Sabol is head of Agricultural Education

Joseph E. Sabol can now take the "interim" from his department head title.

Sabol, a member of the Cal Poly faculty since 1972 and interim head of the department since 1982, assumed his new title immediately, according to an announcement by President Warren J. Baker.

Lark P. Carter, dean of the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources, joined Provost Tomlinson Fort Jr. and a faculty committee in recommending the appointment.

Sabol, 44, succeeds Larry P. Rathbun, who became associate dean of the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources in November 1982.

The new department head is a graduate of California State University, Fresno, the University of California, Davis, and Colorado State University, where he earned his doctorate. He also had done graduate study at both Cal Poly and Ohio State University.

He is a specialist in teaching effectiveness and in vocational agriculture and has been involved in research related to those areas. He presently is directing a study to determine competencies needed by beginning employees in the meat and fish industries.

IBM to offer personal computers at discount

The California State University has reached an agreement with IBM which will permit students, faculty and staff to purchase IBM personal computers at a 20 percent discount. Such purchases will be the responsibility of the individual using his/her own personal funds. Full details on availability, procedures to be used, configurations and prices are being developed and will be released soon.

The acquisition of IBM personal computers using state funds is not covered under this contract.

Social Sciences has new department head

James W. Coleman, a member of the Cal Poly faculty since 1973, has been named head of the Social Sciences Department.

Coleman's appointment was announced by President Warren J. Baker, based on the recommendations of Provost Tomlinson Fort Jr.; Jon M. Ericson, dean of the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities; and the department's faculty. Coleman will assume his new duties Sept. 17.

The new department head will replace Robert L. Hoover, who led the department for the last eight years. Hoover will return to full-time teaching in the department after a year's sabbatical leave.

A native of Los Angeles, Coleman, 36, earned an undergraduate degree in sociology from Cal State Northridge and two advanced degrees in sociology from the University of California, Santa Barbara.

In 1974-75 he was a research fellow at the National Institute of Mental Health. While at UCSB he was a research assistant to the director of the Law Enforcement Education Program.

A member of the American Sociological Association, the Society for the Study of Social Problems, and the Western Society of Criminology, Coleman has been a sociology consultant for Harper & Row Publishers for the past three years.

Accreditation granted to Counseling Services

The Counseling Services Department, Division of Student Affairs, has been granted full accreditation by the University and College Counseling Centers' Board of Accreditation of the International Association of Counseling Services. The accreditation was based upon an in-depth review which included a field team visit, review of policies and procedures of both Counseling Services and Cal Poly, and compliance with IACS accreditation standards. These standards involve scope and quality of counseling, programs, consultation services, professional development, training, research, ethical and legal standards, professional staff qualifications and competencies, workload, physical facilities, and relationship to the university community.

The Counseling Services Department, headed by Kerry Yamada, includes the Counseling Center, the Career Development Center, the Learning Assistance Center and the Test Office.

Sonoma has new president
Dr. David W. Benson, executive vice president and provost at Cal State Northridge, has been named president of Sonoma State University. He will take over his new duties at the 5300-student campus in Rohnert Park this summer.

The 52-year-old Benson started teaching at Northridge in 1961 and has held various administrative posts at that campus since 1967.

Arts and Humanities schedule for 1984-85
California has traditionally enjoyed a reputation for being a land of dreams and imagination. With this in mind, the Arts and Humanities Lecture Series Committee is extremely pleased to announce its program for 1984-85.

The theme of next year's series will be "Imagining the Imagination: The Varieties of Contemporary Creativity." The first speaker in this series will be the renowned American writer and literary critic Kenneth Burke. Burke's published works include A Grammar of Motives, A Rhetoric of Motives, The Rhetoric of Religion, Terms of Order, and Language as Symbolic Action. He was once referred to by W.H. Auden as "the most brilliant and suggestive critic now writing in America." Burke will be speaking at Cal Poly Oct. 4.

Other speakers and dates in the Fall schedule for this series will be: James Engell, professor of English literature at Harvard and author of The Creative Imagination, on Oct. 18; poet William Stafford Oct. 25; Hollywood film composer Fred Steiner Nov. 8; and G. William Domhoff, professor of psychology and sociology at UC Santa Cruz and author of The Bohemian Grove and Other Retreats, on Nov. 15.

