Probe set; group upset

by MALCOLM STONE and NICHOLINE MERRICK

Three republican representatives from the state went to speak to college students Friday afternoon. The speakers were (l-r) Rush Hill, William Cohen, and William Ketchum.

SAC topic: card issue

Questions concerning the validity of the new student ID cards will be answered by an administrator at tonight's Student Affairs Council (SAC) meeting, starting at 7:15 in CU 328.

Also on the agenda will be a report from the Elections Committee on the elections which are to be held today. Vote results are to take place on Bills 71-2 and 71-4. The former bill proposes having two students elected by each school council to sit on the Student Affairs Council. Bill 71-4 proposes that the Elections Committee be elected from each school during the general ASI spring elections. Two students from each school would be elected.

At the present time the Elections Committee is comprised of volunteers except for the chairman who is appointed by the vice-president.

There is also to be a report from the Finance Committee. Kent State resolutions to be discussed are 71-26 and 71-19, the corporate lawyer proposal. Bill 71-4 asks that the Elections Committee be elected from each school.

Ketchum slams state assembly

Three state public officials presented an artist's picture of California's governmental structure Friday.

The speakers were William F. Cowan, chief deputy director of the California Department of Agriculture; Rush Hill, special assistant to Governor Reagan's Education Advisor, Dr. Alan Sherriff; and 26th District Assemblyman William M. Ketchum. This college was one of 22 universities, and state and private colleges to sponsor the Republican State Central Committee's speakers.

Hill, who was the 1967-68 ASI president at this college, believes people in school have preconceived ideas about Governor Reagan. "He (the governor) thinks students are idealistic and do not have clear understanding of history," Rush said. "I think he is likely be right."

The 1969 graduate from this college went on to read psychology at Harvard. Later, the governor has received. He concluded his speech by saying, "Public educational systems must be both reasonable and accountable to the people of the state."

Ketchum explained the state's current efforts to establish uniform weight and measure standards which comply with the Bureau of National Standards. On pilot basis, state agencies are receiving federal funds to determine what the responsibilities of each state are.

"I believe that makes all the sense to the Ketchum, as he introduced himself.

Ketchum appeared to be disturbed after learning of the results of the 1971 Assembly session. "We will be back there in January when the major problems began," he said.

During a question and answer session that followed the speeches, a responsive audience questioned: If the governor is responsive to students, as you say he is, why aren't the students on the College Board of Trustees, more on the Personnel Review Committee?

"I was not aware that students were not on those committees," Ketchum verified the inquirer's idea. "When you are a student, you don't have the right to run the show."

Beat of another 'Drum'

Claiming a policy of "no policy," The Drum, a publication which appeared on campus Thursday and Friday offered itself as "an alternative to the hype-based reporting of current events by the local and collegiate news media."

Only one of the articles in the eight-page mimeographed publication was signed, Mustang Daily has been unable to determine exactly why the publication originated or how it was financed.

According to Bob Timone, assistant to the Dean of Students, the publication did not observe the rules in Title 5 in which the distribution of literature on campus, must be approved by the administration.

Since The Drum did not obtain a permit to distribute the publication on campus, Timone ruled it in conflict with the law and had it taken off campus by security Friday afternoon.

All Prov. Pete Evans said he had heard of a group of about 30 students who were interested in putting out the publication but he had no idea who all of them were, how it was financed, or whether or not ASI groups officially sponsored it as a publication.

A policy statement in The Drum stated "The local and collegiate news media have by their past actions demonstrated an apathetic, unconcerned approach to Third World news coverage. The Drum is offered as an alternative to this."

PARKING: SWIM OR SINK?

Other students who cannot swim do agonize for pool parking in the lot across from the M.E. lab. I draw attention that we have a parking area that is full. It is up to when I have to use their pool. I am complaining, but the campus parking lot when the campus parking is full. It is an injustice to myself and other students who cannot swim.

State Colleges

Name change possible

A California legislative measure, presently awaiting signature by Governor Reagan, which would redesignate certain state colleges as universities among the major items to be considered by the state college Board of Trustees today and Tuesday in Los Angeles. The bill, authored by Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, recently passed both the Assembly and Senate despite intensive lobbying in opposition by supporters of the University of California system.

