re- lations and Religion." The motion will be held Jan. 6, 1967.

Attempts will be made to incorporate other recommendations made by the chaplains. One item which was not involved by a vote, but did not seem feasible at this time, was to have daily visiting readers for RILW in dormitories. A letter from the Interfaith Coordinator Robert Brown was received at the meeting of the Interfaith Council on April 5.

New representatives for next year should come to the next meeting, April 19th at 7 p.m. in Ag 106. Nominations for next year's Assemblymen will be made at the meeting.

Cost for the tour is $50 per person, and includes transportation, food, accommodation, and new applications for student government. Dale Staley, committee member, will assist Brown in the presentation.

April 25 is entry deadline for annual Spring Sing

This year’s Spring Sing, "Sound of Spring," is being presented by Gamma Sigma Sigma, honorary women’s sorority, 8 p.m., May 18 in Crandall Gym.

"This year we want it to be a more casual affair," said Raas Bessayer, member of the Spring Sing Committee. "We want everyone to come and have a good time. It’s really a lot of fun!"

All entries for "Sound of Spring" must be submitted to the committee by April 10 and may be put in the ASI Office Box 48, along with the five dollar entry fee.

Preliminary tryouts will be held on May 8 in Crandall gym. Dress rehearsal will begin at 8 p.m. on May 13 and 14 in Crandall gym.

The date of Spring Sing has been changed this year due to a conflict with the annual homecoming. This year’s Spring Sing promises to be the biggest and greatest yet as there has already been a great deal of interest shown," stated Raas Bessayer. Entries must be from either on campus residence halls, or off campus approved residence halls, chartered clubs, advisors approved professional or honorary fraternity and sororities. Each group may request a member of the Spring Sing Committee to appear before them to answer any questions they may have and explain just exactly what Spring Sing is about.

There are four divisions in which entries may be filed for the Spring Sing. They are women’s residence hall division, men’s residence hall division, clubs and organizations division, and the production division.

Both the residence hall and organizations may only enter one group with the exception of the new hall. The new halls may enter one group each from both residence halls. There is a minimum of 40 and a maximum of 50 individuals per group, which includes the director. All musical accompaniment must be approved by the Spring Sing Committee and no props may be used. All members of the group should dress in G. S. S. "go-places" careers with IBM.

WANT SOME GOOD ANSWERS TO SOME BIG QUESTIONS ABOUT YOUR FUTURE?

"If you ask, we’ll tell all. About 'go-places' Careers with IBM. About opportunities in such areas as basic and applied research—device, new product and programming systems development—and manufacture of printed circuit板, testing equipment using the latest technologies.

You could begin asking more questions at the IBM interview. How many technologies is IBM active in? How can IBM keep me occupied today, tomorrow, or even five years from now?"

Some important points about IBM are:

- IBM is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

"Once you’ve heard the answers, you’ll probably have one more question: 'When can I start?'"
The eighteenth anniversary of Israeli independence will be noted Sunday.

The program will be put on by Israeli Students' Organization and will be conducted by a folk dance troupe, a textile students who are going abroad in the Los Angeles area. The program was sponsored by the Student Council and an Israeli Government. The program will feature the music of the Israel radio, a patriotic song, and a dance by a folk dance troupe. The program will be held in the Cal Poly gymnasium at 8 p.m. on April 17.

Editorial

AN ALTERNATIVE ... "Give me that old-time religion... it's good enough for me." So goes an old-time religion song. But is it enough for most people? The current issue of "Time" magazine discusses the question. "Is God Dead?" is the article's title. The point is made that 97 per cent of the American people believe in God but only 27 per cent declare themselves to be "people of religion." Why is this? Could it be that many are with one teenager who is reported to have said, "I love God but hate church?"

Many churches have taken note of the estrangement of modern man, and especially students, from institutional religion and have tried to correct this situation through their new ecumenical movement. "Valium II" is seen by many as a sign of the Roman Catholic Church's attempts to listen and to speak to the modern age.

Here at Cal Poly, there exists a strange institution which seemingly is unaware of the contemporary ecumenical thrusts within Christianity or the increased communications between members of the various great religions of the world. This local institution is Religion-In-Life Week, the annual attempt to force feed the old-time religion to students. Each year it fails, but the RILW people continue to call the event a "success" and declare that any basic changes are in the traditional program. Plans are now underway to bring another generally uninspiring RILW here next year.

However, all is not lost. Suggestions are circulating among several campus religious group leaders to dissociate from RILW and to develop a more dynamic alternative to Religion-In-Life Week. Their proposals basically follow the guidelines proposed by the Campus Chaplains' Council; proposals which the current RILW leadership seemingly find distasteful. It is encouraging to learn of students who want to make religion meaningful to other students and to reach those now without any religious affiliation.

We hope that those students who are talking of developing a dynamic alternative to RILW will change their talk to action.

We believe that religion has a place in our modern world and that the core of religion can be shown. But old-time religion does not seem to be good enough for many intellectual students. A new approach to college-oriented religious need is needed. Since the RILW people seem willing to change, we are glad to hear that an alternative that is not provincial in its outlook may be available.

College Union

Editor

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your yening editorial (April 4) about College Union Assemblies. We appreciate bringing up one of our major problems to attention, that is, the selection of entertainers for our as-semblies.

Our group is made up of approximately 25 students who have a very wide variety of interests. We are always curious to differentiate between the talents of our students (all of whom we are most proud of, of course). We have recently completed a survey of 250 students to determine campus attidudes and the results are very interesting. Throughout the surveys, there was an overwhelming feeling that students were not satisfied with the services we provide. Some of the major problems that participants cited were a lack of variety, a lack of entertainment, and the fact that too many of the same groups were being invited. Participants also mentioned that they were not well informed about the events being offered and that the dates were not always clearly stated.