Cal Poly faculty participating in the series will be Judy Saltzman (Philosophy), Michael Orth (English), and Roger Kenvin (Speech Communication).

The committee is particularly happy to announce that one of the leading Latin American writers of our time—Carlos Fuentes—will be coming to campus next spring as the keynote speaker in the series.

Next year will mark the 14th year of the Arts and Humanities Lecture Series, which is sponsored by the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities. The purpose of the series is to communicate from the humanities to the university and to promote a cross-campus exchange of ideas about the nature and purpose of man. The committee invites the entire university community and the general public to attend these presentations and to explore the question of how the imagination creates images of us and our world.

All events are free of charge and will take place in University Union 220 at 11 am.

The chairwoman of next year's series is Diane Michelfelder (Philosophy).

Vacate your locker!
Faculty and staff members who have lockers in Crandall Gym should check with equipment attendant Aldora Santos by Friday (June 8) regarding re-issue of lockers. If this is not done, the lockers will be cleaned out during quarter break.
Chicano graduation Saturday

Twenty-five Cal Poly graduates will participate in the seventh annual Chicano Commencement at 5:30 pm Saturday (June 9) in Chumash Auditorium. The ceremony, including a banquet, speakers and entertainment, will be conducted in both Spanish and English.

Most of the graduates are the first in their families to earn a university degree. The celebration is designed to honor families and friends and recognize their efforts and sacrifices.

Cal Poly’s Chicano Commencement is sponsored by the university’s Student Academic Services office and MECHA (the Chicano Students Movement of Aztlan). Throughout the year students raise money for the event through raffles, donations and other fund-raisers. Since 1978, 85 graduates have participated in the ceremonies.

This year’s theme is “Unidos venceremos en el camino a la educacion” (United we shall triumph on the path to education).

Board of Trustees’ actions

Among the actions taken by the Board of Trustees of the California State University at its May 23 meeting were:

- Appointed Trustee Claudia H. Hampton as representative to the California Postsecondary Education Commission for 1984-85, with Trustee Celia I. Ballesteros to serve as alternate.
- Approved trustee committee assignments for 1984-85.
- Expressed the Board’s appreciation to Blanche Bersch, who served as a trustee from 1977 to 1984, and Dr. Juan Gomez-Quinones, who served as a trustee from 1976 to 1984.
- Approved a name change for California State College, San Bernardino from “College” to “University,” subject to the approval of the California Postsecondary Education Commission.
- Amended Section 40401 of Title 5 of the California Administrative Code which is the basis for determining which edition of the campus bulletin or catalog is to be used in selecting the undergraduate degree requirements to be met by a student, whether beginning study in the CSU or in a California community college for transfer to a CSU campus.
- Amended Title 5 of the California Administrative Code to add sections to the Management Personnel Plan which was approved by the Board at its November meeting and was effective Jan. 1, 1984.
- Approved the appointment of Grant/Pedersen/Phillips as the consulting architect for Cal Poly during 1984-85.
- Announced that Ross Levin & MacIntyre, Architects, and Maul-Steward Associates, Inc. are the joint architects for the Agriculture Science Building at Cal Poly.

New disk drive will improve CYBER

The Computer Center will be receiving a new dual 885 disk drive and controller from Control Data Corporation early in July. The added disk storage is expected to relieve current processing problems and provide added storage for both instructional and administrative users.

The installation procedure requires a temporary reduction in disk storage which will affect users and production processing. The tentative schedule for installation is as follows:

- July 14-15: CYBER system unavailable; two 844 disk drives physically removed and dual 885 installed.
- July 16-20: Test new dual disk drive; CYBER will be operational with only eight disk drives. Power, air conditioning and floor space prohibit maintaining the two 844s during 885 testing.
- July 21-22: CYBER system unavailable; operating system changes completed to incorporate the new drive.

During the week of reduced storage, the number of system drives will remain at six; removable disk packs required for on-line administrative processing will be mounted on the remaining two drives during university working hours. Therefore, users requiring access to other removable packs can do so only during evening hours.

