Evans seeks budget referendum

The 1971-72 ASI budget has been approved by a vote of nine to one, with one abstention. This vote is not representative of the student body.

According to Mrs. Doshi, the SAC vote on the budget is a "backlash" from the election. The "two main opponents of the proposed contingency cut also opposed us (Evans and Doshi) in the election," she said.

Mrs. Doshi stated that she feels that a decision made by only one vote is not representative of students wants. Next year budget ratification will require a two-thirds majority.

The final decision came after three hours of deliberations last Tuesday night. The meeting had been moved to the college theater to accommodate the large crowd.

The proposed budget cut would have set up a contingency fund that could be used either by newly proposed ASI programs or be channeled back into the existing groups.

Pete Evans and Marianne Doshi, ASI president and vice-president, cast a negative vote defeating thirteen to six.

The motion of accepting the budget was later recounted as a tie nine to nine. The vote was then called for on the main motion of accepting the 1971-72 budget as it had been presented by Finance Committee and SEC. This vote was defeated thirteen to six.

Writing contest winners cited

The results are in and the prize is gone. Who won?

The Creative Writing Contest, sponsored by the English Department and the Publisher's Board this quarter, recently announced the winners of the competition. Two hundred dollars in prize money was awarded to the six cash winners representing two creative categories: Poetry and Short Story Fiction.

Judging this display of literary merit were five English instructors and a member of the psychology staff. Craig Rizzo, David Kane and Elizabeth Anderson selected the awards for the poetry division. Almos Zilbo and Barbara Manginelli were third earning $20. Peter Bute of the Psychology Department aided Martin Lanchi and John Kerr as this trio picked the short fiction story winners. SAC: should vote itself away?

To: Cal Poly Student Body

The state government has a great idea to do away with student government and put the manila in the hands of the college administration.

The reasoning behind this is that it would conserve space. In the present way of doing business it is just a rubber stamp of the administration's ideas, that of constant comment. The office space could be used for something more viable as a farm tractor display.

Tuesday night, the Nielsen rating for Marcus Welby soared, while that of S.A.C.'s rating suffered deplorably.

Pete Evans, who was elected by a majority vote, put forth the platforms which he ran on and was elected on. The students who voted for Pete and for change were snubbed by their representatives in S.A.C. With the vote as close as 9 to 10, this means that there are some misguided persons in the student government. The only change that S.A.C. could pass is to do away with itself. What S.A.C.'s rating suffered deplorably.

Penalty of 'involvement'

Editor:

Three years ago, about at the time of the My Lai incident, Ralph De Vries, an instructor in the Physics department participated as a faculty advisor for SNAP, in a peaceful picketing of the administration building where a Dow Chemical recruiter was interviewing. Ralph was a brave young man and for his involvement he lost his job—a travesty of student needs.

It has become apparent as a faculty advisor for the Physics department participation in the My Lai incident, Ralph De Vries has long gone but others still protest. It has become increasingly clear that the war he opposed is futile and meaningless. Yet I wonder how those who fired him (and who fired Fred Rizzo) will react when in their travels they are asked by a Thai or Costa Rican, "What did My Lai from happening?" Will they say, "Well we fired guys who opposed the use of napalm"? I doubt that kind of reply. They will more likely clothe themselves in the sentiments of the very persons they once repudiated.

Milestone in bureaucracy

Be glad, students, for now you do not have to worry about getting your right to know your legal status with respect to an issue—you don't have it.

Rejoice collegial comrades, you may still not attend classes at Cal Poly because you are tied with children, a day care center is incomprehensible. Such happiness students. You are still able to sign housing leases you do not understand, are still able to get your housing deposit liberated by shady chicanery, you are still able to be denied the opportunity of having a housing office on campus.

With an approving smile, some thirteen members of Student Affairs Council (SAC) voted down Tuesday night the concepts of legal aid services for students, a child care center, and a housing office on this campus. Truly, it was a bit of parliamentary excellence.

It was a shame that more students could not have seen the legislative lunacy that passed for a meeting of representatives of student government.

For example, they could have seen several SAC members give lucid insights into how to miss issues and ideas entirely and instead concentrate on personal prejudices.

They could have seen one of the most crucial votes on an issue before SAC this year be boggled and confused by a majority vote, put forth the platforms which he ran on and was elected on. The students who voted for Pete and for change were snubbed by their representatives in S.A.C. Campus traffic may be deadly

For a long time, cars have been sort of a problem to the campus. For who knows how long, there has been the perennial problem of where to park. Parking will be a little bit more of a problem when the proposed bikeway system goes into effect—it will chop out some 400 parking slots.

One problem with cars that has not received as much attention as it deserves has been the relationship between campus traffic and people. Last quarter the problem of the pedestrian was brought to light when a girl had her leg broken while crossing in front of Yosemite hall. Soon afterward there was a proposal to put in a warning light on each side of the crosswalk. It is now done.

