Jacobs elected head of alumni association

Sacramento attorney H. Vincent Jacobs has been elected international president of the Cal Poly San Luis Obispo Alumni Association. His two-year term began in April.

Joining Jacobs on the alumni association board of directors are immediate past president M. Richard Andrews of Santa Barbara; Robin Baldwin, Fresno, who will serve as vice president representing Northern California; R. James Cossidine, Los Angeles, Southern California vice president; and Owen L. Servatius, Atascadero, secretary-treasurer.

Jacobs, who practices domestic relations law with the firm of Hiroshima, Jacobs, and Webb, has served as vice president of the alumni association for the past four years. He graduated from Cal Poly in 1967 with a bachelor's degree in mathematics and was selected as the 1981 honored alumnus of Cal Poly's School of Science and Mathematics.

Trustees' actions

The Board of Trustees of The California State University took the following actions at its meeting May 26, 1982:

- Relected John F. O'Connell of San Francisco as Chairman of the Board of Trustees for 1982-83.
- Elected Mrs. Lynne Myers of Beverly Hills, as Vice Chair of the Board of Trustees for 1982-83. She succeeds Michael R. Peevey of San Francisco.
- Amended Title 5 to permit campuses on year-round operation (Hayward, Los Angeles, Pomona, and San Luis Obispo) to allow in exceptional circumstances a faculty member to have two extra quarter assignments (rather than one, which is present policy) in three years, to meet the need to staff certain disciplines such as engineering.
- Approved Arendt/Mosher/Grant/Pedersen/Phillips as 1982-83 consulting architects for Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo.

W. Ann Reynolds named CSU Chancellor

W. Ann Reynolds, provost of Ohio State University, has been named chancellor of the 19-campus California State University. She will succeed Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, who is retiring after 20 years as chancellor.

A native of Coffeyville, Kansas, she is a widely published scholar in developmental biology. She earned an undergraduate degree in biology and chemistry at Kansas State Teachers College, Emporia, and two advanced degrees in zoology at the University of Iowa.

She began her teaching career in the biology department at Ball State University, and then moved to the anatomy faculty at the University of Illinois College of Medicine. She was named provost at Ohio State in 1979.

A developmental biologist who has specialized in fetal growth and nutrition, Reynolds is an associate fellow of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

The new chancellor has two children -- a 14-year-old daughter, and a 10-year-old son.

The California State University enrolled 319,000 students in regular classes last fall. Another 129,700 students attended nonstate funded extended education programs and summer sessions. The system has 18,700 faculty. Its budget is about $1 billion.

Graduation Saturday for 3,759 candidates

Diplomas of graduation will be conferred on 3,759 candidates when Cal Poly holds its 76th annual commencement at 10:30 am on Saturday, June 12, in Mustang Stadium on the university campus.

Class offered in teaching effectiveness

To provide professional development opportunities for faculty and staff members, the Education Department is offering a course for maintaining teaching effectiveness. The three-unit course, Maintaining Instructor Effectiveness: Techniques and Strategies for More Effective Teaching (ED 581-01), will assist instructors in maximizing learning, promoting motivation to learn, and increasing speed and effectiveness of learning.

The class will be taught by Don Maas (Education) on Wednesdays from 8 am to 11 am during the Fall Quarter. Enrollment will be limited to the first twenty faculty/staff members who contact Jan Walker (Education) at Ext. 1251. Persons desiring additional information concerning the course may contact Dr. Maas at Ext. 2667. This course may be taken on the fee waiver program.

Kranzdorf will attend seminar at Yale

Dr. Richard Kranzdorf (Political Science) has earned a National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) grant for a summer seminar at Yale University.

He will attend an eight-week seminar on Africa and African states in the Modern World. It will be led by Dr. William Foltz of Yale’s political science faculty.

A member of the Cal Poly faculty since 1971, Dr. Kranzdorf taught journalism at the University of Nigeria while he was in the Peace Corps. He earned an undergraduate degree from the University of Pennsylvania and two advanced degrees from University of California, Los Angeles.

At Cal Poly, Dr. Kranzdorf teaches a course on African politics. In addition, he has presented courses on international relations, the politics of global survival, minority group politics, comparative politics, and politics through films.

Robert Rodin’s publications

Reprints of “Ethnobotany of the Kwanyama Ovambos, South West Africa, 1973,” by the late Robert J. Rodin, who was a professor at Cal Poly from 1953-1977, are available by sending a note to Elva B. Rodin, Biological Sciences Department. This is a part of National Geographic Society Research Reports, Vol. 13 (1971, 1972). Rodin’s book, “The Ethnobotany of the Kwanyama-speaking Ovambos, Namibia,” will be published later this year by the Missouri Botanical Gardens, St. Louis, Missouri.

