Robert Barrows, school counselor, is often on hand to offer advice to troubled students at the drop-in center.

Drop-in provides help for student problems

People with problems, wandering around looking for someone to help and understand them, can end their search with a walk in the College Union or by making a telephone call.

From 4-11 p.m., Monday through Thursday nights, counselors re-establish groups in CU 214 with people who need to talk to someone. Anyone who can't get to the College Union can receive the same counseling service by phoning 442-3800.

CU 214, called the drop-in center, is a small room with comfortable chairs. The people dropping in are students who are upset with the pressures of school and feel lonely. They are people who can't talk to their friends because they are afraid of being misunderstood.

Successful second or third year students who find themselves procrastinating and feeling guilty, begin to doubt whether they will ever finish school.

They go to the drop-in center to share their feelings, to find a different point of view, or to get a professional opinion. The atmosphere is relaxed, and the discussions can be private or open.

One counselor felt that people come to get their intellectual thoughts and feelings together, that there was a disparity between how they feel and how they think they should act. He said that people come "to get it together."

Still, in the experimental stages, the center is not being used as extensively as it could be, but then people are just finding out that it is there. The counselors stress that they want people to come in even if they are not there in others. There are never so many people that they can accommodate them, and they have the facilities to handle more.

The counselors are staffed from the counseling center and student counselors.

The student, or residence counselors are graduates in counseling education who are receiving their supervised field experiences. They are available one night a week in various residence halls from 8 p.m. as well as the regular time in the CU.

By United Press International

Israel's leaders called for a cease-fire Tuesday of several hundred air raids across the nation, after Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said twice during the weekend that the time for war in the Middle East had come.

Although a military spokesman said the test, had nothing to do with the preparations stemming from Sadat's speeches, nevertheless to underscore the mood of apprehension prevailing the public. It will be the first time the warning signals have been sounded more than once in the communal blackout on May 6 and 9.

A military spokesman described the situation on the Suez Canal, the focal point of the crisis, as quiet. But he added that the deployment of nearly 7,000 Egyptian troops in and around tanks and guns meant the fire could be reopened any minute.

Sadat this weekend, Sadat, said, "Every hope we have is for a peaceful settlement is finished. We have no alternative but to fight until the day our honor and our dignity." Sadat has said that the preemptive year, either by peace or war.

Sadat Monday greeted four African leaders arrived in Cairo for the second time in last-ditch efforts to find a peaceful solution to the Middle East crisis.

Sadat says 'no alternative' but war

Radio Pakistan said Monday that India has launched an "all-out offensive against East Pakistan, including an armistice on the rebellious province on three fronts and a formal declaration of war, India denied that it has invaded the country."

The Pakistan broadcast from Karachi in West Pakistan said Indian planes, tanks and infantry attacked Sunday night across the border and eastern and western borders of East Pakistan.

The main thrust, said, was into Jessor and the Chittagong and Sylhet sectors on the eastern border of the province already embroiled in a civil war.

Pakistan forces checked the Indian advance inside East Pakistan, the radio broadcast said, but fighting was continuing with casualties mounting on both sides.

UPP correspondent Lemmy Pinna in Karachi reported that the Radio Pakistan broadcast which also was monitored in London, opened with a statement charging that "Indian troops have launched an all-out offensive against East Pakistan."

"The offensive has followed months of popgun attacks and skirmishes and an arduous buildup of more than 12 Indian infantry divisions around East Pakistan," the broadcast said. "Fighting is still continuing." Radio Pakistan said it "is expected that the Indian army will open up a second front on the East Pakistan borders in the next few hours."

UPP correspondent Robert Kaylor in New Delhi reported that initial Radio Pakistan reports on fighting in Jassur only said 90 Indian soldiers were killed and seven tanks destroyed. The subsequent reports of fighting on three fronts claimed that India's casualties were approaching 700 while Pakistanis were about 300, including 290 civilians.

Civil war erupted in East Pakistan when Pakistan army began to crush the rebellion. Some 10 million East Pakistanis are embroiled in a civil war, seeking refuge across the border in India and further disintegrating the Indian economy. East Pakistan is bordered on the north, east and west by India and on the south by the Bay of Bengal. West Pakistan is 1,000 miles to the west, on the western border of India.

In its description of the situation on the eastern border, Radio Pakistan said an Indian offensive "is now in progress."

