Busselen to direct School of Professional Studies, Education

Dr. Harry J. Busselen Jr., interim dean of the School of Professional Studies and Education for the past year, has been named permanently to the position.

He was appointed by President Baker upon the recommendation of Provost Fort, following a nationwide search involving 134 candidates. Six finalists were invited to campus.

He was interim dean of the School of Human Development and Education for one year before it was replaced by the School of Professional Studies and Education last year.

After joining the Cal Poly faculty in 1975, Busselen spent four years as head of the Home Economics Department and three years as associate dean of the School of Human Development and Education.

Before that, he was head of the Home Economics Department at Central Michigan University and a member of the faculties at Florida State University, Southern Oregon College, and Lodi High School.

Cal Poly included in book on ‘Competitive Colleges’

Cal Poly has been selected for inclusion in the fourth edition of “Peterson’s Competitive Colleges,” just published by Peterson's Guides, a Princeton, N.J.-based publisher of education and career reference materials.

This edition of the reference work presents data profiles of the 316 U.S. colleges and universities that consistently have more applicants with above-average credentials than they can accept. The schools represent approximately 10 percent of all U.S. institutions of higher education.

Algeo to head combined animal science programs

An internationally known specialist in beef and horse nutrition and breeding has been selected to lead the university’s combined animal science programs.

Appointment of John W. “Jack” Algeo as head of the Animal Sciences and Industry Department was announced by Dean Lark Carter of the School of Agriculture.

The dean also announced the combining of the Animal Science and Veterinary Science Department and Poultry Industry Department into a single administrative unit. Known as Animal Sciences and Industry, the new department will have about 620 students enrolled this fall in its Bachelor of Science degree programs in animal science and poultry industry.

Richard J. Birkett, who has been interim head of the Animal and Veterinary Science Department, and Dr. Phillip L. Potts, who has been head of the Poultry Industry Department, will both return to full-time teaching and production management assignments on the Animal Sciences and Industry Department faculty.

For the past 25 years Algeo has been in full-time practice as a private consultant and researcher in cattle and horse nutrition, breeding, and management, and in food and drug-related research.

Before that, he was director of research and resident nutritionist for Sinton and Brown Co., a large cattle feeding concern headquartered in Santa Maria, and a graduate research assistant at Washington State.

He also was an animal nutrition specialist on Cal Poly’s animal science faculty from 1949 to 1964.
Galerie exhibit will honor San Luis Mozart Festival

The University Union Galerie will be hosting an exhibition through Sept. 16, in honor of the San Luis Obispo Mozart Festival.

Called the MOZART-TREK, the program is both an invitational and a retrospective, according to Jeanne LaBarbera, Galerie director. "Thek" is taken from the last syllable of the German word "Glyptothek," meaning a museum collection of carved (glyptic) works of art.

LaBarbera says the exhibition is invitational in the sense that a select number of noteworthy San Luis Obispo artist-teachers were invited to submit works in the broad areas of "Mozart: The Man, His Times, and His Music."

The artists include Robert Reynolds, who has completed a painting especially for this show; Henry Wessels, who has designed special ceramic sculptures; Eric Johnson, photography; Jim Alford, a photographer whose work was used for this year’s Mozart Festival announcement; and Dan Piel’s Mozart portrait, which is on loan from Valley Federal Savings.

The retrospective portion of the exhibition will include the three paintings from which Mozart Festival posters were reproduced.

They are Arne Nybak’s “Sing of Blossoms, Birds and Bowers” (on loan from Mr. and Mrs. William Bryant of Santa Monica); Dorothy Cutter’s “Lunch by the Bay” (on loan from Mr. and Mrs. Michael R. Peevey of LaCanada-Flintridge); and Reynolds’ “Low Tide at Dusk/Morro Bay” (on loan from Gerald Franklin of Santa Barbara).

The Mozart Festival has agreed to make available a limited number of the earlier posters depicting these paintings for sale at the Galerie.

An added attraction will be the exhibition of an important musical instrument. Music Professor Ron Ratcliffe has loaned the Galerie an 1820 Cottage Pianoforte, an elegant small upright by the London firm of Clement & Sons.

Finally, the Cal Poly show will include a selection of Mozart memorabilia designed for previous festivals.

The Galerie hours are 10 am to 6 pm on Mondays and Tuesdays; 10 am to 8 pm on Wednesdays and Thursdays; 10 am to 4 pm on Fridays; and noon to 4 pm on Saturdays. The Galerie is closed on Sundays during the summer.

Candidates are being sought for membership on the Equal Opportunity Advisory Council and the Student Affirmative Action Advisory Committee. If you are interested, please contact the appointing authorities: the provost, the dean of students, and the chairman of the Academic Senate.

