Cal Poly honors distinguished teachers

Three faculty members were recognized as Cal Poly's "distinguished teachers" for 1981-82 during the 76th Commencement Ceremony on Saturday, June 12.

Honored were Dr. Christina A. Bailey of the Chemistry Department; Dr. Kenneth E. Ozawa, Physics Department; and Dr. Thomas L. Richards, Biological Sciences Department.

Each received a Distinguished Teacher Award and a $100 check made possible by the Armistead B. Carter Endowment Fund.

Selections for the teaching awards program are made by an Academic Senate Committee, which acts on nominations from students, faculty, and other members of the university community.

The committee's selections are based on in-depth interviews by its members and on classroom visits.

Dr. Bailey joined the Cal Poly faculty on a full-time basis in 1978 after having taught at Paso Robles High School for two years and been a part-time member of the university faculty. She is a graduate of College of St. Elizabeth (N.J.); Cal Poly; and Purdue University, where she earned her doctorate.

A member of the university's faculty since 1963, Dr. Ozawa holds degrees from John Carroll University (Ohio) and Kansas State University, where he earned his doctorate. Before coming to Cal Poly, he taught at John Carroll.

Dr. Richards, who formerly was a research assistant at California State University, Long Beach, and the Darling Marine Laboratory at Walpole, Maine, is a graduate of Cal State Long Beach and University of Maine, where he earned his doctorate. He joined the Cal Poly faculty in 1969.

The new distinguished teachers join a group of 55 present and former members of the university's faculty who have been honored since the Distinguished Teachers Awards Program was established in 1963.

Cal Poly President will visit Taiwan

President Warren J. Baker will lead a delegation of five state college and university presidents to Taiwan July 2 through 11.

The invitation was extended to the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) by the Ministry of Education of Taiwan (Republic of China). The Cal Poly president is a member of AASCU's Board of Directors.

Dr. Baker's visit in Taiwan is being preceded by a June 13 through July 2 stay in Japan, where he is heading a cultural exchange group being sponsored by Educational Development International and Pacific English Language Institute.

Based in San Luis Obispo, PELI is an educational organization that provides English language instruction for people throughout the world and cultural exchange opportunities between people living in the Central Coast area of California and those residing in Japan.

Also planned during the Cal Poly president's stay in Japan is a series of visits with chief executives of Japanese universities and manufacturing and agricultural firms.

The purpose of Dr. Baker's Taiwan visit is to strengthen the educational and cultural linkages between AASCU member institutions and colleges and universities in Taiwan.

The delegation will review developing trends in higher education in both countries with specific reference to the expansion of cooperative international education programs.

In addition to the Cal Poly president, members of the AASCU delegation to Taiwan are: President Clifford J. Craven, State University College at Oneonta (N.Y.); President Bill J. Franklin, Texas A & I University; Chancellor Fred J. Taylor, University of Arkansas at Monticello; and President F. Kent Wyatt, Delta State University (Miss.).

Morris reassigned to Education Department

Dr. Don Morris, head of the university's Extended Education program for the past 13 years, has requested assignment to the Education Department faculty effective with the Fall Quarter 1982.

A Cal Poly graduate, Dr. Morris served the campus as director of college housing and personnel officer from the late 1950's to the early 1960's. After completing his doctorate in higher education administration and adult education at UCLA, Dr. Morris rejoined Cal Poly in 1969 as the first administrator of the Extended Education program.

Over the years the program has grown in scope to include over 10,000 participants this past year.

Counseling clinic will emphasize 'concern'

"Concerned counseling" will be emphasized this summer by Cal Poly’s free Counseling and Guidance Clinic, said Dr. Marilyn Rice, director of the clinic. Dr. Rice (Education) said the clinic will provide to the public personal, couple, and family counseling, stressing genuine concern by the graduate student counselors.

Because the student counselors “don’t spend eight hours a day listening to patients,” Dr. Rice feels they are able to really care about people and their relational difficulties. The graduate student counselors are completing requirements for their master's degrees in education with specializations in counseling and guidance. The clinic’s staff is under the direct supervision of counseling and guidance faculty.

Dr. Rice, who explained that the clinic also offers counseling in such areas as decision making, career planning, personal growth, and self understanding, said its clientele consists almost entirely of Central Coast area residents.

Information about counseling services can be obtained by telephoning Ext. 1251 and leaving a message. Dr. Rice will return calls. Telephone interviews will be used to determine whether the clinic’s student counselors are equipped to handle individual cases.

Engineering students win regional honors

The Cal Poly chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers is one of two chapters in the society’s Pacific Southwestern Region that have been recognized as outstanding student chapters.