The Indian troops were supported by tanks and the Air Force helicopters which reportedly shelled the Pakistan territory. Where they were "subjected to the attacks of the Indians."

UPP correspondent Mathew Befone in New Delhi reported that the Indian troops were "shelling mosques and targets in the Pakistani territory." Where they were "subjected to the attacks of the Indians."
Eco-center on campus?

Forum

use the remaining rooms In the CU will have. Ecology Action will have the remaining rooms In the S.A.T.S.

The center could also serve as a central location for: 1) a calendar of county environmental activities. 2) a distribution center for information and materials, e.g., catalogues, organic foods and supplies for growing It yourself. 3) coordinating a speakers bureau and educational programs at the university for individuals, agencies and media for referrals.

We would suggest that the interior be redesigned by a couple of our talented archies to complement a conference cube into a small art gallery setting. This new feeling of the student crafts (art, jewelry, landscaping) would be put on display in this room for one week periods and that they would be able to sell their works with a commission going towards paying the rent on the room.

If you believe this proposal is worth supporting, please fill out the survey form this week giving your opinion. It's your Union, will you be responsible for determining it?

Warren Chabot
Jim Manget
Glenn Heusen

Miscarriage—murder too?

Editor:

Regarding Dennis J. Fisher's letter on abortion.

It might be well to point out that genetics, biologists and others of the scientific world agree that human life is not considered life, as do I. If abortion is to be called murder, perhaps we might have to change the terminology of spontaneous miscarriage to involuntary manslaughter; it is just as absurd.

Noel A. Brown

Library hours

The library will be closed Thursday and Friday for the Thanksgiving Holiday. It will be open as usual on Monday and Wednesday, but will maintain its regular hours of 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Sunday. On Saturday the library will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. The Reading Room will remain open until midnight Sunday.

Don Wardlaw

Rules: death of the TG

San Luis Obispo City Councilmen have quite a chore cut out for them in the next two weeks. If they do their homework a semi-tradition of weekly TGIP parties will be preserved at this high altitude of existence. If not, TG's may be legislated out of existence.

The council gave its approval Nov. 15 to the first draft of a proposal presented by City Atty. Arthur Shaw, creating an ordinance "for the regulation of assemblies in residential areas." The ordinance outwardly applies to almost any large gathering but in reality is a thinly veiled attempt to end TGs.

Surely the city council would not wish to strain campus-community relations by entirely eliminating TGs, yet four of the members apparently favor the ordinance. What Emmeline Baker, Kenneth Schwartz, John Brown andlon Graham need to do before Dec. 6 meeting is to study the ordinance and its potential effects.

Perhaps by then they will have realized the full extent of the measure and will vote it down.

Councilman Keith Gurnee, although initially in support of the ordinance, soon recognized its stringent and unyielding power and opposed it to Shaw's face. He suggested that complaints centering around TGs could be solved on "a more humane level." He is right.

The subject is not a new one. Last year fraternity leaders and city government could have followed what was a partial clampdown by the students. Now the city says the magnitude of TG-created problems is such, based upon the excessive number of complaints received, that strict controls must be established.

Mayor Schwartz said the city is attempting to set down conditions to protect neighbors and participants rather than prohibitions. Mayor Schwartz needs to do his homework. The effect of the ordinance most definitely would be to prohibit TGs.

For instance, a permit would be necessary under the ordinance for all gatherings (except weddings, christenings, birthday parties, showers and funerals) of over 50 persons, yet the process of acquiring the permit would prove extremely costly and complex. The applicant would have to pay for hiring police to patrol the event, for providing portable toilets, for the city costs of enforcing the permit conditions and possibly for an inspection of the facilities.

A host of new crimes would be possible involving violation of the conditions. For example, the police officer would have the power to revoke the permit and terminate the gathering at any time he felt the codes of the new ordinance were being violated.

Shaw says he doesn't think that would give the police too much power. Perhaps not. And again, perhaps he and police chief Ervin Rodgers would like nothing better than confronting a hundred of inebriated students evicted because a building (not theirs) lacked what the police felt were enough toilets.

The complaints of the TGs could, as Gurnee pointed out, be solved on a more humane level. The councilmen should think along that line. Even a partial clampdown on a TG might provide a more intimate view of the picture although there may not be another opportunity to do so.

