MARGARET J. HARTMAN, China Lake, has been named the outstanding senior with a 3.71 GPA.

Hartman, who received her degree last month at the top of the near-ly 1,200 students enrolled in the college, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Hartman of China Lake.

Selection for the honor by Dean of Applied Sciences Clyde F. Peters and the heads of the five departments which make up the division is based on grades achieved during a minimum of 80 quarter hours of course work in applied sciences courses.

Rogers for faculty were Carol E. Plopper of Burbank and David C. Hoffman of Hayward Park.

A mathematics major, Hoffman had a 3.60 grade. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Plopper of Long Beach.

New infographic physician hired

“The finest thing that has happened to me,” exclaimed Dr. Billy Bragg for seven years, and worked in medicine with proven success.

Dr. Hall attended Stanford and majored in pediatrics. He received his A.B. degree, with highest honors, from the Stanford School of Medicine.

Dr. Hall had his residency training at Monterey County Hospital, and began his practice as a general practitioner at Port Hueneme for seven years, and work at the Fresno State College Student Health Center from 1960 until now.

Dr. Hall is a member of Phi Kappa, Alpha Omega Alpha, California Academy of General Practitioners, and the American Academy of Pediatrics, and the American Medical Association.

Library director Dorothy Wright retires following twenty years of service

Mrs. Dorothy R. Wright, head of reference services, leaves the college Sept. 1 after 20 years to become librarian of Occidental College in San Luis Obispo.

Mrs. Wright joined the faculty in the fall of 1944, when the library occupied a half dozen classrooms on the second floor of the old Administration building. Its collection totaled 1,000 volumes.

When the Spanish-styled Walter F. Disney Memorial Library was completed in 1950, she planned the move of more than 17,000 books and tons of magazines in such minute detail it was accompanied with a speed and low cost somewhat of a record in library circles. The library was able to open its doors on Sept. 15, 1953, in time to accommodate the “greatest crowd in Cal Poly history, 5,000.”

The Telegram-Tribune reported on that day:

“Mrs. Dorothy Wright, assistant professor of library science, leaves the library today for the opening of new books in a large, beautiful library room.”

Mrs. Wright’s ability to focus attention on books, to open intellectual doors, to bring books and people together, has always been one of her special skills. Her high standards and selectivity contributed to the quality of the book collection, now over 115,000 volumes, and in the periodical indices.

A background in liberal arts, with a degree in philosophy and English from Occidental College, preceded her training in library science, at the University of California at Berkeley.

Her interests are as wide as the world of books with which she has been encompassed, ranging from community affairs to world affairs. From poverty to politics.

Leach to participate in World’s Congress

Leach will present the paper during the 116th World’s Poultry Congress, scheduled for August 15-21.

This paper will be presented at a session of the congress on the nutritional and marketing aspects of the poultry industry.
Old paintings exhibited

Students are invited to attend an unusual exhibit, "The Truth of American Paintings" July 30-Aug. 9 at the Monday Club on Montecito Street in Santa Barbara. Exhibit hours will be 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

Sponsored by the California Arts Commission, this traveling exhibit was arranged by the local Civic and Fine Arts Association. It is being shown only in 12 California cities.

A few of the great American artists are: Gilbert Stuart, most famous for his portrait of George Washington; Georgia O'Keeffe, great landscape painter; Winslow Homer, beloved for his seascapes; Ralph Haver, painter of Indian scenes; Childe Hassam, and Edward Hopper.

Museums featuring the paintings are: University of Southern California; Elizabeth R. Fisher Collection, Oakland Art Museum; Fine Arts Gallery of San Diego; Santa Barbara Museum of Art; California Palace of the Legion of Honor, San Francisco; Los Angeles County Museum of Art; John Corrigan Art Gallery, San Francisco; San Francisco Museum of Art; Pasadena Art Museum.

Inquiry '66 explores Grand Canyon

Well, we've survived 32 days of this trip, and everyone is still very enthusiastic. We store up most of our energy on the long bus rides during the day. Everyone slaeps a great deal, so that when we pull into our campgrounds at the end of the day we're ready for hiking before the sun goes down. We're enjoying the country very much, and are looking forward to getting back East. Now here are our most recent happenings.

Our first view of Grand Canyon was rather disappointeing, since there were many huge rain clouds overhead. We saw that a rainstorm was inevitable. We set up camp on the very edge of the North Rim and drove to Cape Royal, another point, along the northern edge which afforded a better view of the canyon. The rain clouds gave the beautiful formations of the canyon a mystical appearance. Many of us re-touched the lack of any color, so that when we pulled into our campgrounds in the evenings we were ready for hiking before the sun goes down. We're enjoying the country very much, and are looking forward to getting back East. Now here are our most recent happenings.

