Mozart Festival features top artists

If top names in the entertainment field draw large crowds then the San Luis Obispo Mozart Festival will have standing room only.

There will be two concert masters performing in this weekend's Festival. A concert master is not, as many people might think, a conductor. A concert master is the top violinist in the orchestra, the one who leads all the other violinists in the ups and downs of violin playing.

The two concert masters at the Festival will be Henry Siegel, concert master for the Peter Britt Festival in Oregon and Rebecca Brooks, concert master for the Kern Philharmonic in Bakersfield.

There are five regulars from the "studios," another impressive background, according to Clifton Swanson, according to Clifton Swanson, the Music Department here and the conductor for the Mozart Festival. Studio players are the best in the business.

"These people are usually better than the people in the major symphonies," explained Swanson. "They have to go into the studio and perform live. If you make a mistake, you're out."

But Louise Di Tullio, John Ellis, Julian Spear, Don Ellis, Julian Spear, and James Decker are definitely in. These are regulars for the studio orchestras all over the LA area.

This college is contributing its share of the performers, too. Associate Dean Dave Cook will be on the viola and faculty-member Marshall Wright will be playing the clarinet. Students from this college performing will be Martinda Bismelimester, Ruth Shishido, Pam Hird, and John Hoyt, conductor of the Cal Poly orchestra.

San Luis Obispo performance are Dave Stade, Kyung Cho, Dave Cook, Henry Zevely, and Jane Swanson, wife of the Festival's conductor Clifton Swanson.

Performing from the tri-counties will be Janice Budd of Santa Maria, Sarah Wood of Morro Bay, Marsha Sheworthy of Baywood Park, Susan Carter of Alisaladore, and Virginia Wright and Jim Christiansen of Shell Beach.

Fresco State College is sending over their highly acclaimed New Age String Quartet and from the Debut Orchestra, comes Dustin Sylvia Greenfield and obstetric Molly Judson.

Tom and Denyse Buffett, Dave Mallory, Joel Lish, Margaret Aha, John Hemeschuch and Jerry Dagg round off the list of top names at the Festival.

Friday night Chumash Hall will open its doors to the first of the three concerts of the weekend. This concert is co-sponsored by the Associated Students, Incorporated and the Mozart Festival Association.

The cost of the tickets is $1.00 for students and $1.50 for non-students. Tickets may be purchased at the Information Desk in the College Union or at the door.

Fired given reason now

A Federal Judge ruled Monday that a probationary college teacher is entitled to know why he is not being rehired.

Colleges now are allowed to release nontenured teachers without justifying their actions. The new ruling upsets this long-standing academic tradition.

This college's President of the California School Employees Association, Dr. Corwin Johnson, said the school generally tells the teachers why they are not being rehired.

"There's sort of been a feeling," said Johnson, "that during the first year you can just say to the teacher 'I think you need to bring all sorts of documents and suggested problems presented by the new ruling.

"If I (the ruling) means that you have to bring all sorts of formal charges against the probationary teacher then problems will arise. The charges will be put into the teacher's records and the records will always follow him to his new job.

If this is the case then he will be forced to fight the charges or he would be admitting that they were true."

Many academic experts have said that the system of letting the teacher go with no reason is to the favor of both teacher and institution. It allows the two to part company with a minimum of ill feeling or controversy.

SIC attacks fee increase

Many of the 800 continuing foreign students may be able to complete their academic endeavors in this country due to a 400 percent (395-1,100 increase of tuition costs. Seven steps outlined by a SIC appointed committee attacked the problem from all sides and suggested several measures to alleviate the serious situation.

The present loan fund available to academic visitors from other countries approaches $2,000. A hand full times this size, to be shared by the community, Cal Poly students and faculty. All funds and special fund raising activities is a possibility for building the crisis.

Equality in competing for jobs would allow willing and eager foreigners to overcome the additional handicap of increased fees. Present immigration laws state that no alien shall be given a temporary or permanent residence in the United States. This practice could fall by the wayside in the face of the severe circumstances which this minority faces.

