Faculty/Staff parking permits now available

James R. Landreth (Director of Business Affairs) has announced that Summer Quarter student and faculty/staff permits are now available. Annual staff permits should be available on July 3. Pending the delivery/sale of annual permits, enforcement of faculty/staff parking will be based on honoring permits which were valid during Spring Quarter. Faculty/Staff who are on payroll withholding for the payment of parking fees (12 month plan) and others waiting to purchase an annual permit for the 1978-79 parking year, who do not have a Spring Quarter permit will be furnished a temporary Summer Quarter permit (valid through July 7) by the University Cashier on request.

Peace Corps assistantship

Under the terms of the University's Strategy Contract with the Peace Corps, a one year, one-half time position will be offered for the purpose of maintaining the Cal Poly Peace Corps Liaison Office. The assistantship will be offered this fall to a returned Peace Corps volunteer studying agriculture at Cal Poly. Interested students should make contact with Dale Rachmeler, Peace Corps Coordinator, at the liaison office, Ext. 1189.

AGRICULTURAL TEACHERS GATHER FOR CATA CONFERENCE

Over 500 high school and community college agriculture teachers from throughout the state are expected to be in attendance when the 59th annual Conference of the California Agricultural Teachers Association (CATA) opens on Monday (June 26) at Cal Poly. "A Professional Commitment" is the theme for this year's conference, which will run through Friday (June 30). The conference is sponsored by Cal Poly, the Division of Occupational Education of the California Community Colleges, the California Bureau of Agricultural Education, and CATA.

The week-long meeting of the California agricultural educators will begin at 6:30 am on Monday (June 26) with the traditional breakfast for new teachers hosted by Donald E. Wilson, chief of the State Bureau of Agricultural Education. A general session of CATA delegates will follow with association President Kenneth Harris of Hughson presiding. Cal Poly President Robert E. Kennedy will deliver the welcoming address at the opening session.

The annual Administrator's Day will be held on Wednesday (June 28) featuring a luncheon hosted by President Kennedy and Howard Brown (Dean, Agriculture and Natural Resources). The luncheon will honor administrators of California's public secondary schools and community colleges.

The CATA conference will also include professional improvement sessions for teachers, an idea show for teachers to share their innovative ideas for classroom instruction, a farm show featuring services and supplies useful to agricultural programs, specialized meetings for secondary and community college teachers, and social and recreational activities. Planned for the evening of Wednesday (June 28) is an awards banquet recognizing "teachers of excellence."

New officers for 1978-79 will be elected at the closing session of the CATA conference on Friday (June 30). The CATA conference will follow the annual CATA Skills Week for agriculture teachers scheduled for Tuesday through Saturday (June 20-24) also on the Cal Poly campus. The agriculture teachers will have the opportunity to upgrade their skills during the week in such fields as fitting and showing of livestock, landscape design, artificial insemination, wildlife management, meat processing, greenhouse management, plant and soil analysis, and basic welding.

Architecture associate dean sought

J. Handel Evans (Associate Dean, Architecture and Environmental Design) will resign his position, effective Aug. 15, in order to move to San Jose State University as associate executive vice president. A search has been initiated for a replacement.

All full-time, tenured faculty members in the School of Architecture and Environmental Design who are interested in applying for the associate dean position, which will be filled from within the university, should make application in writing to George J. Hasslein (Dean, Architecture and Environmental Design) with copies sent to Hazel J. Jones (Vice President for Academic Affairs) and President Robert E. Kennedy. Those who indicate interest will be provided with additional information about the duties and responsibilities of the position.

The school council, which at this time consists of the dean, the five acting department heads, and a faculty representative, will review the list of candidates and indicate the preference of that group. The associate dean works closely with the dean and department heads as well as with the academic affairs staff and the academic vice president.

