Non-retention case heard by Kennedy

Pres. Robert E. Kennedy promised a group of 30 students, "I won't drop it," in regard to the non-retention case of an instructor in the Biological Sciences Department.

Tuesday's two-hour conference between the students and the administration ended with the scientists' plea by the students for the retention of Dr. William Dean.

"I don't think there is anyone at this school more concerned," Kennedy stated in reference to the faculty evaluation heads. He added, "I don't like the idea of putting people on trial."

Barry Williams, one of five girls backing Dr. Dean, stated, "We want Dr. Dean back."

She said that Dean has already submitted his resignation, but if he is offered his position back, "he will consider it."

Miss Williams then read a letter of recommendation dated June 3, 1969, from an associate professor of the University of Arizona, where Dean had taught previously. Directed to Texas Technological College, the letter read, "Williams concluded, Dr. Dean is one of the finest professors with whom I have had the pleasure of working. Both as a person and as a research investigator, he is tops."

Kennedy talked of the problems encountered when screening prospective instructors. "With recruitment and selection we are as careful as we can be."

In reference to an article appearing in Tuesday's Mustang Daily, regarding Dean, he stated, "One of the points are that people who don't rock the boat."

To this, the 30 chorused, "It's true."

"But we are trying to do upgrade the faculty of this college and the best faculty possible for the long-run." He stressed the importance of working with his colleagues and the faculty.

Two important criteria of how good an instructor is, are "the way he gets along with his colleagues and how effective he is as a teacher."

Barbara Koven, another of the five girls, retorted, "What is more important—colleague-to-colleague relationship or instructor-to-student?"

Dr. Glenn Noble, head of the Biological Sciences Department, answered her question, "I try to take an overview picture. I have never evaluated an instructor without talking to many— and I mean many students."

This was met with unapreciative groans from a few students. Dr. Clyde Fisher, dean of the School of Science and Mathematics, replied, "I reason that the statement that anything has never been done about the cases."

Kennedy then felt out the difficulties to respond by asking them what they thought of Dean.

"On a five-point scale, A, B, C, D, F, would you give him a B?"

A student replied, "A 'B' or better—I am getting the material I want to get out of the course." Eva Kobed, an Animal Science major, told Kennedy she went to one of Dean's classes, curious to see how his teaching methods were. "I really realized he was a fantastic instructor."

Another student smiled, and added: "Dr. Noble raised him superior—that indicates he is a good teacher."

Kennedy put the lid on the meeting, stating that he just put myself between a rock and a hard place and if I do this, I don't know how I will handle it, but I won't drop it at this point."

Student judiciary in flux?

Chief Justice Michael Jones defines a point of law to the Judiciary.

Justice Michael Jones is responsible for calling and presiding over all meetings and hearings of the Judiciary.

The young four-year arch- architecture student has several other duties and responsibilities. He considers his greatest responsibility to be keeping the Student Judiciary a viable force at this college.

The disciplinary situation at state college has been radically changed over the past few months. In July the trustee Committee on Educational Justice passed a resolution that would eliminate student and faculty participation in student disciplinary procedures.

The Trustees and Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke established a hearing officer to sit as a one man judge and jury at each college.

The hearing officer is to be an attorney who has been a member of the California State Bar for at least five years.

This college now has a special Hearing Committee to hear the Student Judiciary include shoplifting, parking violations, petty theft, illegal use of parking stickers, malicious mischief and other violations of ASI regulations.

Jones believes the Student Judiciary is beneficial here because "students understand other students and are faced with the same dilemmas and tribulations of campus life." Voting members of the judicial body is composed of students only.

The first-year law student and his associate justice, in a case, go into a closed session to discuss matters relating to the case and from the student of their decision.

Jones emphasised that the decision is only a "recommendation to the Dean of Students, but is usually always upheld. The decision may be appealed through the Dean of Students or the President of the College, "the Chief Justice explained.

After being personally involved with Student Judiciary for three years, the decorated Vietnam War veteran feels that the system is an excellent method of being heard by a peer group of students.

Jones believes students will be at a disadvantage under the newly proposed system. "I believe the Hearing Officer concept is a derivative of the previous inadequacies of the student hearing at San Francisco and San Fernando Valley State."