Low cost housing, possibly in the closed foreign dorms or with accepting local families and priority in class selection at registration were other proposals set forth.

It should be stressed that these are "temporary measures to answer a temporary challenge." In the future such problems will be avoided by a thoroughly encompassing international student program.
Letters

What are we?

A reminder from the student body president:

Well, kids, here it is. Uncle Sam (and Uncle Reagan) has passed the buck to us, the people. We are now rapidly approaching the age when education will be supported solely by students. Society is fed up with you wasting all your time and then crowing on the silly academic training schedule. Why, every student the state has to educate reduces the amount of napping we can use to protect our merry shores.

What are we, anyway? You and I, American, North American, or are we, maybe, just people? Are the Arabs any different from the buck to us, the people. Wears about it with your friends—then brothers. Think about it, talk nationalistic trip—but we are all brass on the hill and us. We have time to listen. So, please...
The most common facial expression seen was not a worried look or a frown, but a smile. The overwhelming mood was "we're together and we're giving." Only tension seemed to be "I'm going to miss a test at 11."

The lines were long—and slow. Dr. Mounts said the wait was due to the unexpected number of donors. In previous all-day blood drives sponsored by the health center only 150 people had come to give blood, so this time extra help had to be called in at all points along the process.

Although a sprinkling of faculty, staff and non-students were represented, the overwhelming majority of those giving blood were students. Two bands, Pumphouse Canyon and Apricot, offered their services for the entertainment of bystanders in the CU plaza. Goodies, fruit juice, and coffee were provided by the CP Foundation.

Two recipients, Chris Christmas and Thomas McNamara, were on campus last Friday. They were given the status of honorary students for the day, and shown around the campus. Mrs. Christman's reaction summed up the feelings for both the families—"All I want to do is cry."

Pete Evans, another organizer of the drive, had mixed feelings about the turn-out. He was pleased at the number of those who responded, but as he said, "Seeing as there's nearly 5000 people on this campus, 200 showing up here isn't too good a percentage." He added, "Where were the faculty and administrators?"

The value of the blood added to the accounts of the two boys totaled more than $5100. At 80 a pint, the blood credited them should help defray the families' expenses for at least a few months.

The real value of last Friday, though, lies not only in the financial aid given someone who needed it. As Dr. Mounts concluded, "Human blood comes only from humans—the monetary value, by far, is transcended."
“Stop”—campus flick tonight

Tonight, the campus movie of the week will be "Stop The World, I Want To Get Off!" This movie will show in the CU and admission is $.50.

This movie is universal in its theme. It is a satirical fantasy taking a cynical view of life immoralsed in a circus ring by a clown with a story to tell. The story of a little chap named Littlechap who burns with ambition to be rich, marries the boss's daughter, has several children and several extramarital affairs, and ends up a titled politician. But, in the end, he finds that having gone through life loving only himself, he has played the fool whose circus makeup of a clown is tragically appropriate.

For all its seriousness, the film has one of the liveliest scores ever written for a musical. Among the 16 Anthony Newley-Leslie Bricusse hits are: "What Kind Of Fool Am I?", "Once In a Lifetime," and "Gonna Build A Mountain."

Although the title role of Littlechap was created on stage by Anthony Newley, (who also directed and co-authored the show), he was replaced during the Broadway engagement by a young man who actually challenged Newley's supremacy in the part. This was Tony Tanner, who, as the star of the film, proves he is a performer of tremendous range in an enterprise that must be considered one of the true innovations of our day.

Cancellation announced

Cancellation of the Image Workshop West photojournalism program, which had been planned for Aug. 20-22 at this campus has been announced.

The steering committee for the program, which announced the cancellation, expressed disappointment that registrations for the program had not reached the number needed for its success. The committee remains convinced of the need for such a workshop for photojournalists who are active in the Western United States and announced its intention to begin planning to hold one next year.