Why not provide an area for TGs if fraternity houses are judged not suitable? Blake suggests Poly Canyon, for an "overy area," but as a former student here he knew that all intoxicating beverages are prohibited on state college property. Any possibility would be to impose several, less harsh regulations, such as the limiting the total number at large parties according to the size of the facilities. The councilmen might try to keep an eye on under-age drinkers, so why not establish a standard means of detecting those obviously under 21. The noise problem could be alleviated by prohibiting the use of speakers facing out open windows and doors—as provided in Shaw's ordinance.

There are indeed means of easing the TG problem without cramping too tightly a situation that is not a measure. It is incumbent upon the city councilmen to face up to their responsibilities, do some soul-searching and vote down the ordinance.
Environment conference

Further, he advised that we measure legislators by the bills that they pass, not those they introduce.

Jerome Waldie, from the California Water Quality Control Board, and a candidate for governor in California in 1974, followed. He talked about the growth of California's cities:

"Environmental reform needs to begin in the private sector with water boards, sewer districts, planning commissions and county boards of supervisors." He advocated "...that we discipline chambers of commerce, or at least reflect their efforts and discouragement publicly."

He was followed by two proponents of local decision for change. Paul Gassaway explained the current lobby effort for the students of the California university system and its possible expansion into a statewide service for students.

Agencies should respond

The director of the Center for Citizens Action Law, Ray Brouthers then told of his group's attempt to make government agencies more responsive to the needs of the people they serve. Citizens Action Law will bring suits against government agencies that do not follow state or federal environmental and consumer protection laws.

The Sunday slate was aimed at a new direction toward environmental improvement starting with political and legal action. The director of a group called the People's Lobby and the author of the Clean Environment Act, Ed Koupal made a demand for more government action and corporate responsibility to guard against abuses in air pollution, resource depletion, and consumer deception.

The People's Lobby is a nonprofit organization for a mill against Standard Oil's "black bag trick," and one to allow 'loyster oysters to register to vote where they live rather than where their parents need.

More about our nation's abuses of the international environment comes from Arif B. Bagg, a native of Malta, and a delegate to the United Nations international environmental conference next year in Sweden. He spoke from his perspective as a citizen of an underdeveloped nation that he believes has an international right to a share of the world's resources in the 21st century.

Agencies should respond

"We are misled by import economic determinants to look at one aspect of environment. Pollution is just a single part of our environment."

He concluded with a plea to recognize the impact of industrial exploitation on the rest of the world before we endorse partial solutions in the world's environmental crises.

Editors note: Details of the conference will follow when Mustang Daily returns from vacation.

By HARRY HOFFMAN

"We are at a political rendezvous with our local and national environmental leaders, and we can raise awareness, we can raise funds, we can make some changes," was part of Bob Elise's provocation that opened the Student Environmental Conference at the University of California at Santa Cruz this past weekend.

Elise is the coordinator of the Sierra Club's campus and community action program and one of four who organized the conference. His welcome and the speeches, workshops, films, and conversations that followed were heard by 180 members of groups for environmental action from as far south as San Diego and north to Sonoma.

"Introduction as an expert on "RF-ing the government," Tony Hodges proved his qualifications for the title very quickly. He advocated encouragement of government action to use radio frequency energy. As president of California's Life of the Land, he sued that state's Attorney General. It was "Life of the Land," he said, "that gave us all the right to be here today." The state's Attorney General was the first time in the history that anyone had brought an attorney general to court for failing to enforce a law of the state.

In reference to various environmental laws proposed by state assemblies and especially the U.S. Congress he said, "Don't trust the Fea." The Fea won't do anything for you....Forget it!!"