We are particularly interested in hearing from our students about their preferences for future events. We would like to know what types of entertainment they are interested in, what their preferred dates are, and what their expectations are for future events. We are always looking to improve our services and your feedback is very important to us.

Sincerely,

Dean Hayes—why?

Editor

The students of this college are privileged to be members of a vibrant community of scholars, researchers, and artists. Our college has a rich history of achievement and we are proud of our traditions and values. We are committed to providing a high-quality education that prepares our students for successful careers and fulfilling lives.

In order to maintain our academic excellence, we must make important decisions about how we allocate our resources. These decisions are complex and involve many different factors, including the budget, the needs of our students, and the goals of our institution.

We are concerned about the financial situation of our college and we are working hard to ensure that we are able to continue to provide a high-quality education. We believe that our students are our most important asset and we are committed to supporting them as they pursue their academic goals.

Sincerely,

Dean Hayes

Editor's note: The financial figures are approximate and are not intended to represent any specific dollar amount. The calculations are based on the estimated costs of the various activities and the expected number of attendees.

The committee has certainly had many meetings about scheduling. We are currently going through our calendar for next year and we will discuss this with you as we make decisions. We are very interested in your thoughts and ideas.

Sincerely,

Craig Brammer, Chairman
College Union Assemblies

Moral support

Editor

As a recent returnee from Vietnam, I would like to call the attention of every Cal Poly student to the fact that our men in Vietnam need the moral support of our people in the United States. Experience has shown that the majority of the soldiers resent the personal insults and real or implied discrimination in the army. The situation becomes more acute when they hear false reports, a complaint of Tokoyo Rose, give the details of and the editor of the campus newspaper. In such cases it is important to the entire college community that adequate information be disseminated in order to alleviate any unnecessary, untruthful, and disdatory.

Sincerely,

Russell L. Yessen

The judiciary proposal, which are essentially the work of Hagen, contain a five-man body, which would have the power to determine the constitutionality of club charters, to exercise initial review over the acts of SAC, and to settle any disputes between campus organizations.

The court, according to Drew, would not be used for disciplinary purposes against students. The reason for this is that students have verbally and in a questionnaire the reorganization committee and yet Hagen expressed the view that they do not want to be judged by their peers on matters of discipline.

If the court's regulations are approved by the SAC, it would probably be late in May or early June. He expressed the hope that students will come to realize the potential importance of the proposals and that students will take time to consider them. Copies of the reorganization suggestions will be available in the ASI office and on reserve in the library.

Letter to students

Dear young friends,

I am soon coming to the United States to meet President Johnson and other U.S. leaders. This will be a very busy visit - less than a week. Much as I should have liked to do, I shall not be able to meet Indian Students Studying in American Institutions.

However, I should like to take this opportunity to tell you that you are all very much in my thoughts. India - as in every country - is passing through a critical phase, perhaps this is the most difficult year since the first year of independence. But there is neither need nor room for despair. We make mistakes but we also have greater insurmountable achievements to our credit. Many of our problems are problems of development. How can one make a huge sleeping giant get to move ahead without creating disturbances?

May I also remind you that the country expects a great deal from the young men and women who have had the opportunity of display at institutions of international repute and of carrying themselves with the latest trends in human thought and modern technology. We can all be our own judges to the national goal.

With greetings and good wishes.

Yours sincerely,

Poly programs provide aid for foreign students

Eighty-one foreign students are enrolled this semester at Cal Poly under programs of two cooperative international agencies.

- Seventy-three of the total number are studying under assignment from the United States Department of State's Agency for International Development (AID) and the United Nation's Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO). The remainder are studying at Kelleigh Campus, located near Pomona.

These students represent 23 different foreign nations, with Nigeria (23) and Kenya (14) having the largest representations. Other nations with students enrolled at Cal Poly under the AID and FAO programs include Sudan (33), Pakistan (39), Tanzania (49), Soma (40), and Nigeria (4).

Also, Afghanistan (2), Morocco (2), Tunisia (3), Vietnam (4), Bolivia (1), Burundi (1), Cameroon (1), Chad (1), Guinea (1), Guatemala (1), Honduras (1), Jordan (1), Mexico (1), Malawi (1), Morocco (1), and Uruguay (5).

Of the 71 students, studying agriculture are majoring in agricultural economics, 19, in agricultural engineering, 18, in animal husbandry, 12, in dairy husbandry and food processing; four, in poultry industry; three, in soil science and agronomical engineering; and two, in electrical engineering.

The programs are designed to train graduates of foreign nations in the basic skills necessary for economic development. There are approximately 6,000 participants in the United States, most of them studying agriculture and industry.

They are selected by their governments to receive specific training with the commitment to return to employment utilizing the training experience. Their expenses are shared by the program and the home country.

Polavarian to serve in Laos

Twenty-three trainees arrived in Honolulu March 20 to begin a rigorous three-month period of training for service with the Agency for International Development in the rural areas of Vietnam and Laos.

One of the trainees for Laos is Eugene R. Bush of San Francisco who graduated in 1967 with a B.S. degree in animal husbandry. His family will be president of the trip.

They will be assigned to rural development offices in Laos. When they finish the training course, they will be expected to understand local customs and cultures, converse with the people, and adapt quickly to living and working under difficult, often hazardous conditions.

Field training will take place 50 miles from Hilo in the Waipio Valley. With rivers and swamps, the valley looks like a tropical jungle. In 2 years, trainees will stay for a time while living off the land, understanding the people and cultures of the area.

Unfortunately, the areas they might live in for the next 2 years are subject to a number of significant breakthroughs in space exploration including the United States' first manned landing on the moon, the successful flyby of the planet Venus, and the manned moon mission by Mars.