Joint sponsors of the Image Workshop West concept are the California Press Photographers Association (CPPA) and Cal Poly's Journalism Department.

A gentle breeze offered a restful atmosphere to those who came to the Concert Under the Stars last Sunday afternoon.

The key word for the evening was relaxation as early-comers cooled off from the warm day while soaking in the rich tones of Gary Elster.

Elster began the afternoon with "Wild About My Love," recorded by the Lovin' Spoonful followed by two Paul Simon tunes, "Dancing Conversation" and "Frank Lloyd Wright."

Elster continued with some songs of his own and a stirring rendition of "Summertime."

The pace was stepped up gradually by Greg Kinn who started things off with a ragtime piece, "Windy Boy Blues" by Jelly Roll Morton. A combination of harmonica and guitar did justice to "Easy Rider.

Things slowed down a bit as he did a song by Eric Anderson, "Thirty Boots,"—originally written about the peace marches in the South, but with a "lot of relevance for today." He ended his display of musicianship with a piece he wrote as part of a trilogy and slightly reminiscent of the classical.

A ten minute intermission was characterized by an increasing number of people, and dogs, and a slowly settling out. This set the stage for a country-rock band, Dog Ace Local, back by demand from the first concert.

They woke up the audience with three guitars and a harmonica by playing a number called "B.B." ("Bango Solo"). The next number gave the listener the privilege of hearing a true blending of voices as they did Neil Young's "Everybody Knows This Is Nowadays."

Things became softer as their playing what he feels is the basis of life.

We have a rule of no pets, but maybe a turtle. (Every now and then, we fudge a little.)

Southern Cal's best are here for big two-weeker

The best of Southern California and Hawaii's young journalists are here at this college for an intensive two-week workshop on mass communications. Thirty high school students, eleven boys and 19 girls, will participate in 14 a.m. to 11 p.m. days. The heavy schedule teaches the students about the backstage aspects of journalism as well as writing techniques. The students were chosen by a California Scholastic Press Association committee after they submitted a number of stories over weeks of competition.

During the workshop the students learn what deadlines are, how to find people for interviews and how to write a variety of stories. The girls, as well as the boys, are taught how to write sports stories and the boys, as well as the girls, are taught how to write fashion stories.

The workshop was started in 1966 as a training course for male Journalism students. Six years ago the program went co-ed. The students write from five to eight stories each day with each graded on a points system. At the end of the two weeks the students with the highest number of points will have their name added to a large trophy in President Robert Kennedy's office.

The program is co-sponsored by the CSPA and this school's journalism department. Veteran newsman Ralph Alexander is the director for the annual workshops.

Music fest scheduled let's dig it

Music reminiscent of last quarters Mustang Almanac will once again ring out at this school. Jim Kweskin along with the Fat City String Band will appear here for a "communion of souls" to be held in Abraham Hall of the CU on Sunday, August 18.

Kweskin is remembered best for his repressed live audience and invites participation through singing along. While attending the Ash Grove in LA he had the audience in a state of oppression, now in "Woodstock" feeling all over again.

Kweskin started out with the forming of the Kweskin Jug Band and now has moved to LA to try it on his own. The LA Times called his music a warm and moving musical experience, while the LA Free Press said to catch them and visit them soon.

Meanwhile, the Fat City String Band will not be sitting on the sidelines. After having the audience doing the 'circle dance' for one full hour during last quarters Mustang Almanac, the Fat City String Band will return to be included along with Kweskin. They are noted for their potential in providing entertainment.

The concert starts at 8 p.m. and admission is 75 cents for students this fall, for a new total enrollment of about 50,000.

State Hospital opens doors to student helpers

Do you want to do something entirely different this summer? The Alexander State Hospital is offering students a chance to meet new people as well as a chance to learn more about themselves.