Well, boys and girls, here's our wonderful California gem: The reason our California coastal protection bill died was that the key vote, Senator Wedgeworth, decided to split so he would have a chance to get re-elected If he were elected he would have the right to his home. The San Onofre Nuclear power plant just broke the 12,000 watts RMS. It's an efficient speaker with outstanding fidelity for its regular price of $69.95 each. To match these speakers we have selected the popular Pioneer SX440 AM FM stereo system definitely makes this the system of choice for those customers who want heavy bass response—without breakup, even at high volume levels. It features an 8" rolled edge woofer, with nearly a four pound magnet structure. A wide-dispersion tweeter produces clean, crisp highs. This large, oval walnut bookshelf speaker system will handle up to 40 watts RMS. It's an efficient speaker with outstanding fidelity for its regular price of $269.95 each. To match these speakers we have selected the popular Pioneer SX440 AM FM stereo system. With a clean 40 watts, and all of its professional controls, such as direct tape monitoring, contour boost, main and remote speaker switching, etc., plus an extremely sensitive FM tuner section—this is the best receiver on the market for $169.95. To play your records, the Garrard 40B automatic changer can't be beat to go along with this system. It features a low-mass tone arm, and will stack up to 6 records. The Garrard comes complete with base, and a very good magnetic cartridge. The Garrard changer package retail for $74.95.
by BOB SCHNEREGER

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

After the first number, Tom Stipe, part of the Country Faith group, talked about Jesus Christ, "who lives in hundreds of hearts here already, and who wants to live in your heart too, if you'll let Him."

Then he talked about the performers. He said Maranatha meant "the Lord comes!" It is made up of several groups from Costa Mesa, Calif., three of which were here Friday night, along with a soloist named Danny. Their performance was sponsored by Inter-University Christian Fellowship and was held in the Men's Gym.

He said the members feel that the Lord has given them the ability to play, and they are giving it back to the Lord through their singing.

Then Country Faith played a song that included a line: "People call me a Jesus freak, that's not what I am. I'm a child of God." This seemed to be the feeling of all the performers.

After the second group, The Way, Stipe talked about the conversation about "Jesus freaks" that might be going on in the minds of the audience. He said, "All the time this is going on you're getting convicted by God."

As people walked in and out of the gym, Stipe talked about Jesus, and how people are making room for Him in their lives, and how some people are too busy for Him.

He said, "What will you do with this Jesus? The challenge and decision are yours. We're not here to make you hope with our hearts that you can come and join us."

"I would challenge you to stand up and make this decision during the last song."

During Love Song's last song 10 people answered the call to come forward. And from what I've been interviewed it seemed as though many of those who were affected by the message of the music and the speakers. Maranatha!

"Guns to Butter," No, not a new revolution in that sense but a new conference that will be held at Loma Linda University this December. The conference will be held in the gym, Sture talked about Jesus, and how people are making room for Him in their lives, and how some people are too busy for Him.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Guns to Butter," No, not a new revolution in that sense but a new conference that will be held at Loma Linda University this December. The conference will be held in the gym, Sture talked about Jesus, and how people are making room for Him in their lives, and how some people are too busy for Him.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.

"Take me back home to the kingdom" were the first words about 3000 people heard after the lights were dimmed at the Maranatha concert Friday night. What followed was about two and one-half hours of folk-rock music, and a message.

The majority of the people interviewed by Mustang Daily seemed to think the music was well done, although most favored the Love Song group over The Way and Country Faith. Some were turned-off by the volume, but many were enthusiastic in their response.
Faculty firings unfair?

by FRANCES SQUIRE

Dr. Jay Featherstone, a mathematics instructor at this college, will be up for a hearing tonight before the Personnel Review Committee. The hearing is part of the regular personnel procedures when second-year instructors are evaluated and receive one or more negative recommendations.

Dr. Featherstone said he has NOT received a good reason for the negative recommendation. According to Dean Clyde Fisher of the School of Science and Mathematics, his negative recommendation came as a result of an I-I-1 letter by the tenured faculty of the department along with budget cuts. "There was nothing political and nothing personal in my recommendation," said Fisher.

Featherstone's problems are viewed by some persons as the result of his unconventional views which include long hair and casual dress.

Hearings are composed of teacher evaluations by the academic vice president, the Academic Senate’s Personnel Review Committee and President Robert Kennedy. Each step of the evaluation is considered as an expansion of the step below, according to Evans. Each group does not carry on an individual investigation, they consider the study of the group or groups under them. The final evaluation on an instructor and the decision to retire or fire him is made by the academic vice president with the exception of tenure candidates. These teachers are reviewed and decided upon by President Kennedy.

Students who would like to testify about an instructor should contact Evans or the ASI office as soon as possible. The student will be scheduled with a committee, hopefully, Evans said, before the hearing reaches the level of President Kennedy.

