Vietnam officers report to ROTC

The Military Science Department has been strengthened by the recent return of two members of the department who have been assigned to active duty in Vietnam. Capts. Robert H. Ball and Robert R. Harris have been selected by the Department of the Army for service in Vietnam and are scheduled to arrive there in the near future.

Cap. Ball, director of the Leadership Committee of the 55th U.S. Army Reserve Command, was assigned to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the Air National Guard in 1963 and went on active duty in Vietnam in 1964. He has been serving as an instructor in Social Science at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He is a graduate of the University of California and has a bachelor's degree in education and a master's degree in Social Science.

Cap. Harris, also a graduate of the University of California, has been a member of the faculty at Cal Poly College of Engineering, where he has taught courses in military science and administration. He is currently serving in Vietnam as an instructor in the Air National Guard and has been assigned to the rank of Captain.

In addition to these officers, several other members of the department have been assigned to duty in Vietnam, including Capt. John A. Smith, who has been serving as an instructor in Social Science at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, and Capt. David E. Green, who has been serving as an instructor in military science at the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College.

College Republicans circulate petition requesting college parking autonomy

College Republicans at Cal Poly are circulating a petition requesting parking autonomy for the college. The petition is being circulated in response to the recent decision by the administration to increase parking fees and restrict access to parking facilities. The petition calls for the establishment of a student-run parking authority that would be responsible for managing parking on campus.

The petition states: "The College Republicans of Cal Poly are circulating this petition in order to bring about the establishment of a student-run parking authority. This authority would be responsible for managing parking on campus and would be accountable to the students and the administration. The petition calls for the establishment of a student-run parking authority that would be responsible for managing parking on campus. The petition is being circulated in response to the recent decision by the administration to increase parking fees and restrict access to parking facilities."
Richard appointed full-time foreign student volunteer

Karin Freykind, senior agricultural journalism major and editor for the El Mustang, is putting her training to practical use. As her senior project, she is getting a magazine specifically for her field. The project has gotten help from various departments around campus, including the business administration, arts and humanities, and communications.

The text will not be sold as a magazine. Instead, it will be printed in the form of a limited edition "print run." The purpose of the project is to create a monthly publication for students who want to see what is going on in the college environment. It will be printed in a limited number of copies, and the costs will be covered by the college. The publication will be distributed to students, faculty, and staff, and it will be available for purchase at a cost of $5 per issue.

El Corral policies may be revised

Students have been given an authoritative voice in the administration of the El Corral, the Cal Poly student publication, as a result of the new policy put in effect by 1966-67 General Manager Jerry Chedick.

A new six-man board of directors will administer the newspaper. The board was created by the new policy and consists of the following six persons:

1. Fred Enright, Business Administration sophomore, is in charge of advertising and the general administration of the El Corral.
2. Jack Opalch, Business Administration sophomore, handles the business side of the publication.
3. Helga Freeman, Business Administration sophomore, is the news editor in chief.
4. Joe report, Business Administration junior, is the editor in chief.
5. Bill Trutner, Business Administration junior, handles the feature and copy section.
6. Graceee MacLean, Business Administration senior, is the art editor in chief.

While Andrew and Vegetable Smith, two of the original editors of the El Corral, are going to keep the same policy as before, they have been asked to resign their posts. They have been replaced by new members.

Andrews reports on Guatemalan trip

We are now trekking through the Guatemalan forests, and we must have been passed by a dozen centers for the study of the Mayans in the past hour.

The purpose of the trip, Andrew Andrews, a student in the Bio-Chemistry Department, is to study the Mayan culture and to learn more about the Mayans and their way of life.

Andrews and his companions left from Los Angeles on March 1st. They plan to return on March 25th.

During the trip, Andrews and his companions will visit several Mayan sites, including Tikal, Uxmal, and Chichen Itza. They will also have the opportunity to interact with local Mayans and learn about their culture and way of life.

Andrews and his companions will be traveling by bus, and they will be staying in simple accommodations. They will be eating simple meals and sleeping on cots or mats.

Andrews and his companions plan to return to Los Angeles on March 25th, and they expect to be back home by April 1st.
Wrestling Wonderland

Mustang grapplers return as coaches

Cal Poly over the weekend hosted one of the state's three Junior college wrestling tournaments. According to Coach Bill Smith, the Mustangs were the only team to return with the best record after two contests on the schedule. The Mustangs will play at the 11th Annual Cal Poly Invitational on Feb. 14 and will be back in the state tournament in March.

Cerritos captures wrestling tourney

Cerritos College, winner of the 1966 Annual Cal Poly Invitational Wrestling tournament last year, easily walked off with the team title this time around as 12 junior college wrestling programs contested were Cerritos. The Mustangs defeated both Pasadena College and San Bernardino Valley. The Mustangs vs. Fullerton match was postponed because of cold weather.

Basketball wizzes to perform

Who knows what changes will be made in the proposed football stadium which may or may not be built. However, the Mustangs will be in action during the annual Junior College basketball tournament next week.