The recommendation(s) of the school council will be forwarded via the dean and academic vice president to the president with appropriate evaluation. The application period will remain open until July 7. Review of applications will be processed by the school council not later than Aug. 1, and appointment by the president will be made on or before Aug. 15.
Cal Poly in the news

Cal Poly has been featured in a number of newspapers, periodicals, and magazines recently. Among them are:

- The May 1978 issue of Plant Facilities has an article on the opening of the Cal Poly-designed and constructed solar dehydrator near Fresno, California.
- An article on the same project, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy, was also featured in the spring issue of SunSweet Standard.
- The solar dehydrator which will be used to produce raisins, dried figs, and other fruit was the subject of an article in the May 1978 issue of P G AND E Progress published by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and distributed with utility bills.
- Harmon Toone, retired Dairy and Poultry Science department head, was featured in a major article in the March 1978 issue of Dairy Magazine. The article addressed Toone's 25-year career at Cal Poly.
- The World of Rodeo featured an article about Cal Poly rodeo team member Cindy Van Horn in its May 10 issue. The article spoke favorably of Cal Poly's men's and women's rodeo teams.
- Dean George Hasslein of the School of Architecture and Environmental Design was commended in the March issue of Architectural Cost and Data for the education award he received from the California Council of The American Institute of Architects.

Two political science faculty members focus on judicial reform

The spring 1978 issue of the State Court Journal, published by the National Center for State Courts, features a lead article by two Cal Poly faculty members, John H. Culver and Randal L. Cruikshanks (Political Science).

Titled "Judicial Misconduct: Bench Behavior and the New Disciplinary Mechanisms," the article examines the effectiveness of procedures modeled after the California Commission on Judicial Qualifications.

The article evaluates traditional procedures for removal of judges (impeachment, recall and legislative recommendation to the governor), as well as election challenges of incumbents.

Stadium contract awarded to Boyd

Boyd Construction of San Luis Obispo has been awarded a contract for construction of two additions to Mustang Stadium. The Boyd bid for the project, which would add a total of 900 seats to the steel bleachers on the east side of the stadium, was $89,477. It was the lowest of three opened on June 8. Other bids were from Fred A. Walsh Inc. of South El Monte, $108,400, and J.H. Presley Co., Santa Margarita, $142,000. The contract calls for completion of the Mustang Stadium additions sometime prior to start of the 1979 football season. Dean

Keyboard experts lead symposium

The musical expertise of the Smithsonian Institution will be available to Central Coast music lovers during a forthcoming symposium in late July and August. Three members of the Smithsonian's Musical Instrument Division will present an unusual look into music history with the aid of several historic keyboard instruments.

James Weaver, associate curator at the Smithsonian and a well-known recording artist, will discuss the keyboard instruments used by Mozart and perform on an early Viennese pianoforte during the five-day meeting. Joining Weaver will be Helen Hollis, author of historic books and Smithsonian publications on early keyboard instruments, and J. Scott Odell, Smithsonian's chief of instrument conservation and restoration.

Weaver, who will also perform as a soloist during the annual San Luis Obispo Mozart Festival in August, has recorded on Nonsuch, Cambridge, and Smithsonian records. A copy of the Smithsonian's 1795 Viennese fortepiano will be brought from Washington, D.C., for Weaver's performance of piano works by Mozart and Haydn. Other historic pianos from Cal Poly's early piano restoration project will be heard and seen in exhibit. These include pianos dating 1780, 1792, and 1816 and other early 19th-century piano which were the type used by Haydn, Mozart, and Beethoven.

The symposium has received national attention with registered attendants coming from Ohio, South Carolina, Kansas, Maryland, Virginia, and the Washington, D.C., area. Limited reservations are being accepted through June. The symposium is sponsored by Cal Poly's Music Department and partially supported by funds from the California Arts Council.
Opening gala for California Puppet Theater

Civic and cultural leaders of the Central California Coast will be invited guests at an opening-night performance on Saturday (July 1) celebrating establishment of the California Puppet Theater at Cal Poly. The premiere performance also will be open to the public. It will be one of 40 in the first season of the California Puppet Theater. Seven different productions will be presented during July and August.

