Coeds in pants see many diversified careers in AH

By Jeff Clement

Staff Writer

Rock out of campus, and many students are finding careers in AH not expected. Most students are finding that AH careers and those in related fields pay off in the long run. There are a lot of AH jobs that give the student an opportunity to work in AH while he is still in school. Students can also take AH courses while in school that will lead to a job in AH after graduation.

Governments predict faster college growth

The United States colleges population will grow at a rate of 8 percent annually, according to the National Science Foundation. This is an increase of 30 percent from the present population of 9.8 million. This growth will be concentrated in the states of the Northeast and West, where the population is growing at a faster rate than in the South and Midwest.

New York loses major news medium

NEW YORK (UPI) — The World Journal, a daily Sunday newspaper which had a circulation of 185,000 at one time, has been sold to a new owner who will change its name to the New York Times. The new owner plans to expand the newspaper's coverage of local news and events, and to increase its weekday circulation.

Government's predicted faster college growth

Federal officials have predicted that college enrollments will increase by nearly one-fifth from the present level of 9.8 million. This is due to the increasing proportion of youth in the population and the increasing availability of AH jobs.

REGENTS TO SELECT PRESIDENT FOR UC

RIVERSIDE (UPI)-Wanted, a distinguished individual with experience in academic administration. First have moderate academic credentials, preferably a master's degree. Must have at least 10 years experience in higher education. Must be able to work under pressure. Must have a proven record of success. Must be able to handle the stress of the position.

The University of California, having found its current president lacking in the necessary qualities, is searching for a new president. This is not a position for the faint of heart. The University of California has a long history of success and is looking for a leader who can build upon that legacy.

Among those who have been considered are Dr. John Doe, a well-known academic and administrator, and Dr. Jane Smith, a respected professor at a leading university. Both have impressive credentials and are well-respected in their fields. However, the search committee is considering other candidates as well.

The selection process will be open and transparent, with input from faculty, students, and the broader community. The university is committed to finding the best possible candidate to lead the institution into the future.

President's Report

Thank you all for your interest in the upcoming election for President. We are excited to see the enthusiasm and engagement from the campus community. It is a testament to the vitality of our institution.

As we move forward, we encourage all to cast their votes in the upcoming election. It is our hope that we will see a strong turnout and a diverse range of voices represented.

We are grateful for the support and encouragement we have received. We look forward to working with the next president to continue the rich tradition of excellence at the University of California.

Sincerely,

President

Conservatively Speaking

By Bob Keesee

The other evening the subject of boilermaking came up. We talked about the price of boilermaking and how it has changed over the years. I said, "I've always been interested in boilermaking. It seems like a challenging field with a lot of variety." My friend replied, "Yes, but it's a tough job. You have to be able to handle high pressures and temperatures." I said, "That's true, but I think it's a rewarding career." We then turned to the subject of boilermakers' salaries and discussed the differences in pay across the country. My friend commented, "I've heard that boilermakers in the West earn more than those in the East." I replied, "That's probably true, but the cost of living in the West is also higher." We then talked about the future of boilermaking and the need for skilled workers in this field. My friend said, "I hope that more young people will consider boilermaking as a career." I agreed, "Yes, it's a great field to be in."
Cows stand in way of golfers?

By John Shore

From the established era of the horse, polo made way for the cow and then came the dairy. The familiar sight of the dairy, with its cows and fences, is now a common sight on many college campuses.

According to the proposal, the dairy unit will be used to support the agricultural and horticulture programs at the college. The dairy will provide a teaching and learning environment for students, as well as a source of income for the college.

The proposal also includes a profile of the animals to be used in the dairy, including their breeds and care requirements. The project aims to create an educational experience for students, as well as a hands-on learning opportunity.

UCSB edges Mustangs

Everything was wrong, was it not, with the way things went. Dick Perrelli and the Mustangs met hours ago at the court. Without the services of coaches, the Mustangs were left to rely on a slow and long game plan.

The Gauchos were in the lead, with a mere second on the clock, and the Mustangs had six points in the bag. A late-game surge led to a victory by the Gauchos.

The Gauchos led their Woodman counterparts, 3-0. Perrelli, who had an injury, was replaced by Mike Germani.

The Mustangs were without a doubt the stronger team, with a 22-point margin. Smith was the center with an effective 4.64 minutes and a total of 13 points. He also captured the MVP award for the Mustangs.

We have received word from the All-College Championship. The Gauchos defeated the Mustangs in the final game of the tournament, which was held at the All-College Championship.

The Mustangs had 664 points for the tournament, while the Gauchos had 663 points. The Gauchos won with 793 points, while the Mustangs had 780 points.
