Reagan on education

Governor Reagan told members of this college’s chapter of the California College Republicans (CCR) last weekend, "It’s just a shame that for four years a false image has been built up in the mind that the State "has been cutting back on education."]

Reagan met personally with CCR representatives of this college in Sacramento, pointing out, "It is true that at both the college and university levels we haven’t been able to give them all they asked; but, actually the increase is far above the increase in enrollment.

Reagan stated, "I just don’t believe that government, in a time like this when the revenues are down and when this other problem of welfare and Medi-Cal is the one that is really robbing us of the resources we need to do so many things. I don’t believe that government can hold itself aloof and say ‘we don’t have to tighten our belt, we’ll just take more money from the taxpayers.’

"The state college and universities, the governor continued, “have been based on a quality—a prestige type of education. There is a limitation on enrollment based on your achievement in high school.

When you cannot continue to match the growth in size, then you have to make a choice. Do you want to lower the prestige and open the doors—or do you want to maintain the prestige? I believe we are coming to a point where we may have to review and say we’ll increase once again the level of entrance requirements.

"In the meantime, however," Reagan concluded, "I think we have pretty much convinced the universities and state colleges at the administrative level that there’s still room for some economics. While the rest of the state government has been trimming its sails and reducing itself in size and cost without reducing its efficiency, education has not kept pace with that.”

Cosby to narrate Black Heritage films

"Black History: Lost, Stolen or Strayed" is narrated by actor Bill Cosby. He conducts a guided tour through the history of racial attitudes and their effects on the African American. Cosby also reviews the achievements of black Americans omitted from history texts, the absence of Africa’s contributions to Western culture, and the changing role of the Hollywood black.

"The Black Soldier,” also narrated by Cosby, concerns the black participation in America’s armed forces. News footage from World Wars I and II, the Korean War and the Viet Nam War will be shown.

"Who Do You Kill” is a sociological study of an armed black couple in Harlem as they watch their child die from a rat bite.

Other events included in Black Heritage Week are:

- Tuesday—Speaker’s Forum, 6-9:30 p.m., College Theater
- Tuesday—Ethnic Film Screening, 7 p.m. to midnight, Engineering Auditorium
- Wednesday—Black Fashion Show, 8 p.m., College Theater
- Tuesday—Speaker’s Forum, 6-9:30 p.m., College Theater
- Saturday—Zebra Company, drama, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., College Theater.
Letters to the Editor

Ronnie Reagan does 'unjust act'?

Editor: Governor Ronnie Reagan is again doing an unjust act to the educational system of California. Not only is he asking UC and state college professors to teach more, but to teach without pay. In other words, instead of a professor teaching ten hours per week, which includes preparing for their lectures, making up exams, grading exams, etc., Reagan has asked that they now teach twelve hours a week. Besides their depression of an earned salary, they are deprived of a cost of living raise due to the spiraling inflation that we are in today. Besides this problem, the campuses will receive no money for new construction.

How may this educational system expand to accommodate more students, professors and ideas if we are limited by Sacramento and our supposedly helpful legislators?

We students, are going to suffer because of Reagan's tactics. The student-professor ratio for state colleges is jumping from 18.8:1 to an all time high of 18.8:1, "while expenditures per student will dip from $1,884 in the current year to $1,428 next year."

We must realize that our education is jeopardized if we are deprived of learning. The professors are going to work more without pay and without raises; we are now given less time with our professors; and there will not be a continuing trend of expansion if our schools, "educated and experienced," leaders in Sacramento continue this trend. I would say that it's time for Reagan to get it together.

Rod Millican

Editor: This letter concerns all of us here at Cal Poly. Our motto, "learn by doing," is an insult to everyone's intelligence, especially someone who doesn't attend this institution of higher learning.

The world is failing to pieces around us. Discrimination is practiced throughout the country. A war of imperialism is being fought by this country in Southeast Asia. Our leaders are telling us one thing and doing another. But do I hear any type of protest voices of dissatisfaction from the students of Cal Poly?

I know there is a small handful of both students and professors who are concerned and who openly voice their opinions. Are we really learning anything here at Cal Poly besides the three R's? There is a world outside of gates of Cal Poly, and we'll be living there someday. If we don't get our heads together and try to do something now, will we say or do anything when we get out of here? If this school keeps on going the way it's going now, I think that the motto should be changed to "learn and that's it."