Summer schedule for Cal Poly Report

Cal Poly Report will shift to an alternate week schedule beginning this week. Summer publication dates for the newsletter are: June 10, 24; July 8, 22; Aug. 5, 19; Sept. 2 and 13 (Fall Conference). Copy deadline for each issue is one week prior to publication date.
Outstanding teachers for CSU selected

Faculty members from CSU, Dominguez Hills and CSU, Long Beach, have been named 1982 Outstanding Professors by the Board of Trustees of The California State University.

The designees, announced by Board Chairman John F. O'Connell and Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke, are Professor of Comparative Literature Roberta Markman of the Long Beach campus and Music Professor Richard Bunger of Dominguez Hills.

Sponsored throughout the 19-campus system by the trustees, the awards program has honored two faculty members each year since 1964. Designees are recommended to the chancellor and trustees by a special committee organized by the CSU Academic Senate.

Annually since the program's start, the California State University Foundation has awarded $1,000 to each Outstanding Professor. The awards have been made possible by a donation from the Joseph M. Schenck Foundation of Los Angeles arranged for by former Trustee Gregson Bautzer.

Professors Bunger and Markman will be officially honored by the Board of Trustees later this year.

Giuffrida will speak at ROTC ceremony

The director of the U.S. Federal Emergency Management Agency will participate in the U.S. Army ROTC Commissioning Ceremony being planned for 2 pm on Saturday, June 12, at Cal Poly.

Luis O. Giuffrida, whose son, John, is among the 23 students scheduled to receive second lieutenant's commissions during the ceremony in the Cal Poly Theatre, will deliver the principal address.

Giuffrida, who began his present assignment last year, spent 10 years before that as a San Luis Obispo resident and as director of the California Specialized Training Institute.

Located nearby at Camp San Luis Obispo, CSTI has achieved an international reputation for its training program in the management of natural disasters, terrorist attacks, and civil emergencies.

As a commissioned officer in the U.S. Army and U.S. Marine Corps before that, Giuffrida attained the rank of colonel and served in a number of command, management, and academic positions in Korea and Europe, as well as in the U.S.

Among his assignments during his military career were tours of duty as an instructor and writer for the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, commanding officer of the Combat Developments Command Military Police Agency, and director of advanced individual training for army military police.

Giuffrida has also been an adviser on terrorism and emergency management for the Office of the Governor of California and worked with anti-terrorism agencies throughout the U.S. and other free-world nations.

Always a voluntary activity, the Army ROTC program at Cal Poly was established in 1952 and commissioned its first officers in 1955. It had an enrollment of 155 men and women students this academic year. It commissioned its 1,000th second lieutenant last August.

The program is an integral part of the university's Military Science Department, which provides its students with military leadership and management courses, as well as courses providing an awareness of the heritage and role of the armed forces in national defense.

Computer handbook

If you are contemplating the purchase of a micro or mini computer, the Cal Poly (State) Purchasing Office, Adm. 122, has the handbook “Guidelines for Acquisition of Micro/Mini Computer Systems in Administration” available. This handbook, recently prepared by the Administrative Advisory Committee for Computing (AACC), is intended to aid prospective users of micro/mini-based computer systems for administrative applications in the selection of equipment, software and related products, service and maintenance.

Recently approved legislation (SB 653) has delegated local purchasing authority to the University Purchasing Office in the procurement of all equipment. Authority has been granted within this legislation in the purchase of EDP related equipment up to $75,000 per transaction.

In addition to providing a copy of the handbook, the Purchasing Office can assist in reviewing specifications and recommend changes and advise on additional requirements as well as provide assistance in the approval process for purchases of EDP related equipment.

Alumni officers
"One of our major thrusts in the years ahead will be to remind all alums of the importance of supporting higher education in California," Jacobs said. "We can’t get by on tax dollars alone. Not only will we be looking for financial solutions, we will ask Cal Poly alums to contact their legislators about the critical needs of our university."

Baldwin is an independent fee appraiser and owner of Robin Baldwin Appraisers of Fresno. He earned his bachelor’s degree in animal husbandry from Cal Poly in 1953. He is a member of the Fresno Rotary Club.

Considine, a 1968 graduate of Cal Poly’s business administration program, was selected in 1975 as distinguished alumnus from the university’s School of Business and Social Sciences. After receiving his master’s degree in business administration from University of Southern California in 1968, he joined the Cal Poly faculty for three years before taking his current position as senior vice president of Ryder Stillwell Inc., Los Angeles.

A Cal Poly management professor, Servatius was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Servatius started working for Cal Poly in 1947 as secretary to the president before earning his bachelor’s degree in business in 1959. He joined the business faculty later that year.

Andrews, a 1956 Cal Poly social sciences graduate, had been international president of the alumni association since 1978. He is vice president of investments for Paine-Webber-Jackson & Curtis in Santa Barbara.

The Cal Poly Alumni Association, with more than two dozen local and special-interest chapters across the state and nation, serves more than 15,000 members. The association is Cal Poly’s link between former students and the university.