ASI Vice President Marianne Doshi stated that a bulletin from the Office of the Chancellor has stated that the inclusion of the student or any other persons outside the tenured faculty and administrative authorities, authorized by the Board of Trustees to participate in the formal recommendation process would be in violation of Title Five as newly amended.

The ASI officers intend to fight this clause so that students may participate in the selection of their instructors, according to Mrs. Doshi.

Director of Personnel Relations, Larry Voss, told Mustang Daily that Title Five does not mean that students may not officially make their faculty evaluations known. They may submit a written letter to the head of their department and it will be included in his file.

If Featherstone is one of these instructors in the Mathematics Department, who received negative recommendations for re-appointment next year. The other two are A.R. Rising and G. C. Ransley and Dr. Dennis Zil.

The hearing is part of the regular personnel procedures when second-year instructors are evaluated and receive one or more negative recommendations.

Tuition rate mandate

A statewide attempt by foreign students to halt charging of what they term "discriminatory" tuition rates has been joined by students attending five state colleges met in Fresno Nov. 6 to form an organization, the International Students of Calif. (ISAC). Immediate purpose of the group is to raise money to finance the case which it plans to appeal in court.

Tuition for international students has risen from $250 to $1110 per year during the past two years.

According to Rick Hayden, an associate justice of the Student Judiciary, basis of the case is a recent Calif. Supreme Court decision declaring that aliens in a recent Calif. Supreme Court decision declaring that aliens in Calif. are eligible for welfare under the same conditions as a Calif. resident. The discrimination is allowed in the spending of Cal. tax money. ISAC's case aims at getting the Calif. Superior Court to rule against allowing discrimination in state spending of tax money to state colleges.

Hayden accompanied the foreign students who represented this college at Fresno. He said any interested student is eligible to join ISAC at a fee of 10 cents per fiscal year. A representative of each foreign student club on this campus will work for individual membership in ISAC. The International Students Council is co-ordinating the efforts while the People-to-People club will provide a central place for collection of the membership fees.

Other colleges represented at the Nov. 8 meeting included San Jose State, Chico State, Sacramento State, and Fresno State.

Trustees...

(Continued from page 1) President's Association, would permit medical and health counseling in such areas as venereal disease education, cancer detection, drug abuse information, and family planning.

Under family planning, costs of laboratory tests, prescriptions, and contraceptive agents would be paid by the individual student.

The trustees are expected to present limited opposition to the proposal. It originated at San Francisco State College.

Monday morning the Faculty and Staff Affairs Committee voted to ask the state to approve a 19 cent per pay hike for faculty members along with a six per cent increase in fringe benefits.

State college faculty members have long urged the state to pay them more than their counterparts in other fields, both public and private.

C. Manuel Keene, assistant chancellor for faculty and staff affairs, said the committees academic salary comparisons between University of California, community college and state college salaries showed the state college system is lagging behind and is reaching a crisis state.

---

Tuition rate mandate

A statewide attempt by foreign students to halt charging of what they term "discriminatory" tuition rates has been joined by students attending five state colleges met in Fresno Nov. 6 to form an organization, the International Students of Calif. (ISAC). Immediate purpose of the group is to raise money to finance the case which it plans to appeal in court.

Tuition for international students has risen from $250 to $1110 per year during the past two years.

According to Rick Hayden, an associate justice of the Student Judiciary, basis of the case is a recent Calif. Supreme Court decision declaring that aliens in Calif. are eligible for welfare under the same conditions as a Calif. resident. The discrimination is allowed in the spending of Cal. tax money. ISAC's case aims at getting the Calif. Superior Court to rule against allowing discrimination in state spending of tax money to state colleges.

Hayden accompanied the foreign students who represented this college at Fresno. He said any interested student is eligible to join ISAC at a fee of 10 cents per fiscal year. A representative of each foreign student club on this campus will work for individual membership in ISAC. The International Students Council is co-ordinating the efforts while the People-to-People club will provide a central place for collection of the membership fees.

Other colleges represented at the Nov. 8 meeting included San Jose State, Chico State, Sacramento State, and Fresno State.

---

Tuition rate mandate

A statewide attempt by foreign students to halt charging of what they term "discriminatory" tuition rates has been joined by students attending five state colleges met in Fresno Nov. 6 to form an organization, the International Students of Calif. (ISAC). Immediate purpose of the group is to raise money to finance the case which it plans to appeal in court.