Bob O'Connor

Senior project goes on show

One senior project and a display of some of the many scenes around the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources will be presented at the Tulare Farm Equipment Show on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Feb. 9, 10 and 11.

The show was prepared jointly by the campus chapter of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers and the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources. The senior project, prepared by Ron Rubin, features an agricultural solar heating unit.

The Tulare Farm Equipment Show is the largest display of agricultural machinery in California. It is sponsored annually by the University of California Extension Service and features thousands of row, field and tree crop farmers each year.

Agriculture students from this campus have attended the show each year since its beginning. Also attending the 1971 Tulare Farm Equipment Show from the campus are students from the Agency of International Development.

Synanon...

(Continued from page 1)

If everyone is sitting in a circle, they're all equal, because, as Rodman explained, "We're all born equal—some people are smarter than others."

In this circle, people open up themselves, as well as others, by expressing many points of view on each subject of conversation. Then it is up to each individual to take the information he has gathered and act on it.
Architectural Gallery and Critique room features interlocking display panels based on a Charles Eames design.

New look for old gallery

Whether you come from a long line of art gallery browsers or merely like to dabble in the sport, the Architectural Gallery Honorary Committee has taken on a new look.

Located off the Architecture patio, the Gallery has been put into a brand new look. The committee has also provided space for scheduled class critiques and formal seminars. According to John Bauermann, the Gallery plays an important instructional role in the way environmental designers are educated, yet provides work for public interest.

To give the room flexibility in arrangement panels based on a Charles Eames design were constructed under the Instruction of a student. These panels enable arrangement in an infinite variety of ways creating separate shows for the visitors.

The exhibits are changed weekly, so there is always something different, Bauermann added. The public is invited to visit the Gallery and critique room five days a week from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Crops club seeks girls

The Crops Club is currently on the prowl for prospective candidates in the annual Maid of the Garden contest. girls may be obtained on campus in Ag Building. In addition, the winner will receive a scholarship and a restaurant, but an endeavor in pleasing people.

Visiting dealer displays

A visiting manufacturer is putting up temporary display panels in the Architectural Gallery and Critique room. Interlocking display panels and a Charles Eames design will be a participant in the exhibition.

Architectural Gallery and Critique room features interlocking display panels based on a Charles Eames design.

New look for old gallery

Whether you come from a long line of art gallery browsers or merely like to dabble in the sport, the Architectural Gallery Honorary Committee has taken on a new look.

Located off the Architecture patio, the Gallery has been put into a brand new look. The committee has also provided space for scheduled class critiques and formal seminars. According to John Bauermann, the Gallery plays an important instructional role in the way environmental designers are educated, yet provides work for public interest.

To give the room flexibility in arrangement panels based on a Charles Eames design were constructed under the Instruction of a student. These panels enable arrangement in an infinite variety of ways creating separate shows for the visitors.

The exhibits are changed weekly, so there is always something different, Bauermann added. The public is invited to visit the Gallery and critique room five days a week from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Crops club seeks girls

The Crops Club is currently on the prowl for prospective candidates in the annual Maid of the Garden contest. girls may be obtained on campus in Ag Building. In addition, the winner will receive a scholarship and a restaurant, but an endeavor in pleasing people.

Visiting dealer displays

A visiting manufacturer is putting up temporary display panels in the Architectural Gallery and Critique room. Interlocking display panels and a Charles Eames design will be a participant in the exhibition.

Architectural Gallery and Critique room features interlocking display panels based on a Charles Eames design.
REVENGE IS SWEET

Fresno blitzed

by Bruce Albert

Before a home crowd of 1,500, the Mustang's basketball squad tripped up Fresno State, 80-81, Thursday night. The win was particularly satisfying for Neal Sinatra and his team as it avenged an earlier loss to the Talion City.

Once again the Mustangs extended their string of victories, the total now reaching five. The overall slate reads 11-8, seven of those victories being on the home floor.

The Mustangs found the action to be rough under the boards as the visiting Bulldogs controlled the rebounds, 61-48. The Mustangs balanced the scale, however, with a blazing 56 per cent shooting touch for the contest.