Contention for access to the drives could cause some processing delays. Users who can reduce or postpone their CYBER workload during the week of July 16-20 would certainly help those users who are unable to do so. Users with critical processing needs during this period are asked to review their schedule with Computer Operations, ext. 2004.

Albertson elected to head Board of Trustees

Wallace Albertson of Los Angeles has been elected chairwoman of the Board of Trustees of the 19-campus California State University.

Albertson, who has been vice chairwoman, succeeds John F. O’Connell of San Francisco. O’Connell, senior executive consultant to the Bechtel Power Corporation, had served as chairman for three years.

Willie J. Stennis of Culver City was elected vice chairman. Appointed to the board in 1975 and again in 1983, Stennis is founder and president of Golden Bird, Inc., a restaurant chain.

Albertson was appointed to the board in 1978. The second woman to be elected to head the Board since the CSU was organized in 1960, she is the widow of actor Jack Albertson.

Who, What, When, Where

Robert Reynolds, Art, was recently selected by the San Luis Obispo Mozart Festival Association to have his painting "Low Tide at Dusk/Morro Bay" represent the 1984 Festival. Proceeds from the sale of these prints will help support this popular cultural event. The 22x28 prints may be purchased from the Mozart Festival Association office (543-4580).

Abraham B. Shani, Management, has co-authored a paper titled "The Myth and the Reality of Organizational Knowledge Production: Towards an Integrative Epistemology," which was presented at the 25th Annual Meeting of the Western Academy of Management, Vancouver, Canada, April 11-14.

George T. Murray, Harry Honegger and T. Mousel ('81 alum), Metallurgical Engineering, have had a paper published in the April issue of Corrosion titled "Hydrogen Embrittlement of PH 13-8 Mo Stainless Steel—The Effect of Surface Condition."

Virginia R. Walter, Ornamental Horticulture, was elected national vice president of Pi Alpha Xi, the ornamental horticulture honorary society, at its convention held at Penn State on March 29. Prior to this election, Walter served as national secretary-treasurer.

Kenneth Sanderson, Ornamental Horticulture, (visiting professor from Auburn University) was elected national secretary-treasurer at the same meeting.

Robert L. Hoover, Social Sciences, presented a paper, "Archaeology at Mission San Antonio: An Update," at the annual meeting of the Society for California Archaeology in Salinas on March 21, where he was also appointed chairman of the material culture committee of the newly formed California Mission Studies Association. Hoover also was awarded a grant for research on ceramics and records of the Spanish period by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Douglas G. Generaux and David J. Schaffner, Agricultural Management, were recently honored at the Toastmasters International District 33 annual meeting for service to the Cal Poly student Toastmasters Club. (District 33 encompasses the area from Las Vegas to Modesto to the Mexican border and represents more than 4,000 members.) The Cal Poly club is one of a very few student clubs chartered by Toastmasters International to operate exclusively on university campuses. Generaux and Schaffner have been advisers to the club since its formation in 1977.

Alice Loh, Landscape Architecture, served as panel moderator for the California Council of Landscape Architects Annual Conference in Santa Barbara May 3-6. The subject, "Changing Roles of Women as Design Professionals," was discussed by the panel from both educational and practicing professional points of view and was based on the recently compiled National Survey of Career Patterns Among Women in Landscape Architecture published by the American Society of Landscape Architects.

Virginia R. Walter, Ornamental Horticulture, was elected trustee of the Joseph Shinoda Memorial Scholarship Foundation, Inc. at its board meeting on April 24. The Shinoda Foundation has given over $175,000 worth of scholarships to floriculture students across the country since its inception in 1964. Walter serves as liaison between the foundation and universities with floriculture programs.

Alfred M. Bachman, Mathematics, gave a talk at the Fourth Annual Spring Conference of Computer-Using Educators at Pasadena City College May 19. The title of his talk was "Using the Microcomputer to Raise Achievement in Mathematics."

CPR schedule

The next Cal Poly Report will be June 21. Typewritten, double-spaced copy is due in Adm. 206 by June 14. Publication will be on an alternate week schedule throughout the summer, with copy due a week in advance.
