Mini Grants Awarded

Eight grants in Cal Poly's Mini-Grant program totaling $10,000 have been announced by President Robert E. Kennedy. These grants, which were developed in May and were reviewed by the Innovative Instruction Coordinating Committee as well as a special staff committee, included proposals for innovative instructional approaches, faculty development, and special instructional resources which would have a direct influence upon the improvement of instruction and efficiency.

As President Kennedy stated, the program "gave us an opportunity to focus a number of small projects on one concept, such as Career Resource information development and dissemination, each covering a different aspect, but all together the whole is greater than the sum of the parts." Twenty-seven proposals were submitted, each one for funding not to exceed $2,500.

Four of the grants will have a direct relationship to the development of the new Career Resources Center. Clyde Hostetter (Director, IMP) will develop a multimedia presentation using slide/tape and or filmstrip modes to acquaint potential users of the Resource Center with the innovative resources available. A proposal submitted by Dr. Don Morris (Associate Dean, Continuing Education) will create a university-wide approach to cooperative education on the campus and coordinate the program with the Career Resources Center. Two grants will go to the Counseling and Career Resources Committee to develop a profile of the "successful" Cal Poly graduate and to develop resources which will be available to students using the Career Center.

Dr. Robert Levison (Education Department) has been offered a grant to develop career guidance and education materials for the sixth grade which will be coordinated with student teaching. Three grants will go to areas and disciplines which are developing career opportunity inventories and internships for students. These grants will go to Dr. Allen K. Settle (Political Science Department), Herschel L. Apfelberg (Graphic Communications Department), and Dr. Daniel E. Krieger (History Department).

The awards, which are for implementation during the current academic year, call for periodic reports and evaluation to seek out worthwhile materials and procedures which can be applied to other areas of university instruction and to programs which directly relate to students' career choices.

SUPERVISORS' COURSES ANNOUNCED

Donald L. Shelton (Director of Personnel Relations) has announced that two training courses are to be offered to campus supervisors during the Fall Quarter. Both courses are sponsored as part of the Specialized Training Program and coordinated through the university's office of Continuing Education. Extension course credit is being offered on an optional basis to those enrollees willing to pay $12 for each of the two unit courses. Those first-line supervisors interested in participating in the course should contact their dean or division head for additional information.

The Affirmative Action for Supervisors course is designed to develop an appreciation for the concept of Affirmative Action and to acquire an awareness of the interrelated issues. This course, which will be coordinated by Ernest C. Miller (Business Administration) and Smiley E. Wilkins (Affirmative Action Coordinator), is scheduled from 1-3 pm on Fridays during the Fall Quarter in the new Health Center conference room.

Owen Servatius (Business Administration) will be the instructor for the Effective Supervisory Action course. This course is designed to aid first-line supervisors by exploring all aspects of supervision. Specific emphasis will be placed on areas and problems which confront supervisors at Cal Poly. This course will be offered on Fridays from 3-5 pm in the new Health Center conference room.

NEW WITHHOLDING RULES REVEALED

James R. Landreth (Director of Business Affairs) has announced that recent legislation allows for the claiming of a different marital status and different number of tax exemptions for California withholding tax than is claimed for Federal withholding tax if an employee so chooses.

E lecting special California filing versus regular filing has the following differences:

1. Special filing allows the employee to claim Head of Household marital status for California tax only. The employee cannot claim the one special withholding allowance or exemptions for age 65 for self or spouse for California tax; 2. Regular filing does not allow the employee to claim Head of Household filing status. California and Federal filing status and number of exceptions must be identical.

Questions regarding special California filing should be directed to the Payroll Services office, Ext. 2605, where the revised W-4 form is available for implementation of the change.