Despite taking only 56 shots in comparison to Fresno's 61 attempts, the home squad connected on a greater number of field goals.

DeeDee d'Autremont was the percentage leader from the floor, hitting each of his four attempts. The bulk of the Mustang's points, however, came at the hands of Billy Jackson. The sophomore sharpshooter headed the scoring with 24 points, connecting on a greater number of attempts than any other member.

The Mustangs had the benefit of nine double digit scorers, giving them the stamina to keep pace. For his efforts he received 18 points.

As a result their score dropped to 80-48. Fresno's Jerry Pender paced the overall scoring statistics with 14 points. The other was the fastbreaking team mate was able to join him in another steady performance.

Squaw Valley injured

Squaw Valley (UPI) — Five Skiers injured to the disappointment of many fans. Squaw Valley's 7'1" center, Neal McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. In the first half of its game it was Squaw Valley where the authorities said two persons were injured in a previous meeting, the Mustangs turned in a poor performance.

Throughout the game, Fresno had a higher rebounding average but were continually missing shots in the second half of play. As a result their score dropped rapidly while the Colts continued to add another 45 points to their side of the board.

To the disappointment of many fans, Fresno's 7'1" center, Neal McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. According toies, Fresno's 7'1" center, Neal McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. As a result their score dropped rapidly while the Colts continued to add another 45 points to their side of the board.

although the Colts failed to outscore the Mustangs in the first half of its game, the Mustangs had a higher rebounding average but were continually missing shots in the second half of play. As a result their score dropped rapidly while the Colts continued to add another 45 points to their side of the board.

Colts trip up Bullpups, improve record to 14-1

by Joan Corbett

Skip Williams led the Colt basketball squad to their fourth conference victory as they defeated Fresno State 86-48 Thursday evening. The victory boosted their overall record to 14-1.

After traveling to San Diego this past weekend they will move on to face UC Riverside and Cal Poly Pomona Friday and Saturday nights in the Men's Gym.

Only once during the first half did the Colts slip behind during a hard workout with the attacking Fresno team. Within a close range of each other, the teams battled to a half time score of 26-21.

Initiatives are expected to be strong under the boards as the visiting Bulldogs controlled the Melinda, 60-53. Fresno's Jerry Pender paced the overall scoring statistics with 14 points.

Throughout the game, Fresno had a higher rebounding average but were continually missing shots in the second half of play. As a result their score dropped rapidly while the Colts continued to add another 45 points to their side of the board.

Before a home crowd of 8,000, the Mustang's basketball squad tripped up Fresno State, 80-81, Thursday night. The win was particularly satisfying for Neal Sinatra and his team as it avenged an earlier loss to the Talion City.

Once again the Mustangs extended their string of victories, the total now reaching five. The overall slate reads 11-8, seven of those victories being on the home floor.

The Mustangs found the action to be rough under the boards as the visiting Bulldogs controlled the rebounds, 61-48. The Mustangs balanced the scale, however, with a blazing 56 per cent shooting touch for the contest.

Despite taking only 56 shots in comparison to Fresno's 61 attempts, the home squad connected on a greater number of field goals.

DeeDee d'Autremont was the percentage leader from the floor, hitting each of his four attempts. The bulk of the Mustang's points, however, came at the hands of Billy Jackson. The sophomore sharpshooter headed the scoring with 24 points, connecting on a greater number of attempts than any other member.

The Mustangs had the benefit of nine double digit scorers, giving them the stamina to keep pace. For his efforts he received 18 points.

As a result their score dropped to 80-48. Fresno's Jerry Pender paced the overall scoring statistics with 14 points. The other was the fastbreaking team mate was able to join him in another steady performance.

Squaw Valley injured

Squaw Valley (UPI) — Five Skiers injured to the disappointment of many fans. Squaw Valley's 7'1" center, Neal McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. According toies, Fresno's 7'1" center, Neal McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. McCoy, turned in a rather poor performance. As a result their score dropped rapidly while the Colts continued to add another 45 points to their side of the board.

Although the Colts failed to outscore the Mustangs in the first half of its game, the Mustangs had a higher rebounding average but were continually missing shots in the second half of play. As a result their score dropped rapidly while the Colts continued to add another 45 points to their side of the board.