Extradite nontoxic restriction

Editor:

I was happy to see that the Student Affairs Council and the Student Affairs Council and the can see no reason why the restrictions, however I think those restrictions have not been taken to help remedy the situation.

In 1986, a special committee chaired by Dean Chandler set forth policy guidelines for Mustang Daily. These guidelines banned the advertising for any "intoxicating beverage" as well as for "smoking products." Mustang Daily could advertise cigarettes and tobacco products, but their income could be stabilized and made higher, too.

The removal of these restrictions would also remedy another problem at the school. It is virtually impossible for other groups (I.e., Aggie Invitational) to sell advertising for special programs. Why? Mustang Daily receives almost the entire allotment of funds of many businesses in San Luis Obispo for college-oriented advertising. Mustang Daily's advertising restrictions were reduced; they would not have to rely on San Luis Obispo businesses for support, giving other groups a chance to solicit local advertising.

I strongly urge Publishers' Board to use its authority and remove these restrictions.

"Uglitude" ethic

Editor:

I see that Ray DeCroote of S.N.A.P. has attacked the Poly Royal Queen's Pageant because the珠三角的 viewpoint, otherwise known as the Puritan Ethic, holds that there is always an inner reality that is much more precious to the reality observed by the natural senses.

Perturbed parkers plea: pay the price or walk

by Carol Chadwick

It seems as though Chancellor Dumke and Governor Ronald Reagan's budget cuts are not only the problem common to the State College System. Finding places to park within campus space-takes while students and faculty are in class also seems to be of utmost concern.

For one reason, the automobile isn't satisfied with forcing green grass and trees under with the weight of tar and gravel, it feels an obligation to cause its own problems.

Convenience may be the name of the game at this college, but at Fresno State College over 1,000 cars must part off campus according to Chief D.F. Bambrick, State College Police. Some of these cars could be parked on campus, but "the owners are unwilling to pay $3 a semester to park as long as street parking exists."

"Parking facilities now consist of a multi-story parking garage with 3,000 spaces," Miss Duane Welsch of the Auxiliary Enterprises Managers Office informs. "Another parking garage is scheduled for completion sometime in March, 1971, and will accommodate 2,000 cars." This was prior to the budget cutbacks presented in early 1971. The San Jose State College, faculty and staff pay $3 a semester for parking rights, according to Chief.

Both are equally caught in the "gambling syndrome" cited by Bambrick as the main reason for an excess of parking tickets being issued at Fresno. As it has been pointed out in a previous article, parking is not really a problem if you do not mind walking, occasionally. There is the matter of the eight o'clock line-up at California Boulevard and Foothill Ave. which has caused "great weeping and gnashing of teeth" and a few crunched bumpers, but all this can be taken in stride, too. Just park your car in the middle of California and Foothill and walk.

If you ride a bicycle you know the feeling of fresh air and vigorous physical activity. You're getting somewhere without polluting the air. How about enjoying the air together?

Several people, who enjoy the sport of bicycling, are planning trips to the country or cities near San Luis Obispo. The back-road scenery to Morro Bay or Arroyo Grande is especially great when you don't have to look through a dirty windshield.

If enough people show interest a bicycle club could be established on this campus, with overnight tours and races. There are several clubs in Central California that hold competition matches. For further information call John Bertram at 544-5460.

Military relations is topic of Arizona prof's lecture

Military implications of U.S. relations with Russia and China will be the subject of a lecture to be given on Tuesday Feb. 11 at 11 a.m. in the college Theater. Dr. Bruce H. Mason, professor of political science at Arizona State University, will be the speaker.

Col. W. L. Hunter, head of the Military Science Department at Cal Poly, said that although the lecture is a scheduled class within the department, interested members of the public are invited to attend.

A graduate of North Texas State University, Dr. Mason received his MA degree from Texas Christian University and his PhD in government from the University of Texas.

Dr. Mason taught at Northwestern State College in Louisiana, Memphis State University, and the University of Florida prior to joining the Arizona State University faculty in 1968.

A member of the American Political Science Association and several other learned societies, Dr. Mason has published widely on subjects of government and political science ranging from employment of the disadvantaged to political and military aspects of Latin America, Taiwan, and Ghana.

1971 el rodeo

It's been said that a yearbook is a permanent memory. It is.

A string of thoughts and images that can be lost... unless you capture them in a book.

today and tomorrow

today and remember all the places, all the faces. When tomorrow?
will it all fade away in tomorrow's haze?
not if you have it in a book.

Friday from three to eight a representative of El Rodeo yearbook will be stationed in the cafeteria and snack bar. He will assure you a copy of the book of the year for only $7.50.