Civil engineering students Laura Luce, Ken Engstrom, and Al Rodriguez, along with faculty adviser Dr. M.L. Anderson, received an engraved plaque on behalf of the club during an awards dinner held recently on board the Queen Mary in Long Beach.

The awards dinner marked the completion of the Cal Poly student group’s third year as a chapter in ASCE’s Pacific Southwestern Region, which includes universities in Southern California and Arizona.

1983 Poly Royal officers picked

New officers to serve during the 1982-83 academic year have been picked for the Poly Royal Executive Board.

Elected recently, board members are students at the university who plan, promote, schedule, and administer Poly Royal, a two-day campus event known as the largest university gala this side of the Rocky Mountains.

The new officers are: General Superintendent: Chris Seymour, a senior political science major from Fresno, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Seymour;
Vice-superintendent: Brian Ling, a senior industrial technology major from Santa Rosa, son of Don and Carol Ling;
Secretary: Karen Pielop, a junior chemistry major from Riverdale, daughter of Vernon and Laverne Pielop;
Treasurer: Patrick McNerney, a sophomore construction major from Campbell, son of John and Alyce McNerney;
Arrangements: Stacey Lusky, a senior home economics major from Torrance, daughter of Joe and Idalee Najar;
School Events: Rick Gambril, a senior crop science major from Arroyo Grande, son of Bud Gambril and Sue Noboli;
Queen’s Chair: Karen Devor (1982 Poly Royal Queen), a senior physical education major from Blythe, daughter of Floie and Norma Barrow;
Publicity: Diane Notley, a senior ornamental horticulture major from Terra Bella, daughter of John and Elaine Notley;
Security and Transportation: Cliff Young, a senior architecture major from Saratoga, son of Harry and Mary Young;
Carnival: Mark D. Braun, a senior civil engineering major from Visalia, son of Jerry and Barbara Braun;
Special Events: Shelley Adams, a sophomore agricultural management major from Hughson, daughter of Don and Shirlee Adams.

The officers, who serve for one year, are responsible for the annual Poly Royal, which normally attracts some 100,000 people for the two-day April event.

June payday

June salary warrants for faculty and staff of the university will be available at 3 pm on Wednesday (June 30). Warrants batched by department may be picked up at Cashier’s Office, Adm. 131-E, and those picked up on an individual basis may be picked up in the Business Affairs Division Office, Adm. 114, after that time.

Agricultural teachers conference at Cal Poly

The 62nd annual summer conference of the California Agricultural Teachers’ Association and Skills Week for teachers of vocational agriculture is currently underway at Cal Poly having started Monday (June 21) and will end Saturday (June 26).

The conference was held the first three days, followed by the skills sessions, Thursday through Saturday noon.

The conference featured regional meetings, alumni get-togethers, curriculum planning and election of statewide officers.

On Wednesday, June 23, the traditional Administrators Luncheon was held on campus for school administrators and leaders of vocational agriculture departments.

The Skills Week portion of the program this year features instruction in 22 courses, ranging from computers and agricultural communications and sales to advanced welding and gamebird management.

Reception for Hollings

Alicemae Hollings, Cashier for the Foundation, located in the University Union, will retire on June 29. A reception honoring her will be held in the Staff Dining Room B on Tuesday, June 29, from 2 pm to 4 pm. All faculty, staff, and friends are invited to join in wishing her well in her retirement.

Teacher effectiveness

To provide professional development opportunities for faculty and staff members, the Education Department is offering a course for maintaining teaching effectiveness. The three-unit course, Maintaining Instructor Effectiveness: Techniques and Strategies for More Effective Teaching (Ed 581-01), will assist instructors in maximizing learning, promoting motivation to learn, and increasing speed and effectiveness of learning.

The class will be taught by Don Maas (Education) on Wednesdays from 4 pm to 7 pm during the Fall Quarter in Engineering West 238. Enrollment will be limited to the first twenty faculty/staff members who contact Jan Walker (Education) at Ext. 1251. Persons desiring additional information concerning the course may contact Dr. Maas at Ext. 2667. This course may be taken on the fee waiver program.
Position Vacancies

Vacant faculty and staff positions at California Polytechnic State University and the Cal Poly Foundation are announced in this column and are posted outside the respective personnel offices. Contact those offices (University: Adm. 110, 805-546-2236—Foundation: University Dining Complex, 805-546-1121) for applications and additional position details. Both Cal Poly and the Foundation are subject to all laws governing affirmative action and equal employment opportunity. All interested persons are encouraged to apply.