On Monday nights the hospital will open its doors from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. to student volunteers who wish to meet with a group of patients ranging from 18-84 years old. The program is intended to give patients and students a chance to communicate and interact on a personal level.

A "moratorium staff rap meeting consisting of faculty, staff, foreign students and other interested parties, outlined the plans which must be instituted to enable approximately 200 students to continue their education. Most noted of the proposals was the recommendation that a larger loan fund be established and its ceiling raised. Equality in job placement ranked high on the list of priorities. A meeting Thursday, at 6-9 p.m. in room 213 of the College Union, will finalize plans.

Youth support gives Nixon nod

Youth's approval of President Richard Nixon rose sharply after he announced he would travel to the People's Republic of China before May of 1975, according to the surveys made by the Opinion Research Corporation at Princeton, N.J.

The surveys were conducted by telephone among a representative cross section of telephone households. The survey included approximately 1,000 persons.

Enrollment up

The California State Colleges are expecting an increase of about 30,000 full and part-time students this fall, for a new total enrollment of about 90,000.

Italian Suspension

A spate of student protest committees produced volumes of dialog but few concrete proposals at the weekly meeting Tuesday.

The recent blood drive was acknowledged as being a success. One hundred and forty pints of blood have been added to the hemophiliacs blood bank reserve. This amount will last them less than a year.

Jack Curtis, AMIBT chairman presented the budget for this years faculty evaluation program as well as a detailed statement pointing out why EIC must pass AMIBT. Approximately $1.200 is needed to start the computers humming, half this sum represents materials, the other is programmer's time. Many EIC members were reluctant to speak on behalf of this faculty evaluation system. Curtis explained that the plan he proposes offers great flexibility. The AMIBT chairman will hold a meeting at 11:00 and 4:00 on Thursday in room 315 of the College Union to discuss specifics.

The foreign students inability to keep up with rising tuition fees was the next topic of consideration. Reports from an earlier held committee meeting consisting of faculty, staff, foreign students and other interested parties, outlined the plans which must be instituted to enable approximately 200 students to continue their education. Most noted of the proposals was the recommendation that a larger loan fund be established and ist ceiling raised. Equality in job placement ranked high on the list of priorities. Brown ‘jumps’ to highest honors

Brown, a sophomore, won four national championships during the 1970-71 indoor and outdoor track and field season. Although only 20 years old, he is a veteran of international competition.

This season Brown won 37 individual championships in his specialty, the high jump. The 6 feet 6 inch Brown cleared 7 feet 3 inches three weekends in a row to rank as the most consistent high jumper in the world.

Although Pat Mandorf, University of Wisconsin, cleared 7 feet 4 1/2 inches for a new world record, Brown’s coach feels that he will clear 7 feet 7 inches either before or during the 1973 Olympic Games.

"Lack of competition has hurt Reynolds," Coach Rave Simmons said. "Now that he has that competition in Madison, Ray will be on a weight program and this plus the competition should help him quite a bit."

"He's seasoned as an international competitor and this gives him a tremendous advantage in preparing for and competing in the Olympics," said Simmons.

Participants must bring their own innertubes.

Engelfried said in addition to the cost of food, riders will share transportation costs. Those planning to participate must sign up at the College Union information desk by 8 a.m.

The Physical Education Workshop on campus has begun this week with the registration of 180 men and 81 women.

This season Brown won 27

The workshop is an annual two week session held every summer for interested coaches at all levels. Prominent coaches in all sports on the college level are drawn to this campus to instruct during the workshop.

While Poly’s own Vaughn Hitchcock heads the wrestling program, the director of the men's workshop is Robert Clark of Monterey High School, and the director of the women's workshop is Mary Ann Cloy of Dana Junior High in Arcadia.

Workshop officials reminded participants that — there is organized recreation for children every weekday from 10 to 12 a.m.

Children are to meet in the lobby of the Men's Gym each day. In addition, children movies are being shown tonight and next Tuesday through Thursday, August 13 and 12, at 7:30 in the College Union.