The state college trustees may discuss the implications of becoming a university system although direct action cannot be taken until the bill is approved by the governor.

Although definite criteria for redesignation have not been established, the state Coordinating Council for Higher Education has indicated that, in the trustee's judgment, it is expected five to 14 of the 19 state colleges would be redesignated as universities and the state college system would then be recognized "California State University." Because the criteria has not yet been established, one wonders whether this college would qualify as a university. However, administrative Vice President Harold Wilson indicated it has a strong possibility of qualifying. Anotheradministration official agreed, primarily because of the number of accredited programs here.

The attempt by Barnes, who has had similar measures die in the Senate, was opposed by University of California lobbyists who want the UC system to alone retain the designation of university along with the exclusive right to grant doctoral degrees.

I am opposed to a change in the M.E. lab name to University of California because I believe the state college system would then be recognized "California State University." The purpose of the conference is to promote a better understanding and closer bond of fellowship among international students from all parts of the state.

The conference will be held Nov. 26-28 at the First Baptist Church in San Francisco. The cost is $35 including a $1 registration fee.

The conference will be sponsored by the International Students' Conference in studying "The Journey of Peace." The theme of the Seventh Annual International Students' Conference to be held in San Francisco over the Thanksgiving holiday is "Peace." Dr. Mark Hanna, a professor of philosophy at this college and Dr. Paul Claudel, Dean of American Studies, will discuss "The Journey of Peace," the theme of the Seventh Annual International Students' Conference to be held in San Francisco over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Jew finds 'ultimate truth'

Question: Can a Brooklyn born raised Jew find happiness with the acceptance of Jesus as his own personal savior? The answer is yes, according to a Jew who In his own way has come to grips with the world and made it work living for.

Drug Influenced music grouped into two areas

Gracelick and the Jefferson Airplane belted out "White Rabbit", Bob Dylan pronounced that "everybody must get stoned", and there were the Byrds, Donovan, the Monkees and Jimi Hendrix. Although it may sound like a super rock concert, it was Project discussing drug influenced music.

KILLY disc jockey Dave Mott spoke about today's music and said he divided it into two general categories, music written about drugs, and music influenced by drugs. Mott demonstrated the two categories with songs of "drug influenced" music, and discussed each song individually. Mott said it isn't feasible that any of today's music would cause anyone to get involved with drugs. "I don't know of any instances when someone has listened to some music and then wanted to jump up and run out and buy some marijuana, or some drugs and get loaded just because of the music."

Governmental suppression of drug influenced music may not help reduce the drug problem, Mott said. He said that suppression may be adding to the problem by placing too much emphasis on drugs.

Mustang win that counts

by STEVE GALE

The Mustang football team moved closer to their third consecutive California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) title Saturday night when they beat Cal Poly Pomona 23-14 at Mustang Stadium.

The victory was the third consecutive for Poly who now has five wins and four losses and a 2-0 CCAA title.

The Mustangs will need to beat Cal Poly Pomona December 4 to win the CCAA championship.

Although the score fluctuated throughout the game, the Mustangs never trailed after the first quarter behind the Titans, who have been mourning the loss of three of their football coaches killed in a plane crash last week.

Steve Bresnahan returned as the starting quarterback for the Mustangs after missing two games because of an injury to the abdominal. He completed five-of-eight passes with a five-yard field goal with seven passes left to give the Mustangs a 14-3 lead.

Bresnahan intercepted an extra-point pass late in the game and returned 43 yards for the clinching touchdown with 31 seconds left to give the Mustangs a 15-3 win.

The Mustangs clinched the league title at the Fullerton 36-yard line. While they completed six of nine plays, the Mustangs were held by an impressive Poly defense.

Poly took the lead with a two-point conversion in the second quarter when Bresnahan threw a 14-yard pass to junior back Dan Garcia.

The teams exchanged interceptions early in the third quarter and Poly scored with 13 minutes left in the period on another eight-yard pass from Ernst to Chapman. Ernst again took the kickoff and ran 64 yards for the clinching touchdown with 31 seconds left to give the Mustangs a 15-3 win.

The Mustangs reached the Titan one-yard line, but were held by an impressive Poly defense.

Bresnahan threw a 16-yard pass to junior back Dan Garcia to complete a 56-yard drive in three plays. Garza added another kick to make the halftime score 14-6.