(Continued from page 1) because of the actions of a few, we are all going to suffer whether our campus was involved or not. "I can understand establishing a certain emergency procedure that may slightly alter present methods, but to establish a new method that is primarily structured for speed and efficiency is ridiculous." Jones is an elected Chief Justice frustrated and trying to find out how the Student Judiciary will fit into the new disciplinary structure at this college.

FREE CONCERT, CHAMBER MUSIC

The Chamber Orchestra will present its first concerts of the 1970-1971 music season in the campus Theater today and tomorrow, Nov. 13-14.

Featured soloist David Mallory, presently a member of the Ohio State College faculty, will join the Senesmer chamber orchestra for its performance of J. S. Bach's Violin Concerto in A Minor.

The Thursday concert, scheduled as part of the College hour Concert series, will start at 11 am, and the Friday program, at 8:30 pm. Admission will be free and the public is invited to attend the programs.

David Mallory

as Harry Partisch, Frank House, and Leslie Kaufman, all former concertmasters of major symphony orchestras.

Says Clifton Swanson, conductor of the campus orchestra, "Mallory is an enthusiastic performer of chamber music who has a particular interest in 20th Century music for the violin." According to Swanson, Beethoven's Egmont Overture, Paigue for a Small Orchestra and Hallowe'en by Charles Ives, and Ralph Vaughan Williams' Fantasia on Greensleeves, will also be on the program for these concerts.

Problems confronting college students sometimes seem insurmountable. For instance; the daily ten mile trek to class from your parking space next to the swine until or your three unit class lead you created at a disastrous registration and those male-female relationships that offer all sorts of cute little complications.

But one problem has plagued the collegial since college classes first started planting Ivy in the kitchen.

Proof Breakfast."

The items that you will need for th

*first adventure will include:

1 pound hamburger

(or reasonable facsimile)

1/4 cup brown sugar

4 teaspoons prepared

mustard

1 cup beef broth

1/4 cup sour cream

TOTAL COST: 60 cents per person. You begin this one by placing enough butter (margarine for us college students) in a skilet to coat the bottom. Then saute (that means cook it in the butter or margarine) 4-ounces slices of beef

tenderloin. If the budget demands ground beef, just treat

it tenderly, make four ounce portions in the shape of loins and head on. Sprinkle the steaks while they cook with salt and pepper to taste. If any students who claim Italian ancestry by rights genealogically and not by wine consumption, they may wop up their recipe by adding a little garlic and onion salt.

After the steaks have cooked to your taste, pour one-half cup mustard over the steaks and

and you're ready to chow down.

Serve with straight orange juice,

fried eggs, hash brown potatoes,

and toast.

The Colt football squad was forced to play catch-up football from the opening kickoff last Saturday afternoon in Berkeley, and eventually ran out of time as they went down to defeat 38-15 at the hands of the University of California at Berkeley, Bear-Cube.

On the opening kickoff, tackle Blane Warhurst of the Bear-Cube, took the ball on his own 12 yard line and raced straight through the middle of the Colt kickoff team, 88 yards for a touchdown, and a quick 74 yard lead. The Cubs’ quarterback Brad Brian led his team to their second touchdown late in the first quarter, moving 54 yards in 13 plays which was capped by Brian’s one yard back to the TD. With the extra point the Cubs led 14-0.

Brian scored the third Cub TD late in the half to increase the Colts lead to 20-0. The Colts started to move after a Berkeley punt. A 14 yard pass from quarter back Steve Byrd to Matt Cavanaugh for a 17 yarder from Byrd to Chris Dluhak netted the Colts their first score. The Colts trailed at the half, 20-7.

Midway through the third quarter, Warhurst burst over left tackle and scrambled 63 yards for Cal’s final six points. A two point conversion put them out in front 30-7.

The Colts last score came on a 64 yard drive that featured passes of 15 and 35 yards from Byrd to Russ Grimes. Halfback Rick Bambahger took it in from three yards out. Byrd hit Cavanaugh for a two point conversion.

It will be a battle royale tonight when the Mustang football eleven of coach Joe Harper take on the Cal Poly Titans in the deciding battle for the league championship.

The Mustangs, who have been unable to win on the road this year, will have to travel to Anaheim Stadium to play this one at 8 p.m.

The Titans in only their first year in Inter-collegiate competition have crested un­suspecting opponents with less than accommodating hospitality.

The Titans have bullied their way to a 6-4-1 winners record overall this season and lead the Califorin Collegiate Athletic Association with a perfect 3-0 slate.