Tuition for international students has risen from $250 to $1110 per year during the past two years.

According to Rick Hayden, an associate justice of the Student Judiciary, basis of the case is a recent Calif. Supreme Court decision declaring that aliens in Calif. are eligible for welfare under the same conditions as a Calif. resident. The discrimination is allowed in the spending of Cal. tax money. ISAC's case aims at getting the Calif. Superior Court to rule against allowing discrimination in state spending of tax money to state colleges.

Hayden accompanied the foreign students who represented this college at Fresno. He said any interested student is eligible to join ISAC at a fee of 10 cents per fiscal year. A representative of each foreign student club on this campus will work for individual membership in ISAC. The International Students Council is co-ordinating the efforts while the People-to-People club will provide a central place for collection of the membership fees.

Other colleges represented at the Nov. 8 meeting included San Jose State, Chico State, Sacramento State, and Fresno State.

---

Tuition rate mandate

A statewide attempt by foreign students to halt charging of what they term "discriminatory" tuition rates has been joined by students attending five state colleges met in Fresno Nov. 6 to form an organization, the International Students of Calif. (ISAC). Immediate purpose of the group is to raise money to finance the case which it plans to appeal in court.

Tuition for international students has risen from $250 to $1110 per year during the past two years.

According to Rick Hayden, an associate justice of the Student Judiciary, basis of the case is a recent Calif. Supreme Court decision declaring that aliens in Calif. are eligible for welfare under the same conditions as a Calif. resident. The discrimination is allowed in the spending of Cal. tax money. ISAC's case aims at getting the Calif. Superior Court to rule against allowing discrimination in state spending of tax money to state colleges.

Hayden accompanied the foreign students who represented this college at Fresno. He said any interested student is eligible to join ISAC at a fee of 10 cents per fiscal year. A representative of each foreign student club on this campus will work for individual membership in ISAC. The International Students Council is co-ordinating the efforts while the People-to-People club will provide a central place for collection of the membership fees.

Other colleges represented at the Nov. 8 meeting included San Jose State, Chico State, Sacramento State, and Fresno State.

---

Tuition rate mandate

A statewide attempt by foreign students to halt charging of what they term "discriminatory" tuition rates has been joined by students attending five state colleges met in Fresno Nov. 6 to form an organization, the International Students of Calif. (ISAC). Immediate purpose of the group is to raise money to finance the case which it plans to appeal in court.

Tuition for international students has risen from $250 to $1110 per year during the past two years.

According to Rick Hayden, an associate justice of the Student Judiciary, basis of the case is a recent Calif. Supreme Court decision declaring that aliens in Calif. are eligible for welfare under the same conditions as a Calif. resident. The discrimination is allowed in the spending of Cal. tax money. ISAC's case aims at getting the Calif. Superior Court to rule against allowing discrimination in state spending of tax money to state colleges.

Hayden accompanied the foreign students who represented this college at Fresno. He said any interested student is eligible to join ISAC at a fee of 10 cents per fiscal year. A representative of each foreign student club on this campus will work for individual membership in ISAC. The International Students Council is co-ordinating the efforts while the People-to-People club will provide a central place for collection of the membership fees.

Other colleges represented at the Nov. 8 meeting included San Jose State, Chico State, Sacramento State, and Fresno State.
Women march for rights

by BONNIE ETCHISON

Hell hath no fury like a woman's scorn—any doubts about this would have been easily assuaged when 1,800 women (and a few male supporters) marched through San Francisco last Saturday demanding women's rights to legal abortion.

The marchers, armed with their signs demanding women's rights to abortion, surged through eight city blocks of the city Saturday morning chanting "One, two, three, four, repeal all abortion laws." "And a woman's right to choose, free abortion on demand."

Police blocked the streets off just before the demonstrators began their trial, starting at the 18th century was, "Men their rights, and nothing less."

that they could "wear the breeches."

Today's woman has come a long way, baby. She is free from the whole-lone corsets and floor length petticoats that her 18th century counterpart wore. She aims to be equally free in mind and body as the male, and what she wants, she gets. She is 1 per cent of the world's population.

Over 5,000 people showed up for the rally at the Civic Center, and one fourth of them were men. A number of guest speakers, connected with the Women's National Abortion Action Coalition and Women's Liberation, encouraged their "sisters" to continue the battle until all abortion laws were repealed.