The next morning we started east into Navajo and Hopi Indian country, where there was very little rain and desolate country, but there were grottoes and colored cliffs visible all along the road. Soon we saw rain clouds along the horizon and before we knew it, we were again in a heavy rainstorm.

We stopped at Page, Arizona, and from there north west took U.S. 64, turned north towards Canyon de Chelly National Monument, our destination for the night. We saw a gorgeous desert sunset as we drove north.

Our next day began with a trip to the Visitor's Center at Canyon de Chelly where we heard about the fascinating development of the Pueblo culture, as well as some of the recent pictographs of the Navajo and Hopi tribes. Then we drove to a point from where we could hike down to the White House, ruin of a Pueblo cliff dwelling. The ruins were remarkably well preserved along a path which was still standing. It was a long, hot hike down the path and back, but the thought it was worth it. A model of the Navajo had been hatched down in the canyon near the ruins and we soon learned that they aren't going to take pictures of him or her anymore.

From Canyon de Chelly, through Arizona, our trip was hot and dry and we were finally relieved by another thunderstorm.
While "Fraternity"—he says, he won't even use the word—has earned the respect of many college personnel, it has fostered an atmosphere of fear in the minds of others. Even administrators can be afraid that the members of fraternities may strike such a forceful image as to keep others from competing with them.

"I feel that, after hearing all the arguments involved, that the proportion of on-campus fraternity members should be put to a vote of the student body. They will have shown that they do not want to have fraternities.

But, it is up to student consideration. They deserve to have a say. Instead of concerning fraternities before they are even planned or approached with an open mind, even administrators can be wrong. —padd experience has proven this to be true."

College catalogues and full schedules are available soon.

Do you receive a college catalogue? If not, you may pick one up at the Administration office.

Since there is little change from year to year in course offerings, we urge you not to obtain a new copy of the catalogue each year.

Full class schedules are "exposed" to go on sale Aug. 15, in the bookstore.

Students may purchase them here at the time they have the schedules mailed to them. This brochure performs this service at no extra charge; the only change is the price of the schedule plus postage.

The college catalogues are printed each year, free of charge, by the state printing office. If the books were sold at cost each year would set for approximately $8.60.

Leach . . .

all educational techniques pioneered at Cal Poly.

Participating in the World's Poultry Congress is but one of a number of activities planned by Leach during a six-month-long sabbatical leave from his duties at the college.

Between June 20, when he began the leave, and January 1, when he is due to terminate, Leach plans to take a study tour of European poultry industry operation on the East Coast of the United States, take part in the conference in Russia, and attend meetings of several other varieties of professional agriculturalists, including a world-wide congress of food technologists in Warsaw.

While in Europe, Leach and his wife, Janice, who is accompanying him during his leave, will also visit 12 different countries. En route to Russia they will stop over in Iceland, Scotland, Sweden, Finland, and Denmark.

The Kiev meeting is being sponsored by the World's Poultry Science Association, whose offices are available soon.

The work is being sponsored jointly by Cal Poly, the University of California, Physical Education, and Recreation, and the State Department of Education.

The majority of the nation's top authorities in the field of physical education, the staff of which directs includes such names as Peter Drury, head basketball coach, and last year's internationally ranked San Francisco Don and Homer Street, whose California State at Los Angeles Division have won three consecutive NCAA football championships.

Sports activity courses being offered include badminton, baseball, basketball, bowling, football, gymnastics, water polo and swimming, tennis, track and field, volleyball, weight training and wrestling.

(Other arrangements on the staff include Cal Boys, Dick Frans, Bosworth, Jack Rose, Paul Xanthos, and Chuck Coker who coaches the Southern California strippers track and field team.

Besides the sports activities being planned general courses in administration and supervision of physical education and methods of physical education are being offered.

In conjunction with the men's workshop will be the 15th annual California Physical Education Workshop for Women in Secondary Schools. The women's workshop will begin on August 7 and conclude on August 14.

Sports activities for the women, under the direction of Miss Davis White of the University of California, includes tumbling, swimming stroke and analysis, creative adaptation of games, field hockey, body mechanics, rhythm gymnastics, and folk dance.

The first star popped out about 8:45 and the moon was glowing brightly throughout the performance. Everyone was bundled up in their blanket sitting on the lawn between the Air-Eng. building.

There were some 300 people attending the Concert Under the Stars last Saturday evening.

Many of those present were of Spanish descent showing their support to the band in Spanish.

The band consisted of one violin, two trumpets, and three guitars. They played and sang all Spanish songs. All of the band members except for the trumpet players sang at sometime during the program.

The Mariachi band was dressed in brown charro suits, bright red ties and white sombreros. The player of the tiny guitar which he called the "charro" dressed and absented Ola!

During this time World War II brought, chairman of the Summer Program Committees, told how much the crowd liked the band. A giant grin was forever boming from the audience's