Top journalist students are studying at Cal Poly

Twenty-five top high school journalism students from throughout Central and Southern California are participating in the 34th annual California Scholastic Press Association Workshop at Cal Poly.

The workshop, which will continue through Friday, is co-sponsored and hosted by the Journalism and Public Affairs Departments.

It provides high school seniors, and recent graduates with practical instruction in a variety of media fields, including print journalism, public relations, radio and television broadcasting, advertising, and photography.

Faculty members for the workshop are media and communications professionals who volunteer their services for the workshop. Many are graduates of the CSPA/Cal Poly Workshop, which was founded and operated for many years by longtime Los Angeles-area journalist Ralph Alexander and his wife, Millie.

Both Alexanders died in 1981, but CSPA graduates and Cal Poly joined to carry on the program.

Usher corps needed

The Cal Poly Theatre is looking for volunteer ushers beginning Fall Quarter.

Both members of the university community and the local community are urged to participate. Anyone 17 or older is eligible. Applications may be picked up Monday through Friday at the Cal Poly Theatre main office in the theatre lobby.

For more information, please call Peter Wilt, theatre manager, at 546-1421.
Employees with disabilities may request adaptive equipment

Cal Poly employees with disabilities may request adaptive equipment or special services which will assist them in the performance of their duties. Any faculty or staff member with a verifiable impairment is eligible.

During each of the past two years, over $6,000 in equipment has been purchased for the use of employees. Items have included a closed circuit print enlarger, an adjustable desk chair, automobile hand controls, wheelchair desks, an elevating wheelchair, and adapted laboratory equipment.

In previous years, magnification devices, a speech amplification unit, a special library carrel for wheelchair users, and a talking calculator have been provided.

Items funded on other CSU campuses have included orthopedic chairs, large-print typewriters, air purifiers, and porta-printers. In addition, funds have been used for the employment of readers, notetakers, and research assistants for staff members.

Requests will be considered only for full-time permanent state employees, and verification of disability must be provided. Only items costing more than $100 will be funded.

Requests for auxiliary aids, such as notetakers and readers, must be submitted to the CSU Chancellor's Office by Aug. 23, and equipment requests are due Sept. 15. Therefore, campus employees with disabilities or their supervisors should contact Smiley Wilkins of the Personnel Office (ext. 2062) or Harriet Clendenen of Disabled Student Services (ext. 1395) as soon as possible for information and guidelines for specific requests.

New trust fund will benefit Ornamental Horticulture Dept.

A new endowment established in the name of a former student of the Ornamental Horticulture Department will help provide much-needed teaching materials and equipment for the department's instructional program.

With a current balance of $10,453, the Gary Tibbetts Memorial Trust Fund was established by Donald and Mary Tibbetts of Laguna Beach in memory of their late son, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident near San Luis Obispo in October 1983.

Gary Tibbetts had just begun his second quarter as an ornamental horticulture student at Cal Poly after having transferred from Saddleback College.

Dates for two major beef cattle sales announced

The dates for two significant events for those in the beef cattle business in California have been announced by the Animal Sciences and Industry Department.

Both the Cal Poly Field Day and 29th annual Cal Poly Test Bull Sale, which is scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 7 and 8, and the Cal Poly and Friends Feeder Calf Sale on Saturday, Sept. 28, will take place in the Livestock Pavilion at the Beef Unit.

Cyber shut down

Please note the following change on the Cyber shutdown concerning administrative applications utilizing the Transaction Facility (TAF). TAF will not be operational from 6 pm tonight (Aug. 8) until 10 am, Aug. 14. The last overnight batch runs prior to the new installation must be submitted today. Questions should be directed to Computer Services, ext. 2966.
Faculty promotions announced

President Baker has announced promotion actions for two additional faculty members. Congratulations and appreciation were extended by Dr. Baker to: Patricia A. Saam (Food Science and Nutrition) - Professor, and Diane P. Michelfelder (Philosophy) - Associate Professor.

Emeritus title awarded to ten former employees

The honorary emeritus designation has been awarded to 10 former employees. Nine of those honored retired from university service in recent weeks and the 10th retired in 1983.

Recognition as an emeritus member of the faculty or staff is conferred on employees who have at least 15 years of service at the time they retire.

The former employees honored, the departments in which they last worked, and the years of their employment at Cal Poly are:

Fund drive launched by GrC

The Graphic Communication Department is undertaking a fund drive to ensure the continued growth and development of its graphic arts education programs.

The fund drive, to begin this summer, will culminate in the summer of 1986 with a major professional conference on graphic communications technology and management.

The conclusion of the fund drive and the conference will also commemorate the 40th anniversary of the department.

The drive's goal is to raise $1 million. The funds will be used exclusively for the graphic arts education development including physical plant improvements, equipment and supply acquisitions, faculty training, student scholarships, curriculum and laboratory improvements, and development of continuing education programs for industry.