A fewigrams from around the world came in to support the women in their efforts. In Washington, at the same time the march was being held in San Francisco, over 5,000 supporters of the cause had marched on the capitol. In England, the Women's Liberation Committee was urging all women to get together and support this cause.

People at the rally agreed that the march was well planned and executed and believed that it was a real step forward for women's rights. An Episcopal minister in the crowd remarked that he had always supported the women in their demands for legal abortions, and that he thought the Catholic church was muddled about the whole thing. One policeman controlling the traffic thought it was the only march he had seen that really made sense.

The Journalist Department is sponsoring a Pizza Pantry, Monday, Nov. 30, at the Pizza Pantry. For more information, stop by GA 226.

Revolution

For those of you who are interested in learning the language of communications throughout the world, there will be a French course, Language 101, open to you next quarter.

The case will be taught by Karla Muranya and no prerequisites are required.

The study group will meet from 7:45-8:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays in the English building, Room 311.

Language lab will be made by arrangement with Mannys.

Downstairs design windows serve as an early reminder: it's time to get ready for Christmas. That's just what the Graphic Design Forum, a committee of Mat Pico P, is trying to help students do.

According to Judy Cochrane, vice chairman of the committee, the Forum is planning to produce personalized Christmas cards.

"The idea is that people bring us their own designs or pictures and their own wants and we will print it up for them and put their names on them if they want," Miss Cochrane said. "Or if someone knows what they want but can't draw it, we'll design it for them the way they want it."

Miss Cochrane said that the cards will be sold for $3 for 8. "Some people may think that's kind of high, but it's only 13 cents a card and you can't buy personalized cards for that. Plus these will have your own design on them, so they'll be exactly what you want."

For information on ordering personalized Christmas cards, Miss Cochrane can be contacted at 634-2781, or Vince Curtisswell at 634-2781.

The Corner

The network Mall
740 Higuera St.
San Luis Obispo

The Corner Girl

Applications for the 1972-1973 California Assembly Internship Program are now available in the Placement and Financial Aid Office of this college. The program, which is a joint effort between the State Assembly and California Colleges and Universities, has operated for the past 14 years in serving the following purposes:

To provide training in the process of legislation and public policy formation for graduates and graduate students.

To provide assistance to the members and committees of the State Assembly as a supplement to the staff services already available.

To foster research on the legislative process.

The program is open to anyone who has completed at least one year as a graduate student in a recognized college or university.

A limited number of students will be chosen according to the program's requirements for a B.A. or B.S. degree by September 1, 1972 will be eligible for consideration. Applicants are accepted from all major discipline areas of study.

Legislative interns serve as full-time assistants to the Assembly, performing a variety of assignments which include such tasks as research and report writing, contacting the Placements and Financial Aid Office, Room 313 in the Administration Building. Johnston College, an ex-
In an excellent display of early-season wrestling last Thursday, Cal Poly defeated the Mustangs 36-17 in the Men's Gym. You read right. The event was the third annual mirror meet, and the Poly men edged the Mustangs.

Head Coach Vaughn Hitchcock, who lost the Rada, felt the meet was successful in setting the goals he set for it. "I was pleased with the performance of all the wrestlers. Their condition was good for this point in the season, and their skill has developed somewhat faster than anticipated."

Hitchcock also noted that this was the first time for many of the wrestlers in college competition to be between 800 to 1,000. "All 38 wrestlers showed good poise on the mat. That is important in a championship competition."

Missing from the lineup was Joe Nigos, who did not wrestle for personal reasons.

Gary McBride, showing excellent form, defeated Mustangs' Mike Wassum at 126 pounds. Cal Poly wrestler Larry, 1971 NCAA runner-up, was defeated by 3-1. The referee was Lee Torres, a championship-caliber wrestler at Poly last year, who is new to the officiating game.

In one of the best matches of the night, Rick Crossland majored by decision to Danny Johnson at 177. His opponent clipped Frank Ballard 6-4, at 167. The exhibition at the same weight, and 177, was won by George from Oregon, out-wrestled Wayne Parker 13-4.

The next chance to see the Mustangs will be Dec. 3 when they take on a tough Oregon State team. Rick and Paul Lovelace were tied in the third period of the second match when Eamon twisted a knee, thereby dropping the match by default.