But there are still other areas on campus where pedestrians and drivers play a cat and mouse game with what could be fatal consequences: in front of the campus union, in front of the administration building and in front of the snack bar.

Let's hope that it does not take another injury—or even a death—for the necessary precautions to be taken that will insure pedestrian safety.

Richard I. Laach, presently head of the college's Poultry Department, is retiring this month after over 40 years of service, according to John W. West, associate dean of the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources. When Leach, a graduate of Montana State College, began teaching here only two courses in poultry husbandry were offered. Now the department offers 15 specialized courses in the poultry field. The Poultry Department's facilities weren't too complete in the beginning either. During Leach's tenure however the department has grown from having three brooder houses and a 600 bird hen house to the present 15,000 bird facility which includes a hatchery, brooding and laying house, pedigree pens, and egg and meat processing equipment.

Six breeds of chicken are cared for and studied, including the Red Cornish, the only breed of its kind in the U.S., which Leach developed. The unit also has turkeys and game birds which are used for instructional purposes.

In 1930, when Leach started here, only six students opted for the poultry major. Today there are 54 poultry majors, making this college's program the largest undergraduate poultry department in the nation.

During the Winter Quarters of 1970 and 1971 Leach traveled to India on behalf of the Research Development Corporation to prepare recommendations for the Peace Corps.

Leach says he has no immediate plans for the future, but would like to continue his work in international affairs regarding poultry.

work. After the student has ascertained what course or courses he would like to take, he must pre-enroll in the class with the appropriate instructor by 5 p.m., June 11. At this time he would be given the assigned reading and or written work for his summer work. Students will be responsible for obtaining their own texts.

If a student finds that he can't keep up with the assigned summer work because of conflicting problems, he may drop his course without any penalty.

In the Fall all prepared students would register for three units of the general course headings of Eng. 370X, Lang. 370X, Sp. 370X and Phil. 370X as appropriate. An examination would be given by the individual instructors before October 26, 1971.

Dean Ericson does not see this program as, "a cheap and easy way to earn academic credit," but rather a way in which students can have a greater responsibility in their own education.

Golfers make nationals

Coach Bill Hicks has been notified by tournament officials that his Mustang golf team has been chosen as an at-large team for the NCAA College Division national tournament to be played at Chico, Calif., June 15-18.

The tournament will be played on two different courses, one being a par 70 and the other a par 72.

"We are pleased to be invited. If we are going to build any kind of program, we must make the best of opportunities such as this. If our top two players hold their average and if our bottom three men improve a stroke or two, we could finish among the top 10 teams," Hicks said.

Last year the Mustangs placed 19th with a 1270 team total. Hicks believes it will take a score between 1235 and 1250 to finish among the top ten.

Health and fun

You missed out on your chance to get into a jogging routine for this school year. But plans are being made for next year's physical conditioning by health coordinator Larry Bridges.

The goal of the program in participation, not competition. Anyone interested in running for fitness or fun may want to enroll in next fall's program. Those interested may contact Bridges in the Men's Gym.

Grogg back leads state in Canada

by Bill Matthews

It is the first letter in rugby as it is in Ritchie and as people are fast finding out, throughout the United States and Canada. His name is becoming synonymous with rugby up and down the coast.

Dave Ritchie, the player-coach of the San Luis Obispo Rugby Club, led the California State touring team into Canada for three test matches with that country's best last week. The team was comprised of the premier ruggers in the state and possibly in the nation. This can be said since California teams have always dominated the top 10 U.S. standings. The 20 players came from Stanford, UCLA, Ramsbier, St. Mary's and various other private clubs. Many were ex-college football players.

Now Ritchie has joined the growing ranks of Mustang athletes who have garnered national and international acclaim for themselves. He was no "over-night flash-in-the-pan," as he played for UCSB's 1965 Southern California Champions and for UCLA's 1968 national champions. He was also-tied the Los Angeles 7's all-tournament team last year and more recently became this year's best back at the Southern California Tournament. Subsequently, he was the only scrum-back in the state asked to be on the touring team.

The long-haired, mustached; Ritchie conceded, "Yes, these were my honors, but I was more enamoured with the hospitality shown us by the Canadians. The highlight of the trip for me, was the airport reception given us by the beautiful Vancouver Club.

About the mediocre record turned in Ritchie replied, "The Vancouver Reps 'lose-rucked' us to death and were a very fine team (Calif, lost, 19-6). But, I felt we fielded a much better team in defeating the Vancouver Island team, 17-3. Finally, I felt we should have defeated the British Columbia team as we missed 10 penalty kicks.

This is the first time since 1965, and since the 1936-38 Olympics, that a state representative team has been invited on international tour. This is a big step toward international competition, as the U.S. may replace South Africa in international competition next year. There is also a prospect that a state touring team might play a test match with the best in the world, New Zealand, next year.

Who is to say that the scrum half on that team will not have a last name that begins with R.

That lost two of three games. But the Californians played well and were acclaimed by the Canadians.