The non-profit venture, presented by Cal Poly, will pay its own way through ticket sales. Any profits will be used to expand the program in future years. The two-month repertory season will be the first of its kind in the United States, according to CPT managing and artistic director Michael Malkin (Speech Communication). "This summer San Luis Obispo will be a national showcase for the international art of puppet theater," he said. "Audiences will enjoy performances by master puppeteers with international reputations, directing a troupe of more than 40 assistants. We are delighted to be able to invite civic and cultural leaders to celebrate this new theatrical development with us on July 1."

Mike Malkin will appear on KS BY's "Viewpoint" to discuss puppets and the California Puppet Theater on Saturday [June 24] at 6 pm, Channel 6. The program will be rebroadcast at 7 am on Sunday, [June 25].

All CPT performances will be in the Cal Poly Theatre. There will be no increase in the regular $3 general admission price for the opening-night performance, Dr. Malkin added. Invited guests will include elected city and county officials. Representatives of leading civic and cultural groups also are being invited to the 8 pm performance, together with a representation from Vandenberg Air Force Base and other military installations in the area.

The two-month California Puppet Theater season will feature both sophisticated adult comedy and traditional folk tales. Some performances will be solo presentations by master puppeteers. Other will be complex productions, with dozens of backstage technicians manipulating a large on-stage puppet cast. The opening-night celebration will feature a solo performance by George Latshaw, a 25-year veteran who has directed puppet productions for both the NBC and CBS television networks. His motion-picture work includes the classic film "Lili" which featured Leslie Caron and Mel Ferrer. Latshaw will perform "A Show of Hands," a whimsical two-hour show that he has presented in major American theaters and several foreign countries.

Titles of the six other CPT productions are "The World of Sholom Aleichem," "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves," "Harlequin and Company," "Jack and the Beanstalk that Conquered the World," "Out to Lunch," and "Beauty and the Beast." Tickets for all performances are being sold at the Cal Poly Theatre box office between 10 am and 2:30 pm on weekdays, and at Ticketron and Mutual Ticket Agency outlets. Details on nightly performances and Saturday matinees during July and August can be obtained by calling Ext. 2030 or writing "California Puppet Theater, Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, Calif., 93407."

Summer Quarter hours for cashiers

Concurrent with revised Summer Quarter work hours (June 12 through Sep. 8), the university cashiers in the Administration Building will be open to serve students, faculty and staff from 8 am until 3:30 pm, Monday through Friday. During the Summer Quarter, payroll checks will be released at 3 pm on paydays.

AS1 honors Bertozzi and Riddell

Two university employees were honored by the graduating class of Cal Poly on Saturday, June 10 at their annual Senior Brunch. Dan Bertozzi Jr. (Business Administration) and Steven G. Riddell (Coordinator of Alumni Services) were honored in resolutions by the Program Council.

A member of the Cal Poly faculty since 1974, Dr. Bertozzi was cited for his service as an advisor to the campus chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management. He was particularly cited for "his excellent rapport with students" that "has led the Cal Poly SAM chapter to number one standing in the United States."

Riddell, alumni services coordinator since 1975 and a Cal Poly alumnus, was honored for having "been instrumental in keeping communications open between Cal Poly and Alumni." His citation credited him for his personal involvement with students and keeping "the Cal Poly spirit alive, both on campus and off." The received hand-illuminated certificates and honorary memberships in Cal Poly's Associated Students Inc.

Infant-Toddler lab school

The Child Development Department has openings in a new Infant-Toddler Lab School Program for the 1978-79 academic year (October-June). The program is designed for 16 children whose birthdates are between Jan. 1, 1977, and Sep. 1, 1978. It will be held at the Xanadu Lab in the university's Child Development Building on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 am to noon.

Child development students will serve as teachers and teacher aides in the program under the supervision of Fred Schultz (Child Development). Dr. England said a tuition of $20 for the quarter will cover materials for the program, which will open to children of students, faculty, and staff parents, as well as to children of other parents residing in the San Luis Obispo area.