At 134, it was Mike Wasmund downing Jon Morgan 5-1, and the exhibition at the same weight ended in a draw as Tom Robak defeated grapes for a single tally.

Jon Morgan's famous brother, Larry, crushed Howard Zin 13-4, on an exchange of take-downs (Morgan) and escapes (Zinc). Larry, 1971 NCAA runner-up, was wrestling at 142.

Glenn Anderson, another place-winner at the nationals last year, defeated Dan Da Silva in the 150 division, 6-1, getting a near-fall in the second period.

At 168, Aby Cook dropped Bruce Leon, 6-4, in a controversial call at the buzzer in the match at 167. Pat Farmer got a take-down against Ross Day for a victory of 3-1. The referee was Lee Torres, a championship-caliber wrestler at Poly last year, who is new to the officiating game.

"The Association," says Chaffee, "is not actually a ski club. We are not politically oriented, we have no meetings, no officers, and are most certainly nonvindictive. We're students and recent graduates working for college students across the country."

Any college, graduate school, or professional school student is eligible for a Student Ski Association membership. He may purchase a "Student Ski Card" for $8 through many campus bookstores, local ski shops, and mail-in forms on campus bulletin boards. College ski clubs also sell Student Ski Cards to increase their membership and to raise funds - this year's list of participating ski areas has increased by fifty over last season to a total of 170.

On weekdays, such as over semester break, a student can purchase more than pay for his Student Ski Card the first day he uses it. Weekday lift ticket savings alone usually run between $2 and $5. Student Ski Association, Box 308, West Dover, Vermont, 03086.

STEREO WEST

Few people can afford to spend more than five hundred dollars on a stereo system. Consequently, it was our goal to find the best possible system we could offer for around this price. The combination of components we chose makes a great stereo system - even at the total regular price of $905.75. Stereo West if offering this system for an amazing $539. Read the details - then come into Stereo West for a demonstration: You'll dig it, for sure. The Marantz 782 Hi-Track elliptical cartridge, which has long been known as a good value for $49.95 - and a favorite among professionals.

STEREO WEST

- There are two 10" woofers and one 3" unit. There are two 10" woofers and one 3" unit. A 3" high frequency driver makes for clear, vibrant highs. These speaker systems will handle up to 60 watts - when you really want to get it on. The Altec system comes in a large [25x12x12] deep oiled walnut cabinet and is priced regularly at $179.95 each. To play your records, the Garrard SL75B is a good match for this system. It features damped, visous cueing, precise tracking and other features found only on the top three Garrard models. The Garrard changer, with base, sells regularly for $115.95. Also included in this system, and equally important, is a Shure M-91E Hi-Track elliptical cartridge, which has long been known as a good value for $49.95 - and a favorite among professionals.
The Pant Works

the largest selection of Jeans, Pants and tops on the central coast. Including those hard to find goodies you can only get in the city. Prices from supercheap to Extra low.

Network Mall
San Luis Obispo

Snow Report
544-SNOW

All the local spots will be OPEN during Thanksgiving Holidays
Stop by MOUNTAIN SPORTS for all your skiing needs

All New Rentals

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Item</th>
<th>1 day</th>
<th>2 days</th>
<th>5 days</th>
<th>7 days</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>K-2 ones</td>
<td>$4.50</td>
<td>$7.50</td>
<td>$10.00</td>
<td>$12.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skiis &amp; Poles</td>
<td>$1.50</td>
<td>$2.50</td>
<td>$3.00</td>
<td>$3.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trapper boots</td>
<td>$1.90</td>
<td>$3.80</td>
<td>$4.60</td>
<td>$5.20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Children's skis</td>
<td>$2.00</td>
<td>$3.00</td>
<td>$4.00</td>
<td>$4.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Children's boots</td>
<td>$1.30</td>
<td>$2.60</td>
<td>$3.80</td>
<td>$4.20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Demo Skiis</td>
<td>$0.50</td>
<td>$1.00</td>
<td>$1.50</td>
<td>$2.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rossignol, Fisher, Head, K-2</td>
<td>$8.00</td>
<td>$10.00</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gloves</td>
<td>$1/day</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The cost of the 1st Rental or Demonstration usage may be applied toward the purchase of the same or similar skis.